LYN SMITH WIDOW FACES QUIZ

JURY QUESTIONS CHIEF LAIRD ON SKIDMORE VISITS

Hales Him to Court in Contempt Action.

Chief Lester J. Laird of the county highway police spent almost two hours yesterday before the special federal grand jury which is investigating gambling. He testified after he had been directed by Judge Charles E. Woodward of the federal district court to tell the jury "candidly and frankly" about his visits to bosses of the gambling syndicate and about a $5,000 bank deposit.

Chief Laird was taken before Judge Woodward as a balky witness on a grand jury presentment for contempt, a legal process the grand jury takes when it is dissatisfied with the answers of a witness to its questions. If, following direction by the court to answer truthfully, a witness still fails to satisfy the grand jury, it may submit a further request that he be held in contempt of court.

Declines to Comment.

Laird went before the grand jury at 2:45 p. m. and emerged at 4:30, saying he had no comment to make. Whether the grand jury was disposed to regard his testimony as an improvement on that given previously was not known.

Sensational charges as to the intimacy of Laird's association with William R. Skidmore, reputed collector and fixer for the gambling syndicate, and William R. Johnson, the syndicate's operating chief, were made in the presentment to Judge Woodward by E. Riley Campbell and Lawrence J. Miller, assistant United States attorneys in charge of the grand jury inquiry.

The presentment stated that Chief Laird had visited Skidmore in his junk shop headquarters at 2840 South Kedzie avenue twice a week for more than four years, since he became chief of the highway police. It also stated that he had made frequent visits to Skidmore's palatial Pine Tree farm near Pistakee lake in McHenry county.

Escapes Questioning of O'Brien.

The highway chief won't have to answer any embarrassing questions from his boss, Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien—at least for the time being. O'Brien said so last night.

"Why, I can't talk to him about his testimony before the grand jury," said the sheriff. "That testimony is secret.

"Maybe I can get a look at the presentment in a day or so. Then I'll go into the situation. We've got to look into it. I can't let this go by unnoticed. But I certainly don't want to run counter to the grand jury."

Sheriff O'Brien said he knew nothing of Laird's alleged intimate association with Skidmore and Johnson. The first he knew of it, he said, was when he read in the newspapers of the jury's presentment.

Answers Termed Improbable.

"His answers [to grand jury questioning] were inherently improbable and untrue," Campbell told Judge Woodward. "When asked what he talked about on his visits with Skidmore, he replied that he merely said, 'Hello, how are you?' and talked about general subjects."

The presentment asserted that Laird had made at least six visits to Johnson's country estate near Glen Ellyn and had ridden Johnson's thoroughbred saddle horses often. It related that Laird explained these visits with the statement that he had taken a ride into the country, found himself near Johnson's estate, went in without anybody's invitation, and rode the horses without asking anybody's permission.

As to the $5,000 bank deposit, made in cash on April 18, 1935, six months before Laird became highway chief, but while he was a lieutenant in charge of the Morton Grove station, Laird told the grand jurors that it came from his salary.

"We submit that his salary was not sufficient for such currency deposits," the presentment stated.

Later Explanation Reported.

It was understood that after being admonished by Judge Woodward, Laird returned before the grand jury with the explanation that the $5,000 came from a business transaction.

Laird and Sheriff O'Brien were interrogated about gambling in the county last September by the county grand jury. Laird stated at the time that he was "going to continue to enforce the laws against gambling." The grand jury, at the end of its term, turned in a presentment that stated that enforcement of the gambling laws was a sham.

ASK STATEMENT ON WHY HORNER CANNOT TESTIFY

Coroner's Inquest to Open Tomorrow.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 25.—Sangamon county's investigation of the strange death of F. Lynden Smith, state director of public works and former campaign manager for Gov. Henry Horner, was marked by two new developments tonight.

Mrs. Marian Smith.

Coroner W. L. Dragoo disclosed that he will question Smith's widow, Mrs. Marian Williams Smith, privately in his office here tomorrow morning. The coroner also announced that he will ask Dr. Nathan Rosen, Gov. Horner's personal physician, to explain why the state's chief executive cannot attend the inquest, which will convene here Wednesday afternoon.

These developments came after Coroner Dragoo had announced earlier that he would take a private statement from Mrs. Smith at the home of a sister in Pontiac. She has been in seclusion there to all except relatives and a few intimate friends since Smith's body was found in a bathtub in a Springfield hospital on March 9.

Explains Change in Plans.

Dragoo said his plans were changed by Elmer Nafziger of Springfield, who is the attorney for Mrs. Smith, as he was for her husband. Nafziger called him, the coroner related, and said Mrs. Smith would come to the coroner's office instead.

"If she answers my questions satisfactorily, under oath and before a stenographer," said Dragoo, "she will not be required to appear at the inquest." In response to a question he said there was nothing unusual in such a procedure. "It is like taking the deposition of an injured person unable to appear at an inquest," he said.

The coroner's inquest, Dragoo said, will cover Smith's reported attempt to commit suicide with a butcher knife in his Springfield home two days before his death. But, the coroner added, the investigation will not delve into facts behind Smith's statements that he feared for his life because he "knew too much."

Horner Angle a Surprise.

Dragoo's disclosure that he would seek an explanation from Dr. Rosen regarding the inability of the governor to attend the inquest came as a surprise. The coroner has made no formal request for the appearance of the governor, whose impaired health forced him to relinquish his intention of seeking a third term.

Dragoo even vetoed a suggestion from one of his advisers that Gov. Horner, as Smith's boss in public office and in politics, would be a pertinent witness if the governor were able to appear before the jury or make a deposition.

Wants to Avert Politics.

"I don't want to get mixed up in a political mess," said Dragoo, who is a Republican seeking reelection with the help of Democratic friends. Speaker of the House Hugh W. Cross, a Republican, has charged Democratic officials with trying to hush the investigation.

Relatives at Pontiac have said that Mrs. Smith is too ill to appear in public. There were reports that she visited her Springfield home for a few hours last week with Paul Sparks, manager of Smith's Pontiac lumber company, and with Mrs. Sparks.

A quarrel with Gov. Horner dispatched Smith to Florida on Feb. 5 for a two months' political exile—a two month leave of absence with pay during the primary campaign. On the eve of his departure the former Horner campaign manager said he had told the governor that he [Horner] was not physically and mentally well enough to carry thru his announced candidacy for a third term.

Records Placed in Vault.

On the morning of his departure Smith emptied his files in his office and in his home of his records as a campaign fund collector from state employés, from highway contractors, and from others doing business with the state. Since his death, it has

A DROP OR TWO OF HIS OWN MEDICINE

Sues Comedian Bob Burns on Kidnap Charge

Los Angeles, Cal., March 25 (AP).—Bob Burns, film and radio comedian, and others were sued for $70,000 today by Daniel W. Hoge, who charged they were involved in a plot in which he was kidnaped and forced to sign a denial Burns had stolen the affections of his wife, Millie.

Bob Burns.

Hoge, middle aged engineer, alleged the defendants had him kidnaped from his Wilmington home Dec. 29, 1938, and taken to a downtown office, where he was forced to sign a statement releasing Burns from all stolen love charges. He said he was forced to sign a similar statement releasing Paramount Pictures from responsibility.

The other defendants included Paramount Pictures, Inc.; Jacob H. Karp, Paramount attorney; ten John Does and two Jane Does.

"This Is Crazy," Says Burns.

"I think the guy has lost his mind, this is so crazy," Burns commented when informed of the suit.

Burns recalled Hoge went to Paramount officials about a year ago threatening a suit.

"Paramount lawyers went to the district attorney's office," Burns continued. "The district attorney's men or somebody brought Hoge downtown to find what it was all about.

"I wasn't there myself, but they told me he broke down and cried, saying there was nothing to it. Then he signed a paper admitting it. Later he came to me and apologized."

Acquainted in Chicago.

Burns said he first knew Hoge in Chicago in 1916. "Years later," Burns said, "Mrs. Hoge came to my home one night and told my wife [Burns' first wife, Elizabeth, who died in 1936] that her children were hungry. We gave her $5. Then I didn't hear anything from Hoge until two or three years ago, when he went to my agent threatening some suit or other."

A copy of the release which Hoge claimed he was forced to sign was included in the suit. It read in part:

"For good and valuable consideration . . . I do release Bob Burns . . . from all manner of action by reason of my claim that Bob Burns alienated the affections of my wife, Millie Bernice Hoge, which claim has been vehemently denied by Bob Burns and which claim I do hereby declare to have been without foundation and unjustified in fact, and which claim I do hereby withdraw and agree never again to assert."

Additional Threat Alleged.

Hoge charged that when he was released he was told he had better forget the incident under threat of "further injury and imprisonment." He said he had lived in constant fear for 14 months and suffered a nervous disorder.

Burns, who made the "Bazooka" famous on the radio and screen, married his secretary, Harriet Foster, in 1936. A daughter was born to them in May, 1937.

SENATOR CALLS FOR FREEDOM OF ENTERPRISE

Outlines Stand on Election Issues.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—Calling for the liberation of individual enterprise from the restraints imposed upon it by the New Deal, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, one of the leading candidates for the Republican nomination for President, came out tonight for the old McNary-Haugen plan of farm relief which was defeated by Presidents Coolidge and Hoover.

In a radio address, intended particularly for the Republican electorate of Wisconsin, the senator outlined his position on the issues of the forthcoming presidential election. It was the only speech he will make before the Wisconsin primary a week from tomorrow in which Senator Vandenberg is pitted against District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York in competition for delegates to the Republican national convention.

Regimentation Plan Rejected.

Vandenberg rejected entirely the New Deal scheme of raising the prices of farm products by regimented restriction of the production of five commodities. He denounced the subjection of farmers to foreign competition under the Hull reciprocal tariff treaties. He agreed that farmers must have income parity with industry, but he demanded that it be parity on all crops instead of five only. He assailed particularly the exclusion of live stock and dairy products from the New Deal farm relief plan.

While advocating continuation of soil conservation payments, Senator Vandenberg objected to payment to the farmers of "direct subsidies out of a bankrupt treasury." Agriculture, he said, wants a natural income providing cost of production and a fair profit.

"My own view," he said, "is that it needs the two price system to achieve this goal—an American standard of price for that portion of its crop domestically consumed, and the world price for its exportable surplus; and this will come when the well-known McNary-Haugen formula is modeled down to date."

Provided Equalization Fee.

The McNary-Haugen bill, vetoed twice by President Coolidge, on advice of Mr. Hoover, then secretary of commerce, provided for the payment to the farmer of equalization fees representing the difference between the domestic and world price.

Senator Vandenberg said that not even the seers can foretell the determining issues of the 1940 presidential election. The paramount issue, he said, might prove to be the third term, if President Roosevelt be renominated, or it might be the war, if "our national policy heads us into foreign entanglements and into other peoples' wars."

Free Enterprise, Free Men!

Aside from these contingencies he expressed the opinion that the controling factor in the contest will be the public state of mind which believes that New Deal regimentation, dictatorship, and antagonism to private enterprise have stalled recovery.

"No factor," Senator Vandenberg concluded, "will be more conclusive than the Republican party's ability to write a platform which is clear and explicit in its formula, and to find seasoned leadership which leaves no room to doubt the dependability of the program.

"To sum it up, it is my view that the fundamental stake is free enterprise, free institutions, and free men. It involves economic recovery, American style. It involves the restoration of maximum individual liberty of action, maximum state and local self-goverment, and a renewal of the constitutional limitations which have made us the world's greatest representative democracy."

TEXT OF SPEECH

Following is the text of Senator Vandenberg's address:

"I am asked tonight to answer this question: 'From a Republican viewpoint, what will be the determining issues in the November elections?'

U. S. Air Lines End a Full Year with No Deaths

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The commercial air lines of the United States this morning completed one full year of operation during which they flew approximately 87½ million miles without a fatality to any passenger, crew member, or other individual. The last fatal accident occurred at 2:40 a. m. on March 26, 1939.

This is a safety achievement never approached by any other transportation medium in recorded history. It indicates, according to actuaries, that it has been safer to fly than to walk. And the most remarkable feature of the record is that it has been accomplished not by one air line, but by all the country's 20 domestic air line operators.

More Flips in Operation.

Furthermore, during the period from March 26, 1939, to March 26, 1940, the commercial air transport companies had more planes in operation, flew more miles, carried more passengers and more mail, and completed a higher percentage of scheduled trips than at any other time in the 14 year history of commercial aviation in the United States.

While exact figures are not yet available, it is estimated by air line authorities that the lines carried 2,025,500 passengers during the fatality free period. In the best previous 12 month period, that of 1938, the lines carried 1,343,427 passengers. For the period from Jan. 1, 1939, to Dec. 31, 1939, there were 1,877,700 passengers carried, but much of that fiscal year is included in the safety year.

During the safety year the air lines carried nearly 10,000,000 pounds of express—nearly 3 million pounds more than in 1938. The postoffice department calculates air mail on the basis of "pound miles." A pound mile represents the transportation of one pound of mail one mile. Nearly 18 billion pound miles of mail were flown during the safety year. For the year 1939 the total was 16,975,623,012 pound miles, and in 1938 it was 14,850,000 pound miles.

417 Lives Lost Since 1927.

In the entire history of commercial air transportation in the United States—beginning in 1927—only 417 persons have lost their lives. This number includes ground crews, flying crews, passengers, and all other fatalities connected with operations.

Railroads of the United States have several times operated for periods of a year or more without passenger fatalities—but there have always been crew deaths or other deaths within the period.

The last air line accident was that of Braniff Airways at Oklahoma City, Okla., following motor failure at takeoff. Eight persons were killed and four were injured. It was the first accident in which a Braniff passenger was injured in more than 10 years of operations.

LINER MAURETANIA REACHES CANAL ZONE ON SECRET MISSION

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, March 25 (AP).—The 35,739 ton British liner Mauretania anchored tonight in Cristobal bay and is expected to pass thru the Panama canal tomorrow.

The great ship, which sailed under sealed orders from New York five days ago, was dark except for her running lights. British agents were silent concerning her destination, but it is believed she is en route to Australia for use as a troopship.

The liner Queen Mary, which left New York a day after the Mauretania, also is believed destined to serve Australians as a troopship. The Queen Mary is too big to go thru the canal and if en route to Australia probably will go around the Cape of Good Hope.

WPA TORCH DEATH CONFESSION TOLD BY PROSECUTOR

Rockford, Ill., March 25 (AP).—Assistant State's Attorney William Gates said today that a WPA worker had confessed that Frank L. Fahlbeck, 42 years old, whose body was found in the ruins of his cottage March 8, had been burned to death deliberately.

Gates said the confession was made by Frank Knoll, who told him that he had poured kerosene over Fahlbeck as he lay in a drunken stupor and then set fire to him. Knoll implicated his brother, Ed, 42, and Marcus Henebry, Gates said, but both men denied the story.

Knoll's confession, as reported by the assistant prosecutor, was that the four men, all employed by the WPA, had been on a drinking spree and that three of the men had taken $7 away from Fahlbeck. In an ensuing fight, Fahlbeck collapsed and the three took him home. They thought they had killed him, Knoll said, so they decided to burn the evidence.

Gas Adds New Terrors to Life in Campus Bath

Baton Rouge, La., March 25 [Special].—Louisiana State university faculty members who went without their baths today weren't traditional absent minded professors. Indeed, they were careful professors, who were avoiding the pitfalls blamed upon an absent-minded plumber.

The absent minded plumber hooked a gas line to a water main on the university campus, if he's really the fellow responsible, and then things began to pop. Press a button and you had an explosion. Poppity-pop-pop-pop!

Wall Paper Ripped Off.

The first thing to pop was a piece of bathroom equipment. The blast blew off the wall paper and ripped loose the door. Springing to his feet in confusion, the astonished householder raced downstairs and telephoned the fire department.

Then he ran out upon the lawn, and, finding himself somewhat warm, turned on the garden hose in his excitement. When the firemen arrived flames, not water, were pouring from the nozzle. The man, hoping to soothe his frazzled nerves with a cigaret, had lighted a match, which ignited the gas that was streaming thru the hose.

Convinced that the man's seemingly preposterous story was true, the firemen hurried back to their station to begin an investigation.

Blast Punctuates Warning.

They warned every one about being on the qui vive and staying out of the bath tub. But another explosion in a neighboring house blew a bath tub 50 feet in the air.

That was enough. The water was shut off, and those who had not willingly given up their day's bath were compelled to.

The theory of the absent minded plumber was the most popular one. There were some who thought that gas from one of the oil wells on the university campus might have found its way into the water main. No one suggested student pranksters.

Denmark Prohibits Sale of Almost All Necessities

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 25.—The Danish government tonight prohibited the sale of practically all necessities. Most shops will be forced to close tomorrow. Parliament has been summoned to legislate new taxation before sales are resumed.

BRITAIN FORBIDS WAR CAPTIVES TO USE NAZI RADIO

LONDON, March 25.—British prisoners of war are forbidden to broadcast messages to their wives or families over the German radio in an order issued today. Aviators, as well as members of other services, were instructed to refuse to comply with an order, request, or invitation to talk on any subject if the Germans ask them to broadcast.

The use of the German radio to transmit messages was forbidden in all circumstances. Prisoners of war were ordered to give only their names, ranks, or a number as required by international law. On no account are they to disclose the unit, branch, or formation to which they belong, the war office said.

Experience with international convention by which the names of prisoners of war are exchanged has shown that particulars of British prisoners in Germany reach the war office about three weeks after their capture, it was said. Authorities said long before that time families frequently have learned of the capture of Britons by hearing their voices over the German radio.

habit of choosing their own 'determining factors. Sometimes an unanticipated incident or a single, pungent phrase may unexpectedly dominate the popular emotions. 'He kept us out of war' lasted long enough—with only five months to spare—to elect Woodrow Wilson in 1916.

This Year Uncertain.

"No seer can penetrate the 1940 prospectus in this regard. Indeed, this year's campaign is peculiarly uncertain because of two unknown quantities. One is the undisclosed intention of the President respecting a third term. This issue might crowd out all others if it arises. The people might well conclude that perpetuated White House tenancy, contrary to 150 years of unwritten law, would menace the life of American democracy—remembering that Thomas Jefferson warned against such tenure, saying that under such circumstances the office 'will in fact become for life, and history shows how easily that degenerates into an inheritance.'

"The other unknown quantity is the war—an issue which could dominate all others if the people should conclude that our national policy heads us into foreign entanglements and into other peoples' wars.

"By next November either or both of these contingencies might be the paramount concern. I can well imagine a third term issue rising to this magnitude, particularly at a restless moment when dictatorship has democracy by the throat all around the globe. In such event the deadly, dominating phrase might be, 'If a third term, why not a fourth or fifth?'

Recalls Quarantine Speech.

"Similarly, if the war were to drift toward our involvement—say, for the sake of the argument, in the pattern of the President's famous Chicago speech in favor of 'quarantines'—the voters might forget all else. Then, despite our deep abhorrence of these alien ideologies, the monopolizing challenge might become—'Millions for defense, but not one man or dollar for war on foreign soil.' Or: 'Let's swap horses and stay on this side of the stream.'

"Of course, the war issue might work in reverse if the people were to conclude—despite the facts—that the President is our best peace insurance. But this only serves to show how speculative is this 1940 theme. I freely concede myself the supreme importance of this life and death issue, as I think my own propeace record proves. Our entry into another world war would swiftly plunge us into such rigid government controls—[the secret mobilization plans are ready right now!]—that our liberties would vanish over night; and our exit from the conflict, even tho victorious, would find us in the chains of home-made tyranny and bankruptcy.

Crowding Red Ink Danger Line.

"We are quite near enough to both without a war; which is to say, upon the one hand, we are already in the grip of 'government by executive decree' to an alarming extent, and, upon the other hand, the public credit is already crowding the red ink danger line of disintegration.

"Yes, in the shadow of our drift toward entry into another war every other issue would sink to insignificance—even the third term issue, unfortunately, as some of our best political calculators fully understand. Therefore, there is no certain answer to tonight's question until destiny unfolds. But I hope we may be spared any such decision; first, because of the horrible implications of the decision itself; second, because we cannot wait much longer to set our own house in order.

Must Save Democracy Here.

"The place where we must 'save democracy' is right here at home—before it is too late. We must not allow ourselves to be needlessly diverted. It is upon this theory that we shall be able to fix our minds upon our own unanswered internal necessities that I proceed briefly to respond to the question of the evening: 'From a Republican viewpoint, what will be the determining factors in the November elections?'

"The controling factor is a state of mind. It believes that in seven years the New Deal has created more problems than it has solved; that many of its pell-mell programs and devices are proven wrong, yet never will be corrected or withdrawn by the authors of these errors; that even its useful social-minded progress needs new management to make it work.

"This state of mind believes that the New Deal is at war with private enterprise and wants every multiplying, dictatorial control over life and livelihood in the United States; that this is not the route to economic health and to the normal reëmployment which is our prime necessity; that, on the contrary, legitimate private business must be emancipated to the task of creating new wealth and new jobs in the only way it can be done, American style.

Sanity in Government.

"This state of mind believes that sanity and solvency in government—and constancy of direction—must precede sustained recovery. It believes, too, that this administration is impatient of constitutional restraints and essential American traditions—all a part of today's deterring uncertainties—as evidenced by impatient attacks upon the courts; by the delegation of vast and unprecedented powers to the single authority of the executive; by the persistent subordination of state rights and home rule of federal despotism in essential matters; by irritated attempts to purge even its own partisans when they fall out of goose-step with the chief; by dangerous concentrations of power in Washington and, too often, a willingness to use public resources for the purpose of keeping in power [sometimes impolitely called 'playing politics with human misery']; and—last but far from least—by the willingness of third termites to lengthen the tenure of this supreme authority beyond all dictates of prudence, precedent and propriety.

"This state of mind is often Democratic as well as Republican. Right or wrong, there it is. A state of mind is the hardest possible thing to defeat. The burned child fears the fire. This is exhibit A in 1940 calculations. The country is ready for a change, but it wants to know that the change will be for the better. It is in no mood for blind reaction.

It Wants to Move Forward.

"It wants to recapture the solid things of yesterday, but it distinctly wants to move forward to better things tomorrow. It wants prosperity, but it equally wants to pass prosperity around. This state of mind will be controling in November in the degree that the Republican party proves that it is constructively prepared to forward march to better things for our whole people.

"One of the most important factors in this psychology of change is the growing national consciousness that we cannot spend ourselves into prosperity; that pump-priming is a ghastly failure in defeating a depression that has lingered longer in the United States than in any other major country on the globe; that these mounting deficits and debts—which now crowd the very ceiling of economic safety as well as the limits of the law—have got one day to be paid out of the sweat of our whole people [to quote the President himself in an earlier day].

40 Billions in Taxes.

"Listen! When the New Deal shall have finished its eight fiscal years, it will have collected 40 billion dollars in taxes—which is 44 per cent as much as all of its predecessors in 144 years from George Washington to Herbert Hoover. Even the eight Wilson years, including the world war, collected only 24 billions.

"But despite this colossal drain out of the pocketbooks of all our people, it was far from enough to pay the bills of these 'liberals'—'liberals' being those who are 'liberal' with other peoples' money. During its eight fiscal years, the New Deal will have spent 65 billion dollars, which is 58 per cent as much as all of its predecessors in 144 years. Even Wilson's eight years, including the world war, cost only 47 billions.

"So the New Deal will have run a total deficit of 25 billion dollars in eight years which is 5 billions more than the deficits of all other administrations in 144 years from Washington to Hoover. The net result is that the New Deal in eight years has run a debt equal to the entire net debt for the preceding 144 years, to say nothing of nearly 6 billions more in the guaranteed obligations of various federal corporations.

Youth Will Pay Fiddler!

"No wonder anxiety is in the air! No wonder revolt is in the offing! Manifestly this trend cannot go on much longer—no matter how rich we think we are. This expenditure—often unavoidable because it took the place of regular business activity which the New Deal anesthetized may have bought temporary relief in some quarters. But unemployment is just as big a challenge as it ever was.

"Four more such years would precipitate the very calamity which President Roosevelt himself did not hesitate to foretell in 1932 when our red ink was only a pale pink. We are charging our bills to the next three generations. It will be 2,000 A. D. before the last of them are paid. Talk about better days ahead for youth! Youth will pay the fiddler—tomorrow!

Calls for Cutting Expenses.

"What to do? Cut back expenditures as rapidly as possible—freely admitting that government must continue to supply relief until the capitalistic system can supply real jobs. Deny all new federal services and bounties—no matter how persuasive—until we have found a way to pay for the existing services and subsidies which we retain. Stop pump priming suicide. Give as much consideration to the man from whom you take a dollar as to the man to whom you give it.

"Above all, restore the national economic confidence which will permit American private business—stunned and stunted for eight sterile years—to produce the new wealth which will give us an annual income of 80, yes 100, billions. I agree with the President that when we are an 80 billion dollar country, many of our other problems will disappear. But I do not agree that you can make an 80 billion dollar country out of a 60 billion dollar country by spending the difference.

Finds Anxiety Over Meddling.

"Anxiety regarding debts and deficits is paralleled by equal anxiety about needless governmental meddling with business, and government competition with private enterprise, and disrupting government controls over commerce, and punitive attacks upon the profit system. If you want to know what has happened to us, just note how there has been relatively only a dribble of new investment for seven stagnant years, altho banks are bulging with idle money aching for a dividend.

"Issues of new corporate capital in all seven years from 1933 to 1940 have been only half what they were in the one year of 1929 alone. Eight billions in 1929! Only 371 millions in 1939; venture money is in a coma. Yet we have a frustrated, postponed need for more billions of replacements and expansions in private business than ever before in our history. Given a fair chance and a decent incentive, private enterprise will create the new wealth which will make us an 80 billion dollar country in six months. Our problem then soon might be how to control a boom.

Less Government In Business.

"We are not talking about a return to piracy in the market place. We are simply talking about giving legitimate business its chastened chance. We are talking about the natural effect of an administration which believes in private enterprise and which does not believe in political overlords and federal straitjackets and sometimes even in socialism itself.

"We are talking about less government in business and more business in government. This is not an attack, for example, on the purposes of the Security Exchange commission law. It is a demand for rational simplification of its process. This is not an attack upon the purposes of the National Labor Relations act, with its collective bargaining, which is here to stay. It is a demand for mutually fair amendments which—in the best interests of labor itself—will discourage needless interruptions to the continuity of profitable industrial production which must precede the continuity of profitable employment.

Would Eliminate Obstacles.

"It is simply a plea for the elimination of needless obstacles which impair recovery and reëmployment. Make no mistake; next November's state of mind will be thinking deeply upon this score.

"The accumulation of vast, floating powers in the executive—a concentration of power heretofore unheard of in the American system—not only multiplies these uncertainties that hobble business but also actually jeopardize the American constitutional theory of government. For example, the President—himself alone—can change the value of our money overnight. He can flood us with paper money any time he pleases.

Vandenberg Hits Gold Buying.

"Again, he can change our tariffs as he pleases [bounded only by a 50 per cent restraint], a constant threat to every protected industry and every protected job and every protected farm product in the land. All these floating powers must be recalled. Congress must resume its constitutional function.

"Yes, and speaking of monetary threats, we must quit buying all the loose gold and silver in the world at swollen prices—for no better purpose than to bury it in the ground at Fort Knox and West Point. This policy is as fantastic as it is dangerous. Incidentally, it directly aids the treacherous and ugly soviets at Moscow. Russia mines her gold at $12 an ounce, unloads it on us at $35 an ounce, and puts the profit in a treasury which threatens every decent ideal of western civilization.

Agriculture a Major Issue.

"Of course the plight of agriculture is going to be a major issue. Despite all the public money poured into it and despite the restless succession of one wishful device after another, agriculture continues in the doldrums. It is tired of patent medicines that never cure. It is tired of enforced scarcity under orders from Washington, enforced by swarms of policing agents. It is tired of competitive imports that hurt. It wants parity with industry and its fair share of the national income.

"Until it gets it there can be no sustained prosperity for anybody else. It wants parity for all farm crops—not just a favored five. It is ridiculous, for example, to omit live stock, milk, and eggs when they are larger in volume than any of the favored five. The dairy industry accounts for a fifth of our farm economy, yet it counts for nothing under existing parity.

"Yes, agriculture wants parity—not by direct subsidies out of a bankrupt treasury, but by a farm program which itself produces parity prices, as is entirely possible and highly proper. It wants the domestic American market for its own domestic production, free of competitive alien competition. It wants a continuation of soil conservation payments on a sound basis, but it wants all crops covered and not just the favored five. It wants easy credit, including reasonable crop loans in emergency. But instead of devices for more debt, it chiefly wants to get out of debt and into a natural income which yields cost of production and a fair profit.

Calls for Two Price System.

"My own view is that it needs the two price system to achieve this goal—an American standard of price for that portion of its crop domestically consumed, and the world price for its exportable surplus; and this will come when the well known McNary-Haugen formula is modeled down to date.

"Yes, the farmer is definitely part of this November state of mind. No one has a greater stake than he in the restoration of industrial prosperity because when his consumer customers generally can afford to buy his products on the scale essential to decent living for all our people, the farm problem will be immeasurably simplified. It is the same old vicious circle. United we stand, divided we fall—in our economics quite as much as in our national unity. The November question, of course, is just how 'united' the diverse and sundry victims of the New Deal will be, and just where they will 'stand.'

Asks Explicit Platform.

"Within the limits of this discussion, I have been unable to touch all the factors, from a Republican viewpoint, which will be influential in November. Indeed, no factor will be more conclusive than the Republican party's ability to write a platform which is clear and explicit in its formula, and to find seasoned leadership which leaves no room to doubt the dependability of the program. But I have indicated the general trend.

"To sum it up, it is my view that the fundamental stake is free enterprise, free institutions, and free men. It involves economic recovery, American style. It involves the restoration of maximum individual liberty of action, maximum state and local self-government, and a renewal of the constitutional limitations which have made us the world's greatest representative democracy."

Vandenberg Gives Figures on New Deal

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, last night made a radio speech in Washington in which he gave the figures illustrated above, comparing the tax revenue, the expenditures, and the deficits of the New Deal with the figures for all other Presidents.

GREEN RALLIES WOMEN TO END MACHINE RULE

Vows to Break Nash-Kelly and Statehouse Cliques.

Dwight H. Green, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, called upon the women of Illinois last night to lead the fight against machine politics and corrupt government.

In an address before a massmeeting of several hundred Republican women in the Hotel La Salle, Green declared that selection of candidates who can unseat the Kelly-Nash machine and the statehouse clique is the chief issue to be decided at the primary on April 9.

"The cost of state government in Illinois has increased 34 million dollars a year above the costs of relief and old age assistance since the Democratic party took office," the candidate continued. "The army of 38,000 pay rollers, the parole and Manteno scandals, and the disgrace of political slush funds all are inevitable by-products of our corrupt Democratic machines."

Charges Crime Protection.

After touching upon heavy taxes on both homes and businesses, the grip of politics upon the school system, and the scandals that have affected welfare institutions, Green went on:

"Crime and the underworld flourish because they are protected by men in high office. The April election of a mayor in Chicago saw the most brazen election thievery in its history. Court investigations daily show that an average of 40 votes a precinct of those examined were stolen from me and credited to Mayor Kelly.

"On election day the underworld paid its debt to the political machine. Mayor Kelly's gang spent four million dollars to beat me. Its thieves and thugs stole votes, intimidated decent citizens, and ran riot over the city.

"Well, what can the women do about it? Last April I had an opportunity to see the power of women in a political campaign. A definite part of the credit for the 638,000 votes I received must go to our women. The fight two weeks from tomorrow and in November is the same fight as that of last April.

Urges April 9 Housecleaning.

"We need more and more volunteer workers among the women and the men. An army of this kind is what a corrupt machine government fears. The women of Illinois can do their spring housecleaning on April 9 and put their party in order for a victory on Nov. 5."

Green declared that one of his first acts, if elected, would be to cut down the pay roll army of the state. Every department head would be ordered to make material reductions, he continued, adding he believed the savings would amount to from 15 to 25 per cent. This would be the first step toward redeeming Illinois from corruption, Green stated.

The candidate was introduced at the start of his speech—which was broadcast—by Mrs. Frederic Upham, Cook county chairman of the women's division of the Green campaign. She and Mrs. C. L. Silvis, the state chairman, presided at the hotel massmeeting.

Speaks in New Trier.

During the afternoon Green spoke before the Women's Republican club of New Trier township in the Winnetka community house, 630 Lincoln avenue in the suburb. It is vital that business be freed from fear, he asserted.

"Prospective business men and industrialists fear that under present political conditions they will fail and lose everything," Green stated. "They know that if they succeed a large part of their profits will go for taxes."

The candidate declared also that he will do all possible to take the sales tax off food, but emphasized that he is not promising it can be done immediately after the election. If a constitutional amendment is needed it will take time, but he will give the proposal his full support, Green promised.

GREEN FULFILLS 1939 CAMPAIGN PLEDGE HE MADE TO MRS. GREEN

The wish of Mrs. Dwight Green, wife of the candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, for a tiny gold elephant to attach to her charm bracelet, was gratified at a mass meeting of Republican women in the Hotel La Salle last night, altho not in the way Mrs. Green expected it.

In an interview published Sunday, Mrs. Green said her husband had first promised her the elephant last year when he was running for mayor. It was announced the Cook county Green volunteers had read the item, and bought the charm.

The elephant was presented to Green on the platform.

"Is my face red!" exclaimed the candidate. "I hope this will make everything all right." He stepped to his wife's side and gave her the elephant and a kiss, to the accompaniment of enthusiastic cheers and handclapping.

The "Windsor-Knot" Tie

WE'LL SHOW YOU HOW TO TIE THIS NEW KNOT FOR WIDER SPREAD COLLARS

Designed for his own use by the Duke of Windsor to fill the wider opening of the widespread or "rugger" collar (the men's equivalent), this new knot, tied differently, is an important innovation. The secret of how to tie it was obtained from the Duke's London shirtmaker, and has already been taken up by the immaculately dressed international set.

SHOWN HERE is one of the new ties at $1.50 we specially designed in a longer length to wear with the "rugger" collar and Windsor knot. Come in and we'll show you how to tie it.

GREEN BACKED BY DEMOCRATS, WOMEN CHARGE

Oak Park G. O. P. Unit Sees Traction Tieup.

Charges that Dwight H. Green's candidacy for governor is interwoven with and directed and financed by the Kelly-Nash-Horner Democratic machine were made yesterday by the Republican Women's organization of Oak Park.

Mrs. John K. Russell.

An eight page report read before the club's executive board by Mrs. John K. Russell, chairman, at the Oak Park Arms hotel contained the charges. The report was adopted by the board members. Mrs. Russell cited 15 individuals by name and declared she had "unimpeachable" documentary proof of her charges.

"I am willing to lay this proof before Mr. Green at any public meeting he wants to arrange," she said.

Absolves Lyons of Connection.

Mrs. Russell prefaced the report by telling her board: "You understand that Mr. Lyons [Richard J. Lyons, Green's opponent for the Republican nomination] has nothing to do with this."

She then explained that the investigation was undertaken because many women had come to her wondering "why the Democrats are so interested in getting Mr. Green elected."

One of the primary interests of the Democratic faction supporting Green, she charged, is to insure the perpetuation of Democratic control of the traction and utility interests in Chicago and Illinois. Green, she reminded them, once was attorney for the Chicago and West Town railways operating street car lines and buses in 23 Illinois communities.

Mrs Russell referred to Mr. Green as a "double dealer" and told the board that the "slightest Democratic tieup should disqualify any Republican for leadership in our party."

Once Favored His Candidacy.

The Oak Park club formerly looked with favor on Green's candidacy, she said. The favor was dimmed, she added, when its attention was called to reports that [1] Green's 1939 candidacy for mayor was sponsored by the Kelly-Nash Democratic machine, [2] Green's attacks upon Thomas J. Courtney in the mayoralty primary were to insure the renomination of Mayor Kelly, and [3] Green's present campaign for governor was inspired and is being directed by the Democratic machine.

"We commenced inquiring into the facts," she continued, "and to our amazement discovered that not only the Green headquarters, but that most of his wards, are supervised by Kelly-Nash pay rollers and bi-partisan politicians who have openly supported Edward J. Kelly for renomination and reëlection as mayor of Chicago."

She then named the 15 individuals.

"Julius Klein," she said, "one of the principal directors of the Green campaign for governor, has for four years played a prominent part in the Horner Democratic state administration and the local Kelly-Nash machine. He is now coöperating in the Green management, and is also aiding in the campaign for the renomination of James Slattery for the United States senate.

Cites Whalen Associate.

"Ernest Klein, his brother, and a Green supporter, has been a political ally of Gov. Horner and is associated in the lucrative political insurance business with James Whalen, the Kelly-Nash sanitary district trustee.

"Solon Fieldman, one of Green's leading political advisers, acted in a similar capacity in the 1939 campaign for the renomination and reelection of Mayor Kelly.

"Edward Dempsey, a brother of John T. Dempsey, Cook county campaign manager for Mr. Green, is now and for four years has been a Kelly-Nash city hall pay roller.

"Aaron H. Payne, Green leader in the 2d ward, is associated with William L. Dawson, formerly a Republican, but now a Kelly-Nash Democratic committeeman in that ward. Both campaigned for Mayor Kelly's reelection.

Call Cressys Payrollers.

"Morton S. Cressy, Green leader in the 6th ward, and his son, Morton S. Cressy Jr., both are payrollers on the Kelly-Nash school board.

[Morton S. Cressy Sr. denied Mrs. Russell's charges. He said his last connection with the school board was 20 years ago when he was trial attorney under the Republican regime of Charles Francis, board attorney. Cressy said his son, a chemical engineer in Bound Brook, N. J., hasn't been back to Chicago since his graduation from the United States naval academy in 1927. Cressy, a candidate for Republican ward committeeman, said that neither he nor his son had ever held a Democratic office.]

"Ald. Arthur G. Lindell, Green leader in the 9th ward, and Emil F. Kuester, his secretary, who also is in charge of the Green campaign in that ward, actively supported Mayor Kelly for reëlection and organized public meetings for him. See?" [She waved a pink circular, advertising such a meeting.] "Mr. Kuester is a Kelly-Nash pay roller in the city hall.

"William J. Balmer, Green leader in the 17th ward, was financed in the last mayoralty campaign by the Kelly-Nash machine and militantly supported Mayor Kelly.

"Joseph T. Gubbins, leader in the 36th ward, is a Kelly-Nash pay roller who actively supported Mayor Kelly." Here she flourished a photostatic copy of a check for $190.40 issued to Gubbins by the city on Jan. 21, 1939. The check was indorsed, "Joseph Gubbins, 4567." She said the number indicated he was a city employé.

Charges Machine Financing.

More alarming, she said, are disclosures alleged to show that the Green campaign is financed by the Kelly-Nash machine.

In this connection she cited Benjamin F. Lindheimer, Kelly-Nash leader on the south side for many years and formerly Democratic chairman of the Illinois commerce comsion, and his brother, Horace, a Democratic leader in the 5th ward. Benjamin "openly and brazenly" collects funds for the Green candidacy, she said, and Horace also has raised money for Green.

[Horace Lindheimer, former county treasurer, denied last night that he is supporting Green and or raising funds for him. "I am and always have been a Democrat," Lindheimer stated. "I am supporting Lieut. Gov. John Stelle and his Democratic running mates, Edward J. Barrett for reelection as auditor and Benjamin S. Adamowski for United States senator. After the primary I will support the entire Democratic ticket as I always have done."]

Fears Higher Utility Bills.

William J. Froelich, personal attorney for Walter J. Cummings, former Democratic national treasurer, and Charles Lorch, former Horner Democratic head of the state purchasing division, also are raising money for Green, Mrs. Russell said. Lorch, she charged, is soliciting it from firms and corporations doing business with the state.

The Democratic clique, she asserted, is seeking "to continue its bipartisan control over utilities thru Mr. Green's nomination and election." This, she concluded, "means higher gas, electric, and water bills for the people of Illinois."

Hit on W-G-N

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Gertrude Niesen singing in W-G-N studio last night.

Miss Gertrude Niesen, singing star of the stage and screen, made a hit with studio and radio audiences in her appearance on the "Romance in Rhythm" program on W-G-N and the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system last night.

Her first offering was "It's a Blue World," and her next, an encore, was "Yodelin' Jive." The capacity audience in the W-G-N studio showed a lively appreciation of her talents.

Also featured on the program was Fred Lowery, blind whistler, well known to radio audiences. He, too, made a big hit. The program, which lasted from 9:30 to 10:15 p. m., was directed by Harold Stokes. Horace Heidt's orchestra played.

LYONS APPEALS TO LABOR; BROOKS SPEAKS OF WAR

Republican Running Mates Deliver Several Talks.

Richard J. Lyons and Wayland Brooks followed each other last night on various platforms in the city and county. Lyons is seeking the Republican nomination for governor; Brooks is a candidate for the United States senatorial nomination.

Lyons' theme at most of the meetings was labor, work, and lots of it at good pay for all; no racketeering against business; prosperity for both the worker and the employer under Republican administrations of state and nation.

Dwells on War's Horrors.

Brooks dwelt on war and its horrors, a subject he knew first hand back in 1917 and 1918 when, he said, all the male members of his family who were old enough enlisted. He was a marine, wounded and decorated, but he didn't mention that.

"I want to be in the senate to vote 'no' next time," Brooks told an audience in Belmont hall, Belmont and Clark streets, where a few minutes previously Lyons had appeared.

"I have a labor program for myself as governor of Illinois," Lyons told that audience. It is as follows:

1. To secure for every employable industrial worker a job in productive enterprise at the best possible wage, under the best possible working conditions, and on a schedule of hours that will make satisfactory living possible for the worker and his family.

"2. To develop whatever forms of organization of workers will best enable them to protect and promote their interests in the industrial process.

"3. To stimulate a progressive increase of the contribution of labor toward an improved efficiency of American industry.

"4. To give voice to the judgment of American workers in the determination of public policies which give direction to our national economy."

Charges Democratic Support.

Lyons said his opponent, Dwight H. Green, was financed in the 1939 mayoral campaign by "Democratic money" advanced by Walter J. Cummings of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. He added that Green had been on the Democratic pay roll from 1933 to 1935.

Brooks preceded Lyons at meetings held at Wicker Park hall, Damen and North avenues, and at the Portage Park school, Berteau and Lockwood avenues. Brooks spoke at a nonpartisan meeting in Maywood sponsored by the Illinois League of Women Voters.

"We are faced with two dangers," Brooks said at the Wicker Park hall meeting, "centralization of power and war. If we keep the government we have we can work out any problem we have. If we get into the war we may lose our present form of government.

"Any participation in the wars of Europe will further increase our national debt and disturb our economic processes. This will end our economic system of free enterprise and our political system of representative self-government, for it is always easy for an iron-fisted control to take command of a war weary people."

STATE HOSPITAL WORKERS BUY $5 DINNER TICKETS

Moline, Ill., March 25 [Special].—Some 300 employés of East Moline State hospital received letters today containing tickets at $5 a plate to a Jeffersonian dinner to be held in a hotel here April 6.

Employés in the lower wage brackets were sent only one ticket each, but others received two or three. The letters were signed by John Leonard of Moline, an employé of the state department of sanitation and one of the local leaders in the Hershey-Slattery primary campaign. He said the dinners are for all Democrats and the profits, if any, will go into the campaign fund.

Most of the hospital employés are under civil service, but stated they feel obligated to purchase the tickets.

Policeman Is Discharged for Drunkenness on Duty

Engaged

JOAN WARNER.

Hollywood, Cal., March 25 (AP).—Twenty-one-year-old Joan Warner, daughter of Film Actor H. B. Warner, today announced her engagement to Ned Crawford, son of Mayor C. C. Crawford of Santa Monica. She said they probably would be married sometime in August.

JUDGE SABATH, 70, HONORED FOR 30 YEARS ON BENCH

Judge Joseph Sabath of the Superior court was honored on his 70th birthday last night at a banquet in the Palmer House. The affair also marked the completion of 30 years of judicial service by Judge Sabath in Cook county. He was elected to the Municipal court in 1910 and was elected to the Superior court in 1916, where he has since become noted for efforts to reconcile couples seeking divorces.

Judge Joseph Sabath.

Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th] was chairman of the dinner, which was sponsored by the Decalogue Society of Lawyers. Among those who extended greetings to Judge Sabath were Judge Cornelius J. Harrington, chief justice of the Circuit court; Donald S. McKinlay, chief justice of the Superior court, and John J. Sonsteby, chief justice of the Municipal court.

ELECTION BOARD ORDERS 192,455 NAMES OFF LIST

The board of election commissioners last night ordered 192,455 names stricken from the voting lists in Chicago and nine suburbs under its jurisdiction.

Following a general home-to-home canvass of registered voters made by election clerks on March 13 and 14, the board sent out 196,541 suspect notices. The notices were sent where the voters could not be found at the addresses given, or where the clerks doubted they lived at the addresses given.

Yesterday the board's offices were crowded with voters responding to the notices, and 4,086 of them were certified, leaving 192,455 uncertified. Of these, 189,774 were in Chicago and 6,767 in the country towns. Figures were not available last night as to how many voters are eligible for the primary as a result of the slash in the lists.

ABSOLVE CRASH IN DEATH.

A coroner's jury yesterday found that Carl E. Johnson, 24 years old, 1112 Cleveland street, Evanston, a golf professional, died of natural causes and not of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

MODERN SYSTEM ANNOUNCED FOR TAX ACCOUNTING

Toman Tells 3 Point Plan to Speed Up Work.

County Treasurer John Toman yesterday announced a three point plan to modernize bookkeeping methods in his office, including provision for speeding up distributions of tax receipts to the county's 460 taxing bodies. The revisions, based on recommendations of an advisory board of county officials, will take effect April 1. They are as follows:

1. Distributions of current tax receipts will be made the day after taxes are received in heavy collection periods, instead of two or three days later, as at present. Delinquent tax receipts will be distributed once a month instead of irregularly. Sometimes distributions of delinquent payments have run three to six months apart in the past, Toman said.

2. A new department will be set up to record all reductions in tax levies authorized by the board of appeals and the courts. These reductions will be reported monthly to taxing bodies, making it possible for them to estimate accurately their probable tax receipts in drawing up their budgets.

3. The treasurer will report monthly the amount of tax penalties collected for each year along with delinquent tax receipts for the year. Penalty receipts are now reported only in a lump sum.

Toman said shifts in employés and bookkeeping machinery will make the changes possible without hiring any new employés.

Gen. Haller Addresses Chicago Polish Groups

Gen. Jozef Haller, minister without portfolio in the Polish government in France, arrived in Chicago yesterday from South Bend, Ind., on his good will tour of the United States. He addressed the Convention of Polish Journalists in the Lewis hotel, 1166 Milwaukee avenue, in the afternoon. Last night he attended a reception of the Polish Veterans' association at 1239 North Wood street.

G. O. P. UPSURGE STANDS OUT IN TRIBUNE'S POLL

Dewey and Garner Show Surprising Strength.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Tables on 3,365 more Democratic straw votes cast in Chicago in THE TRIBUNE'S poll are published today. The ballots in today's compilation were collected Saturday at 55 street intersections. Results of the Republican straw vote taken at the same spots were printed yesterday.

The straw poll is being taken by THE TRIBUNE to sound sentiment on outstanding candidacies in both parties as the state-wide April 9 primaries approach.

Results to Date.

Today's tables embrace 10,021 Democratic straw votes collected in Chicago at 135 street corners. Results of the Democratic poll so far in Chicago may be summarized as follows:

Roosevelt	2,996	92.47	8,887	91.00
Garner	244	7.53	879	9.00
Governor—
Hershey	1,662	58.19	4,874	56.79
Stelle	1,194	41.81	3,709	43.21
U. S. senator—
Slattery	1,537	54.99	4,695	55.03
Adamowski	1,258	45.01	3,837	44.97
State's attorney—
Courtney	1,773	60.29	5,343	60.28
Gutknecht	1,168	39.71	3,521	39.72

The vote on Roosevelt and Garner, who are entered in the preference primary, continues to be a most interesting phase of the poll.

Garner Getting 9 Per Cent.

With no organization and no campaign, Vice President Garner is polling 9 per cent of the straws cast by Democrats in Chicago. President Roosevelt, who is backed for the third term by the Democratic machines of Chicago and Springfield, which placed his name on the ballot for a third term without written consent, as required by law, increased his percentage a point or two in yesterday's batch of returns, but for the 10,021 Democratic Chicago straws so far compiled it is 91 per cent.

Compared with the Republican vote, the Democratic poll on presidential preference appears to many politicians even more interesting. It gives an apparent indication of the continued swing toward the Republicans, which was evinced in the state election of 1938 and the mayoralty of last year. Altho the law against switching from one party to another in primaries may hold this swing to a minimum on April 9, G. O. P. leaders assert that THE TRIBUNE poll points strongly to a big swing to the Republican ballot in November, when the voter will be free to register his choice between parties.

Dewey Running High.

Altho this is only a primary, in which parties make nominations, and not an election, the comparative results of 17,603 ballots cast in Chicago by Republicans and Democrats show the following tendency:

		Pct. of Pres. straws, Rep. and Dem.
Democratic—
Roosevelt	8,887	52.21
Garner	879	5.16
Republican—
Dewey	7,256	42.63
Total straws on Presidential preference	17,022

The disparity between the total straws and the total presidential votes results from the fact that some straw voters do not mark for every office.

Compared with Election Figures.

Altho the figures are on primaries, it may be interesting to compare them with a few election figures, which apear to indicate growing Republican support.

In 1936, President Roosevelt, in his race with Gov. Alf. Landon, polled in Chicago 64.40 per cent of all votes cast at the fall election. He got 66.91 per cent of the votes cast for Roosevelt and Landon alone. Landon's share was 33.09 per cent.

In what politicians deem a remarkable show of strength, Dewey is now getting 42.63 per cent of all preferential ballots so far compiled in Democratic Chicago, and President Roosevelt 52.21.

Light Shed on Factions' Fight.

The results of the straw poll so far appear to throw interesting illumination on the factional feud among the Democrats.

In Chicago so far, Harry B. Hershey, supported for governor by the Democratic machines of Chicago and Springfield, got 56.79 per cent of the Democratic straws. John Stelle, lieutenant governor, opponent of Hershey and the Nash-Kelly-Horner machine, got 43.21 per cent of the Democratic straws in Chicago.

In the battle for nomination for United States senator, Benjamin S. Adamowski, who is opposing Senator James M. Slattery, the machine choice, is doing a shade better in Chicago than his teammate Stelle. Adamowski got 44.97 of the votes cast in Chicago so far.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, opposed by Municipal Judge John Gutknecht in the primaries, got 60.28 per cent of the Democratic Chicago straws, and Gutknecht 39.72.

In tomorrow's tables THE TRIBUNE will present some results of the straw poll downstate and more Chicago straws collected at street corners and theaters.

Returns from Tribune Primary Poll

Below are additional Chicago tabulations in the Democratic column of the straw vote being taken by THE TRIBUNE on the principal candidates of both parties in the Illinois primaries of April 9. Besides the presidential preference test the candidacies being canvassd are those for governor, United States senator, and [in Cook county] state's attorney.

STELLE TAUNTS SLATTERY WITH $25,000 IN BOX

Quotes President on Official Conduct.

East St. Louis, Ill., March 25 [Special].—Lieut. Gov. John Stelle tonight brought into the Illinois Democratic primary campaign the subject of the safe deposit box from which United States Senator James M. Slattery said he withdrew $25,000 to be invested in public utility stocks.

Stelle is seeking his party's nomination for governor on the insurgent ticket while Slattery is the regular slate candidate for nomination for the senatorship, which he now holds by appointment of Gov. Henry Horner.

Stelle and his two campaign associates, Benjamin S. Adamowski, candidate for senator, and State Auditor E. J. Barrett, who is seeking nomination, spoke here in the auditorium of the city hall. Stelle and Adamowski also delivered radio speeches.

First Attack on Slattery.

It was in Stelle's talk in the city hall that he mentioned Slattery. He discussed his own opponent, Harry B. Hershey, and Hershey's sponsors as he has done in the past, but the attack on Slattery was new.

"There is the incident of the strongbox," he said, "and there is the little matter of the $25,000 that was in the strongbox.

"These are things for which the people of Illinois demand an explanation. They have received a lot of unfavorable newspaper publicity. Even under the voluminous coat tails of the President, the silhouette of the strongbox points like an accusing finger at the candidacy of Ben Adamowski's opponent for the senate.

"I have waited to talk about this incident until we came to East St. Louis because Boss Kelly of Chicago saw fit to come to your city and tell you that the only issue in this primary is Roosevelt.

"If Mr. Adamowski's opponent is running upon the principles of President Roosevelt it should be interesting to the citizens of Illinois to know the President's attitude in connection with public officials."

Reads from Roosevelt's Findings.

He then read at length from the findings of Mr. Roosevelt as governor of New York in proceedings before him for the removal from office of a sheriff of New York county. A part of the Roosevelt quotation read:

"As a matter of general sound public policy, I am very certain that there is a requirement that where a public official is under inquiry or investigation, especially an elected official, and it appears that his scale of living or the totals of his bank accounts far exceed the public salary which he is known to receive, he, the public official, owes a positive public duty to the community to give a reasonable or credible explanation of the sources of the deposits or the source which enables him to maintain a scale of living beyond the amount of his salary."

In his radio speech Adamowski referred to the Pendergast machine scandals in Missouri.

"When we analyze the downfall of that machine," he said, "it is easy to understand Boss Kelly's espousal of the federal administration at Washington. If you folks had the background of the mayor of my city you'd hug Uncle Sam."

CITE COMMUNIST FOR CONTEMPT OF DIES COMMITTEE

Refuses to Identify User of Roosevelt's Name.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—James H. Dolsen, a Pittsburgh communist, was cited for contempt today by the Dies committee investigating un-American activities. The citation was issued when Dolsen refused to disclose the identity of the individual who had given the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt in obtaining a membership booklet in the communist party of the United States.

James H. Dolsen. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

A report of the existence of the booklet containing the President's name caused some excitement in the White House. Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early announced that it was inconceivable that the document was anything but a forgery. He dispatched a secret service man immediately to investigate.

Assumed to Be His Own.

The booklet containing Mr. Roosevelt's name was found in Dolsen's residence in Pittsburgh by a Dies committee investigator. There were no other communist party credentials in Dolsen's possession and the Dies committee assumed that Dolsen had given President Roosevelt's name as a pseudonym to place upon his own party card. The use of an alias is a common practice among communists.

Dolsen steadfastly denied that the credentials were his own. Mr. Roosevelt's name had been given by a communist in Pittsburgh, he asserted, but he repeatedly refused to identify the man.

"I advised against the selection of President Roosevelt's name," he told the committee. "I thought it was bad because I knew Mr. Roosevelt was not and never would be a member of the communist party."

Traveling Soviet Agent.

The shaggy haired Dolsen alternately was belligerent and placatory. He admitted he was a charter member of the communist party. Born in San Francisco in 1885, he obtained a partial college education at Beloit college and at Northwestern university. In obtaining a passport he gave his legal residence as Evanston, Ill. He traveled extensively as a soviet agent from 1925 to 1936, editing a communist newspaper in China, performing "educational" work in the Philippines, visiting Germany, France, and Russia.

Dolsen returned to the United States about three years ago. He obtained a position with the adult educational project of the Works Progress administration in Pittsburgh, teaching WPA workers such subjects as trade unionism. He denied that he had taught communistic principles.

AIR LINER CARRYING 24 HIT BY LIGHTNING BOLT; LANDS SAFELY

Billings, Mont., March 25 (AP).—Lighting struck the right wing of a Northwest Air Lines plane carrying 21 passengers and a crew of three west of Helena today. The plane continued to Billings, where it landed safely. The damage was slight.

Pilot A. F. Olson said the bolt seemingly "appeared from nowhere," as no electrical storm was visible and radio reception had been good.

The fabric covering over the right aileron, which is the movable part of the wing used in turning the ship, was burned. The passengers transferred to another plane in Billings and continued the flight east.

Latest Navy Sub Launched 2 Months Ahead of Time

Portsmouth, N. H., March 25 [Special].—The Triton, newest of the navy's submarines, was launched here today. It was two months ahead of schedule as a result of speeded production since the war in Europe started last September. The Triton is a 1,475 ton craft 300 feet long.

The Story of Mrs. Adamowski Is Told in Single Word: Home

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

"This is my story."

Her Story Is Her Home.

Her "story" and her gesture of self-identification take in Benny, the comfortable room, the pleasant house, with its wide windows, Oriental rugs, books, and family pictures.

"There is appallingly little to tell about me, I'm afraid," sighs the wife of Benjamin Adamowski, aspirant to the Democratic nomination for United States senator from Illinois. "This is my small sphere. In the larger orbit of my husband's interests I am a silent partner."

Mrs. Adamowski has never made a campaign speech. The world of affairs has its attraction for her, but she confines her participation in it to observing and advising. She insists that her husband's achievements are entirely his own.

Her Talents Are in Homemaking.

"If I have any talents," she says, "they are the homemaking kind—cooking, sewing, crocheting, gardening. Ben is the public figure in this family. My job is to keep the home fires burning. And with a hard working husband, a lively 3 year old son, and a 14 year old high school girl to look after, it's a full time job."

The fourth member of the household is Mrs. Adamowski's young sister, Ann Kaiser, who came to live with her when their parents died three years ago.

Clubs? No, Mrs. Adamowski is not a clubwoman. She smilingly explains that she has never been able to work the free hours club meetings require into her time budget. Hobbies? Well, yes. But it's a reluctant confession. Some one else may think it's "sort of silly." However, since she's revealing all—her hobby is collecting salt and pepper shakers. The collection occupies half a dozen shelves in the library.

They're Childhood Sweethearts.

The Adamowskis are Chicago born and educated. Childhood sweethearts, they have been married seven years. The two families used to vacation on the Fox river at McHenry. He was 14 years old and she was 13 the summer they met. The friendship continued thru high school. Kathryn was Ben's girl at all the Lane Technical High school dances, and Ben was Kathryn's beau at the junior and senior proms at Austin High school. And it was the same story when he was a law student at De Paul university and she went to the Chicago Normal college.

Since their marriage they have carried out some of their dreams of distant places. They went to England on their wedding trip. Three years later they returned on a Shakespearean safari. There have been active vacations in the far west.

Last summer, with young Benny in tow, they went to Alaska. And as his mother laughs becomingly Benny pulls his special exhibit down the stairs from his nursery with strenuous maneuvering and mighty puffing. It's his own baby wolverine skin, and it's on Benny's expert authority that the big bad wolf can't hold a candle to it.

DO YOU RESENT CENSUS PRY? IF SO, SEAL REPLY!

Citizens who do not want to tell census enumerators how much wages or salary they received in 1939, or whether they earned $50 or more from other sources, will be able to give this information confidentially, George W. Schreech, the Chicago area's census manager, said yesterday.

Those who object to the questions will be handed a card on which to write the figures. The citizen then will seal the unsigned card in an envelope identified only with the number of the enumeration district, and hand it to the census taker. Schreech said 25,000,000 of the cards have been prepared for the census, which begins April 2.

COURTNEY SPLITS TOP BAR RANKING WITH DITCHBURNE

Report on State Attorney and Court Candidates.

Two candidates for nomination for state's attorney in the April 9 primary—Thomas J. Courtney, the Democratic incumbent, and Harry S. Ditchburne, Republican—are exceptionally well qualified for office, the Chicago Bar association committee on candidates reported yesterday.

Judge John Gutknecht of the Municipal court, another Democrat seeking the post, was listed as qualified, and the remaining two candidates, Erwin Cowen and Judge Oscar Nelson of the Superior court, Republicans, were described as not qualified.

Report on Judicial Aspirants.

The bar committee also reported on 55 Republicans and 22 Democrats who are seeking nomination in the primary for the 12 full six years terms on the Municipal court and the one two year term which will be at stake in the November election. Of the 55 on the G. O. P. ticket, 35 were considered qualified. Indorsement was withheld from the other 20.

Of the 22 Municipal court candidates in the Democratic primary, 14 were listed as qualified and 8 were refused indorsement. Among the candidates are 12 sitting judges, 10 of whom were called qualified. The two who were not indorsed are Judge Eugene L. McGarry and Judge Francis Borrelli.

McGarry Case Appealed.

Judge McGarry was relieved of bench assignments last December after he had been indicted in connection with alleged bail bond irregularities in his court. The indictment was quashed on a technicality, but the state's attorney's office has carried the case to the Illinois Appellate court.

Copies of the bar committee's report will be sent today to the 4,100 members of the association. Ballots will be included so the lawyers may record their votes for or against the nomination of individual candidates in a bar primary. Results of the balloting will be announced next Monday.

The committee's reference to each of the candidates is given in alphabetical sequence in the following list: ["R." denotes Republicans; "D." Democrats; asterisks mean incumbents.]

STATE'S ATTORNEY.

THOMAS J. COURTNEY, [D.]*—Factional party quarrels occurring during his second term in which he was subjected to bitter attacks and replied in kind have not checked his independence or diminished his courage to act. These have been unfortunate and a hindrance to the exercise of calm and deliberate judgment in the administration of the office. But in the face of difficulty he has maintained the integrity of his office. In administering the office for more than seven years he has demonstrated that he is a capable, vigorous, courageous, and independent public official and that he is exceptionally well qualified for the office.

ERWIN E. COWEN [R.]—He has had no experience in public office from which an accurate estimate of his capacity for the office of state's attorney may be obtained. We have come to the opinion, however, from the data before us, including our interview with him with respect to his candidacy, that he lacks the ability, experience, temperament, and capacity for office.

HARRY S. DITCHBURNE [R.]—He is courteous, able, and upright. He is a lawyer of broad experience in the prosecution of crime. He is energetic and positive in attitude but is possessed of a judicial temperament. He has earned an excellent reputation for integrity, fearlessness, and independence. He is exceptionally well qualified for the office.

JOHN GUTKNECHT [D.]—As a municipal judge for the last eight years he has demonstrated that he is painstaking, diligent, and intensely serious in purpose, especially in the Boys' court and in his efforts to reduce automobile and traffic accidents resulting from violation of law. He has been inexorable in his determination to stop the "fixing" of traffic arrests. He possesses unquestioned honesty, courage, and legal ability. Question has been raised as to whether he possesses sufficiently balanced judgment for the efficient conduct of the office of state's attorney. It is, however, our opinion that he is qualified for the office.

OSCAR F. NELSON [R.]—For many years politics and partisan political activity have been the controling ideas of his life. His experience as a practicing lawyer was limited. We regard him as not qualified for the office of state's attorney.

MUNICIPAL COURT.
For Full Term.

JUDGE STEPHEN ADAMOWSKI [D.]* —Judicial service characterized by diligent and competent attention to duties; well qualified.

CHARLES B. AIKEN [R.]—Capable young lawyer, but committee doubts adequacy of his experience to qualify for office at this time.

ALVA L. BATES [R.]—Man of integrity, lawyer of good reputation for ability, industry and conscientious attention to duty; fairly qualified.

RALPH CHARLES BLAHA [R.]—Fair in dealings, even tempered, has poise, ability and excellent reputation as to integrity; qualified.

JUDGE FRANCIS BORRELLI [D.]*—Having manifested lack of qualities essential to holding of judicial office, he should not be nominated.

OLIVER H. BOVIK [R.]—Does not possess the requisite qualifications.

JUDGE J. M. BRAUDE [D.]*—Has demonstrated capacity for judicial service and is well qualified.

EDWARD B. CASEY [R.]—In 1938, committee said he was well qualified, showed fitness on bench; finding readopted and commend him as well qualified.

JAMES W. COFFEY [R.]—Possesses poise, is conscientious worker and bears good reputation for integrity; qualified.

JUDGE JOSEPH DRUCKER [D.]*—Has shown diligence, industry and receptive mind; has demonstrated that he is qualified.

THEODORE F. EHLER [R.]—Former service as Municipal judge marked by courteous, patient, industrous, careful work; by ability, integrity and strength of character is exceptionally well qualified.

STEPHEN M. FLEMING [R.]—Bears excellent reputation for courtesy, industry, integrity and ability; qualified.

SAMUEL FOX [R.]—Diligent student of law, good reputation; lacks the breadth of experience requisite to qualify.

JUDGE GIBSON E. GORMAN [D.]*—Diligent in performance of duties; courteous and fair minded as judge; earned respect of bar; well qualified.

WILLIAM J. GRACE [R.]—In accord with canon of ethics concerning withdrawal of judges from partisan activity; in the main is qualified.

JOHN J. GRIFFIN [D.]—Honest, patient, open minded and possesses capacity for office; qualified.

JOSEPH F. HAAS [D.]—Should not be confused with Judge John F. Haas; is unfit for judicial office, should not be nominated.

JUDGE LE ROY HACKETT [D.]*—Work as judge has been in the main satisfactory; qualified.

GEORGE W. HANSEN [R.]—Reputation among lawyers and business men is good, but committee believes does not possess requisite qualifications.

JUDGE MATTHEW D. HARTIGAN [D.]*—Diligent, courageous, and faithful in performance of judicial duties; qualified.

WILLIAM H. HAYNES [R.]—Background of education and professional experience plus good reputation for courtesy, industry, legal ability and integrity; qualified.

WILLIAM E. HELANDER [R.]—Commendable previous service as judge, exhibited capacity and ability; is exceptionally well qualified.

SAMUEL HELLER [R.]—Previous judicial service commendable; honest, courageous, capable, industrious; well qualified.

JUDGE JOSEPH B. HERMES [D.]*—By judicial services has demonstrated is fairly qualified.

SAMUEL A. HOFFMAN [R.]—Has had varied experience as trial lawyer, but do not regard as qualified.

JOHN T. HOULIHAN [D.]—Young man of ability and promise; at this time regard experience as inadequate to qualify.

EDGAR A. JONAS [R.]—Public service of high order; in previous judicial service earned and received general commendation of bar; exceptionally well qualified.

WILLIAM EMMET JONES [R.]—By character and education qualified, but extent of experience limits qualifications at this time.

ANDREW D. JORDAN [R.]—Young man of ability and promise; at this time regard experience as inadequate to qualify.

JULIUS LEE KABAKER [R.]—Industrious, courteous, even tempered; trial experience active and of considerable extent; qualified.

JOSEPH C. KANAK [R.]—Does not possess requisite qualifications.

PHYLLIS M. KELLEY [R.]—Possesses integrity, industry and ability required; has demonstrated competency; qualified.

RAYMOND A. KINZIE [R.]—Possesses good education, fairly broad experience; answers to committee's questions, however, convince committee he lacks requisite temperament to qualify.

PERCY M. KNIGHT [R.]—Professional experience confined within rather narrow limits; not qualified.

ALVIN LANDIS [R.]—Lacks requisite experience to be qualified at this time.

SEYMOUR B. LEVY [D.]—Character and education quality, but extent of experience limits qualifications at this time.

MARX LOEHWING [R.]—Energetic, aggressive; qualities of temperament limit his capacity; lacking in essential qualifications.

THURSTON E. LUNDEBERG [R.]—Honest, courteous, energetic, alert; high standards of civic and professional service; limited extent of experience detracts from qualifications at this time.

MAX LUSTER [R.]—At end of judicial service in 1930, committee said he lacked requisite qualifications; no basis for changing that characterization.

JOHN H. LYLE [R.]—He suggested broadening and mellowing experience of last four years in private practice serve to make him more patient and tolerant than at beginning of his twelve years of judicial service; committee, however, reaffirms finding of 1936 that he lacks fitness.

JOSEPH L. McCARTHY [R.]—Previous six years of judicial service failed to receive general approval; diligent in performance of duty and sought to render good service; appears no reason for disturbing verdict in 1930 that he has not demonstrated requisite qualifications.

P. E. McCULLOUGH [R.]—To fair degree possesses requisite qualifications.

CHARLES F. McELROY [R.]—Man of integrity and lawyer of considerable experience; fairly qualified.

JUDGE EUGENE L. McGARRY [D.]*—Has demonstrated he is not qualified.

CHARLES F. McKINLEY [R.]—High regard for fine previous judicial service of 18 years; has demonstrated he is exceptionally well qualified.

HARRY J. MEYERS [R.]—Not qualified and should not be nominated.

WILLIAM L. MORGAN [R.]—Previous judicial service showed him punctual, industrious and conscientious; courteous and man of integrity; qualified.

THOMAS L. MURPHY [R.]—Possesses poise, legal ability, capacity; diligent, courteous, conscientious, adequate experience; excellent qualifications.

JUDGE HAROLD P. O'CONNELL [D.]*—Excellent judicial record; has stated frankly he would actively participate in local political campaign to support ward committeemen who supported him; committee and association do not agree with this view; otherwise exceptionally well qualified.

ANTHONY A. OLIS [R.]—Quiet in manner, courteous, bears good reputation for honesty; fairly qualified.

JUDGE FRANK M. PADDEN [D.]*—During 15 years as judge demonstrated fitness and received deserved commendation of bar; exceptionally well qualified.

HELMER C. PATTERSON [R.]—Painstaking and diligent, honest and reliable; qualified.

HARRY N. PRITZKER [R.]—Excellent educational background; unusual trial experience; by temperament, experience, ability, integrity, is well qualified.

WILLIAM J. REMUS [R.]—Considerable experience in practice, bears good reputation for honesty, ability, industry; fairly qualified.

H. B. RITMAN [R.]—Sincere, earnest, studious; good reputation for honesty; possesses requisite temperament and professional experience; fairly qualified.

JAMES G. SHERIDAN [R.]—Frank, energetic, capable, courteous; by temperament, mental alertness and legal ability is qualified.

BLAKE G. SMITH [R.]—Courteous, diligent, faithful in performance of duty; somewhat limited trial experience; fairly qualified.

JUDGE GEORGE B. WEISS [D.]*—Possesses poise, industry, good judicial temperament; conscientious, competent attention to duties; qualified.

HERMAN I. WEISS [R.]—Report in 1938 said he had good reputation, even tempered, fairly qualified; reaffirm that finding.

GERRITT W. WESSELINK [R.]—Excellent reputation for uprightness of character; tactful, has poise, legal ability and capacity; qualified.

MUNICIPAL COURT.
Two Year Vacancy Caused by Elevation of Judge Joseph Graber to Superior Court.

ALLAN B. BLOCH [R.]—Experience not been such as to qualify.

EDGAR B. ELDER [R.]—Man of integrity; showed ability, industry and conscientious attention to duty in public service; well qualified.

GEORGE L. GRIFFIN [D.]—Upright character, serious in purpose, even tempered, courteous, unusually active Municipal court practice experience; qualified.

ALBERT LANGELUTTIG [D.]—Unusually excellent educational background; temperament limitations and impulsive and overcritical judgment detract from qualifications; not qualified.

THOMAS S. McCABE [D.]—Good reputation for honesty, sound judgment, good legal ability, good citizenship; equitable temperament, courteous, adequate experience; qualified.

THOMAS A. McMANIGAL [D.]—Well regarded as to ability, honesty, temperament; experience not of sufficient breadth to qualify at this time.

GEORGE L. QUILICI [D.]—Good reputation for honesty; good legal ability, uniformly courteous, diligent, conscientious; qualified.

SAMUEL SHAMBERG [D.]—Appears to have necessary temperament and character but experience not yet adequate to qualify.

Improvements in Commercial Air Lines

Commercial air lines of the United States today completed a full year of operation without a fatality. Increased personnel in ground crews has been an important factor in setting this record. The air lines' improvement in the fields of maintenance, weather reporting, communications, and similar activities has helped to bring the safety record to perfection.

Injured in Crash

DOROTHY SINGLETON.

Hollywood, Cal., March 25 [Special].—The condition of Dorothy "Penny" Singleton, "Blondie" of the movies, was improved tonight at the Cedars of Lebanon hospital, where she is recovering from injuries received in a traffic accident. The actress may have received a spine fracture. Arthur Sparks, director of the actress' pictures and driver of the car which the pair were riding in, received cuts on the head.

SHOE REPAIRERS PROTEST WPA AID TO CHILDREN

Members of the city council police committee yesterday listened for more than an hour to James Fargo, president of the Master Shoe Repair and Valet Association of Illinois. Fargo sought a permit to allow his fellow cobblers to stage a protest parade around the city hall on April 3.

The association objects to a Works Projects administration project in the public schools, Fargo said. According to school board officials, the project has a cobbler in each of the 120 elementary schools, and last year they repaired more than 100,000 pairs of shoes with material furnished by the school children's aid society.

Fargo argued that the WPA did not use regular cobblers and that the repair jobs were of poor quality. The matter was finally taken under advisement after Ald. Harry Sain [27th] suggested that the committee make an investigation of the charges.

18 Seized in Handbooks Fined $5; 9 Dismissed

Eighteen men seized in raids on handbooks yesterday pleaded guilty and were fined $5 each by Judge John V. McCormick in the Jury court. Nine others were discharged because the police did not have search warrants in their cases.

11-4 COMMITTEE VOTE SENDS ANTILYNCHING BILL TO SENATE FLOOR

Washington, D. C., March 25 (AP).—The controversial antilynching bill was approved today by a 11 to 4 vote of the senate judiciary committee. This action sent the legislation to the senate floor.

Some southern senators already have given notice they are ready to talk the measure to death, if necessary, as they did when it came up previously. Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.], who has led opposition to the legislation, told reporters after the committee's overwhelming vote of approval: "We're going to resist it. The Mannerheim line will not even be a starter."

The bill already has been passed by the house. It provides fines and imprisonment for state officers who permit a lynching, and subjects state subdivisions to civil liability to lynch victims or their relatives.

SEEK TRACE OF VETERAN.

L. R. Benston, department service officer of the American Legion, yesterday was seeking to communicate with James Cooley. Benston has Cooley's honorable discharge certificate at department headquarters, 127 North Dearborn street and will turn it over to him on proof of identity.

They call in their secretaries and say: Send a box of Mrs. Snyder's to THESE: to my swell Aunt; to my sweet Mom; and Dad; to my swell pal Jim; to that plucky, spunky little file girl with the mumps; to my kid Sis; and send one to you; and one to somebody else, for SHE said she loved me . . . don't tell them that!

BUILDERS OF CHICAGO (27)

By CALEB

TO BUILD a great city is one thing—but to beautify, symmetrize and arrange its physique in some satisfying pattern of parks, streets, districts and transport units suited to future expansion is something else again! By 1907 this civic fact had dawned on a group called the Commercial Club—who accordingly developed a "Plan of Chicago," published and presented for the city's consideration in 1908.

The renaissance of beauty and order embodied in the World's Columbian Exposition gave instant impetus to the Chicago Plan Commission; and out of its unique activities—under leaders like Norton, Wacker, Burnham, Simpson and numerous others—has emerged a "city magnificent" which the visitor of twenty years ago would scarcely recognize.

Chiefly responsible for this transformation was the executive genius of the man longest identified with the Plan Commission—Charles H. Wacker. Born in Chicago August 29, 1856, he was excellently schooled, first at Lake Forest Academy and later in post-graduate courses at Geneva and Stuttgart. Returning from Europe in 1880, he joined his father in the firm of F. Wacker & Son, later the Wacker & Birk Brewing and Malting Co., where he was president until 1901.

On Charles D. Norton's resignation from the chairmanship of the Plan Commission in 1909, Wacker succeeded to the post. And the record of his vast achievements is written in a completely reorganized metropolis. For the Chicago Plan with which his energies were so long identified gave scope to such vast projects as a $60,000,000 Union Station; an $8,000,000 Wacker Drive, finished in less than contract time; the wide magnificence of new Outer Drives; Soldier Field and its Stadium; Field Museum, Shedd Aquarium, and Adler Planetarium; the $13,000,000 Centennial Bridge; Burnham Park, with 1,139 acres linking Grant and Jackson Parks; plus numerous street-widening and river-straightening operations involving millions.

Many other interests likewise engaged Wacker's time and talents—among them the Red Cross, the Chicago Council of Social Agencies, Association of Commerce, Art Institute and Forest Preserve Commission—but he did not relinquish active direction of the Chicago Plan Commission until two years before his death, Oct. 31, 1929.

Today, and for all time, his name is appropriately associated with the double-decked esplanade which, as one writer expresses it, "transformed the south bank of the river into a plaza." For his signal devotion to making Chicago architecturally as beautiful as it is physically immense, posterity's debt to him will remain incalculable.

LYNDEN SMITH'S WIDOW WILL BE QUIZZED TODAY

been learned these records were wrapped in eight packages and sent by a confidential messenger to the vault of Smith's Pontiac lumber company.

Attorney General John E. Cassidy, on returning from Washington, D. C., tomorrow, is expected to tell whether his inheritance tax men found these packages in the vault last week.

Other records Smith packed in a tan leather file case with double locks. He described these papers as his protection against being "framed" by his estranged political associates. They included canceled checks, correspondence, and memoranda of campaign funds disbursements, which he said were irregular, and of campaign collections, which he said would not bear the light of day.

In Hiding in Florida.

Lynden Smith installed a private telephone in his bedroom and, for further assurance of privacy in his communications, arranged to receive and dispatch telegrams thru a telegraph office in Orlando, Fla., 30 miles to the east. Altho an exile, he was keeping in touch with political developments in Springfield.

Smith carried his worries and his fears with him to his Florida retreat. He told a few intimate friends that he was afraid he would be slain. Since his death it has been learned he had secretly talked with federal agents about the incomes of some of his political associates and about deals between political leaders and labor organizers and certain business interests profiting from this relationship.

On Saturday morning of March 9, the day of his death, Springfield first learned that Smith had returned from Florida on the previous Monday night. He had been in hiding, first in his home here and then in St. John's hospital.

Develops Facts Slowly.

Coroner Dragoo's investigation developed the facts slowly, perhaps not always accurately and as yet not completely. Smith's body was found in a partly filled bathtub, his face submerged and the cold water running. The coroner's first announcement was that it was suicide by drowning.

The coroner engaged Dr. Walter Light, pathologist of St. John's hospital, to perform an autopsy. Dragoo quoted a preliminary report on the postmortem examination as saying the heart showed no indications of any condition that might have caused sudden death. This finding was later reversed in a report by Dr. Light and three other pathologists, two for an insurance company and one for the widow. This later report said that a coronary sclerosis, a heart ailment common in old age, was anatomically compatible with sudden death.

The Central Illinois Testing Laboratories examined Smith's vital organs for common poisons and found no trace of them.

ORDER BUSINESS AGENTS OF UNION TO TRIAL APRIL 15

Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Criminal court refused yesterday to quash indictments against two union officials charged with assault with intent to commit murder and mayhem. He ordered them to trial Apral 15.

The defendants are Joseph Kopke, 1845 23d place, and Harry Hlavacek, 1533 South Cuyler avenue, Berwyn, business agents of local No. 638 of the American Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

Coroner's Jury Calls Killing by Policeman Justifiable

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the death last Thursday of Ray Drumgoole, 40 years old, 800 East 63d street, a tavern singer, who was shot by Policeman Emmett Murphy when Drumgoole fled into a dark alley in an effort to avoid questioning.

Robber's Picture

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

A "camera trap" rigged by Plymouth, Mass., theater manager to catch thief took this picture. A suspect was arrested.

Plymouth, Mass., March 25 (AP).—A theater owner and his employé, after repeated invasions, so arranged a camera flash that it would photograph any one entering the office. Last night the burglar alarm sounded, and today on the strength of the developed film a young man known as Ernest J. F. Dupuis was arrested. He pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and larceny and was returned to the Shirley Reform school, of which he was a parolee, pending grand jury action.

JUKE BOX RACKET TERRORISM TOLD BY 4 OPERATORS

Four juke box operators, testifying before the grand jury yesterday, were reported to have supplied names and addresses of a number of tavern owners allegedly intimidated by hoodlums and racketeers seeking to dominate the industry.

Joseph McNicholas [top], George Pierantoni [center], and Carl H. Goertz.

There are 10,000 juke boxes—coin operated automatic phonographs—in Chicago. The operators whose testimony was heard have 325 machines installed in taverns and other gathering places. They were reported to have told the grand jury they had lost customers to two large concerns because of pressure by policemen, politicians, and hoodlums.

Named as the powers behind the dominating companies were Dennis Cooney, night club owner active in 1st ward politics, and Eddie (Dutch) Vogel, described as a former Capone man. The grand jury witnesses were Joseph J. McNicholas, 1616 Grayville avenue; Carl H. Goertz, 1809 Lawrence avenue; George Pierantoni, Wilmette, and Frank Coubal, 3013 South Christiana avenue. Coubal, who has 200 juke boxes, was not subpenaed, but volunteered his testimony.

Seek to Indict Mother in Courthouse Slaying

Assistant State's Attorney John Long will seek an indictment from the grand jury today charging Mrs. Orgo Tossavainen, 25 years old, of 734 Briar place, with the murder of Mrs. Mabel Buchanan, 43, of 1705 West 99th street. Mrs. Buchanan, operator of a licensed fostor home where Mrs. Tossavainen's daughter, Carmen Orgo, 4, was sent on a Juvenile court order, was fatally wounded in a corridor outside the courtroom by the mother last Wednesday.

BABY FOUND DEAD.

Robert Drath, 6 weeks old, was found dead yesterday by his father, Marx Drath, in their basement flat at 1473 Larrabee street. The baby apparently had smothered under a pillow.

CANADA DECIDES WAR ISSUES WITH BALLOTS TODAY

Life of Liberal Regime Is at Stake.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 25 (AP).—The fate of Canada's liberal government, which rode into power in 1935 with a record majority, hung in the balance tonight at the end of an eight week election campaign in which the conduct of the dominion's war effort has been the major issue.

Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, who dissolved parliament last Jan. 25 and summoned the election to silence critics who charged he prosecuted Canada's share of the war ineffectually, fired the last campaign broadside at tonight's traditional election-eve massmeeting in the capital. The voting will begin at 8 a. m. tomorrow and end at 6 p. m.

Political leaders, meanwhile, voiced anxiety lest many of the dominion's 6,600,000 eligible voters be kept from the polls tomorrow by snowstorms which have seriously hampered rural transportation facilities in the provinces of Quebec and New Brunswick.

Many Parties in Field.

Members of Canada's armed forces at home and abroad, numbering approximately 90,000 men, already have cast their ballots, but the result will not be known until April 1 or later.

The main question to be decided is whether the Mackenzie King government shall carry on or give way to a national government headed by Dr. Robert J. Manion, veteran Conservative party leader.

Altho 8 or 10 political parties are represented by the 672 candidates contending for the 245 seats in the house of commons, only the Liberals and the national government followers of Dr. Manion, who have dropped their Conservative label for this election, have sufficient nominees to obtain a majority.

Liberals Stand on Record.

Thruout the campaign the Liberals have stood solidly on the government's record, recounting the things accomplished in the first six months of war and comparing them with the progress made in the early months of the last war under a Conservative administration.

Manion's followers have branded the government as listless and inefficient, and have maintained that only a national government, organized without regard to party lines, can effectively coördinate the dominion's war effort.

Mackenzie King and his Liberals have steadfastly maintained they will take no part in the formation of a national government if deprived of a majority at the polls.

When parliament was dissolved the Liberals held 176 seats, the Conservatives, 39; Social Credit, 15; Coöperative Commonwealth Federation, 7; Independents, 2; United Reform, 1, and United Farmers of Ontario-Labor, 1. Four seats were vacant.

BANDITS WATCH MONEY DELIVERY, THEN STEAL $2,986

Two armed men yesterday took $2,986 in the robbery of a currency exchange at 820 Maxwell street, one block away from the Maxwell police station. They arrived a few moments after an armored car money truck had left $1,850.

Ralph Lavin, the manager, had not yet closed the safe when the robbers forced their way in behind Lee Roberts, colored, a porter who was bringing Lavin's breakfast. Shielding their faces with one arm the gunmen ordered Lavin and Roberts to lie on the floor without looking at the robbers.

Then they scooped up the money and fled. Witnesses obtained the license number of their automobile which was found to have been stolen.

GEORGIA FELONS BREAK OWN LEGS TO AVOID WORK

Dallas, Ga., March 25 [Special].—Four long term prisoners in Georgia's "Little Alcatraz," the prison camp for the state's hardened criminals, yesterday deliberately broke their legs to avoid working in the prison rock quarry, Warden Arthur Clay said today.

Clay said two of the men stuck their legs under the foot board of their double decker bunks and slid off, twisting their legs until the bones gave way. The others inflicted severe compound fractures by beating their legs with heavy pieces of stove wood, the warden said. The four were listed as Robert Laminack, 29 years old, serving a life term for armed robbery; Leo McIntosh, 23, serving a life term for murder; Lewis Voltz, 25, serving 30 years for stealing automobiles, and Robert Croker, 25, serving 40 years for robbery.

Warden Clay denied the rock quarry work was too severe. He added that "one or two" others of the 148 convicts at the camp sought to incapacitate themselves yesterday but failed. He said the injured men will "mend in about 10 weeks and then we'll put them back on the rockpile."

VOTE TO INDICT JOYRIDING COP IN AUTO DEATHS

Two true bills charging manslaughter were reported voted yesterday by the grand jury against Policeman Frank Hansen of Hazel Crest, whose joy ride in the town squad car on Feb. 21 caused the death of two men and injuries to himself, another man, and a girl. Bond for Hansen was set at $10,000 on each charge.

Hansen, after visiting a tavern and spending three hours there, drove at high speed past a stop light at Halsted and 95th streets, about 10 miles outside his patrol zone, and smashed into the car of William Knapp, 26 years old, 9963 Edbrooke avenue, a chauffeur.

Knapp was killed and Evan A. Flora, 39, of 170th street and Page avenue, Hazel Crest, who had spent the evening riding around with Hansen, died later.

Miss Eleana Ketola, 18, of 1217 East 55th street, a restaurant employé, and Peter Westra, 35, of 9458 State street, her escort, who were riding with Hansen and Flora in the police car, still are convalescing.

ROB COLLECTOR OF $165.

William Frankenberg, 28 years old, 2928 Wilcox street, an insurance collector, was robbed of $165 last night by two bandits in front of 4849 South Justine street.

SHAKEDOWN QUIZ PUT BEFORE JURY; ACCUSE 4 POLICE

The grand jury yesterday opened an investigation into charges that four detectives composing the police morals squad, with the connivance of a lawyer, operated a shakedown racket by arresting hundreds of men on unfounded sex charges.

Capt. John Howe, who conducted an investigation for Commissioner Allman, was questioned before the grand jury by State's Attorney Courtney, Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown, and Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney. He told of receiving complaints from numerous victims of the alleged racket and of investigating the circumstances of their arrest and detention, the manner in which they were put in contact with lawyers, and the disposition of charges against them. Howe was instructed to bring in as many of the complainants as he can find so that they may testify before the grand jury today.

The accused detectives are Francis O'Malley, 4441 Congress street, the squad leader; William J. Kearney, 1253 West 97th place; Edward Hickey, 237 South La Vergne avenue, and Elmer Johnson, 4042 North McVicker avenue. They have denied the charges, but have been suspended. Attorney Philip H. Goodman, of 188 West Randolph street, is under investigation by the Chicago Bar association in connection with the case.

GRABER REFUSES TO LET BRIN CASE OUT OF HIS COURT

Judge Joseph A. Graber in Criminal court yesterday denied a motion by Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin to transfer 10 remaining indictments against Sam Brin to Chief Justice John Prystalski, so that the cases may be reassigned to another judge.

Austin said the state wanted to test whether another judge would allow certain exhibits into evidence which Judge Graber, in Brin's trial last week, ruled were inadmissible.

Brin, a west side saloonkeeper, was acquitted by a jury on a charge of forgery in connection with the Municipal court bail bond scandal involving Judge Eugene L. McGarry, who now is sitting out his term in an empty courtroom. Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court has refused to assign Judge McGarry any cases.

"This court is not passing the buck," Judge Graber said in response to Austin's request. "These cases were assigned to this court, and will be tried in this court in accordance with the rules of evidence."

The judge then continued all the cases against Brin until April 29 at the request of the state.

Ounce of Prevention Beats Pound of "Cure"

Relief from the burden of constipation is what Joe Smith seeks in his medicine cabinet. It never occurs to him to seek the cause of his trouble, and find the "ounce of prevention."

Reproof is what he deserves and gets from Josephine his wife. "You don't eat right, old obstinate! You probably don't get enough of what doctors call 'bulk' in your diet. And that lack is one of the commonest causes of constipation. Now, if you'd eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN for breakfast every day, and drink plenty of water . . ."

Rejoicing is the only word to describe his response to this idea. Not only did he discover ALL-BRAN to be a crisp, delicious cereal—but in time it discovered for him a way to "join the regulars." Ask him, now, what he thinks of his "ounce of prevention"!

DANISH VESSEL SUNK; BRITISH CUT GERMAN LIFELINE

Patrol Outer Sea Route to Scandinavia.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 25 (AP).—The 1,146 ton Danish freighter Britta was reported to have sunk off the coast of Scotland this morning. Thirteen of her crew of 18 were reported missing. First reports did not give the cause of the sinking.

Meanwhile British warcraft in imposing force hovered on the fringe of Scandinavian territorial waters, apparently under orders to stalk or pounce upon every German merchant ship en route to or from the blockaded fatherland.

With three German ships knocked out in the last four days of intensified British pressure on Germany's outermost Scandinavian lifeline—one sunk by torpedo, one by shelling, and the third aground—Norway and Denmark again felt the sharp squeeze of unceasing war at sea.

Norway Protests to London.

The Norwegian admiralty announced that a protest against violation of Norwegian waters by British warships had been delivered in London. An Oslo communique charged two violations and said an inquiry was under way to learn if there had been a third.

Norway's protest stated that on March 21 a German trawler sailed into Hustad bay and asked for Norwegian protection against a British torpedo boat sailing within the territorial limit. On the same day, it was declared, a Norwegian vessel was escorting a German freighter when a British ship entered the territorial limit and signaled for the name of the German ship. The Norwegians refused to give the name and ordered the British to stand off, an admiralty communique said.

Baltic Lifeline Untouched.

British pressure on blockade runners in the North sea and in the Skagerrak and Kattegat entrance to the Baltic leaves untouched Germany's Baltic lifeline to Scandinavia, the route across the Baltic between Germany and Sweden's iron ore ports.

The narrow entrance to the Baltic, virtually impregnable to naval attack without violation of Danish or Swedish neutrality, stands as a barrier to any naval attempt to intercept Baltic shipping. Hence the British are forced to concentrate on Germany's outer Scandinavian lifeline.

British Silent on Protest.

LONDON, March 25 (AP).—Norway's minister to London has made complaints to Britain alleging infringement of Norwegian neutrality in recent days. There was no immediate British comment.

Woman Seized at Sea as Spy.

MADRID, Spain, March 25 (AP).—A French destroyer, tentatively identified as the Forbin, was reported today to have halted the Portuguese steamer Lima off Lisbon and removed a German woman passenger, Lola Schroeter, 20 years old, said to be wanted in France on espionage charges. A Portuguese girl, Maria Regina Soares de Mello, who said Miss Schroeter was her best friend, insisted on accompanying her aboard the destroyer, Lisbon reports said. The two boarded the Lima at Lisbon en route to Madeira.

Sun Spot Activity

How sun spots appear on the surface of the sun. The spots may have some connection with the disturbances in the earth's electric field and resulting disruption of communication.

An artist's conception of the theory that a cloud of invisible electrons ,which may be caused by sun spots, leaves the sun's surface and moves toward the earth.

Scientists think it possible that the earth enters the electron cloud or that the cloud enters the earth's gravitational or electrical field, the electrons encircling the earth in a complicated spiral.

The encircling electronic cloud is believed to cause the aurora borealis, disrupting communications.

A tremendous cloud of electrons which may have originated in sun spots is a possible cause of the electrical disturbances which disrupted telegraph, telephone, and radio communications in Chicago and most of the nation last week-end.

The interference began late Saturday night, reached its height Sunday, and was still being felt yesterday. Reception of short wave broadcasts from European capitals was unreliable yesterday. Cable and overland services were, however, substantially back to normal.

Dr. Otto Struve of the Yerkes observatory and Prof. Oliver J. Lee, head of the astronomy department at Northwestern university, agreed that the visitation of electrons possibly was connected with sun spots.

The cloud of electrons, said Dr. Struve, is believed to cause waves of electrical charges to be set up within the earth and in its atmosphere. He compared this to a great wave or tide swinging back and forth.

Two Earthquakes Jar Three Virginia Towns

Woodstock, Va., March 25 (AP).—Two earth shocks, 90 minutes apart, jarred three towns in the Shenandoah valley of Virginia tonight without causing any evident damage. Woodstock's residents, as well as Edinburg's five miles to the south, and Toms Brook's five miles to the north, felt the tremors.

BRITONS DEMAND MORE RUTHLESS WAR ON HITLER

Air Raids on Germany's Oil Plants Urged.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 25.—While the scene of the diplomatic war has switched from Finland to the Balkans, London newspapers today increased agitation for bolder and "more ruthless war measures."

The Daily Sketch's military expert said that voices in England and particularly in France are urging this step which, he asserted "analyzed means that we should either violate somebody's neutrality or begin to bomb German oil supplies and industries."

Reviews Hitler's Prospects.

The Sunday Times' expert reviewed the prospects of Adolf Hitler gaining complete economic domination of Rumania, giving Germany access to much needed oil. He stressed the possibility of Hitler refusing to wage a military war and relying on the hope that prolonged hostilities will ruin England and France financially and force them to capitulate thru economic pressure.

With demands increasing that England and France take over not only the diplomatic but the military initiative from Germany, stress hitherto laid on the effect of the naval blockade of Germany was played down. The inference was apparent that few believe the blockade alone is sufficient to win the war.

Newspapers also are conveying the impression that with peace in Finland time is working more for Germany than for the western powers and that quick, decisive action is necessary to break the deadlock and give them the advantage.

British Woo Rumanians.

The News Chronicle said Britain and France have stronger "cards in the Balkans than in the north, for in the middle east our allies and ourselves possess a large and powerful army to counteract the Nazi threats." The newspaper said the allies must give a Rumanian trade delegation—due in London this week—every assurance of support in rejecting "German coercion."

It was suggested that "by wielding our wealth as a weapon," England will be able to make a more attractive offer for oil and other Rumanian products than Germany.

Some British sources suggested bombing the Baku oil fields, another German source of supplies. However, it was said this probably would induce Russia to enter the war on Germany's side.

These sources advocated repeated air raids on German industrial areas, especially the huge synthetic petroleum plants at Leuna. They maintained that Germany would be unable to retaliate, owing to the lack of fuel, and would become a victim of the same kind of blitzkrieg [lightning war] she conducted against Poland.

FOUND DEAD IN AUTOMOBILE.

The body of L. R. Fletcher, 27 years old, of 6545 Union avenue, was found yesterday in his automobile at 143d street and Harlem avenue. Police said they believed death had been caused by carbon monoxide poisoning.

WESTERN FRONT CALM TO GO ON, SAY OBSERVERS

PARIS, March 25.—Altho the war is about to enter into its eighth month and opinion in Great Britain and France insists it be prosecuted with increasing energy, observers here do not expect any change on the western front for a long time to come.

The problem of the British and French is held to be to induce or compel their enemy to make a rash attack. Two means to this end are seen—to make the blockade effective or to organize a coalition of countries, or both. It is felt here that Hitler will attack neither the Maginot line nor the army in the near east until he has been forced to play his last card—decision by battle.

Today's British-French communiques follow:

Morning—"Quiet on the entire front. We took some prisoners in the course of a local engagement yesterday." Evening—"Local artillery actions at various points of the front. Infantry fire along the Rhine. Activity of both air forces."

HUNGARIAN CHIEF IS TOLD ITALY'S VIEW ON BALKANS

ROME, March 25 (AP).—Hungary's premier, Count Paul Teleki, surveyed the war's effects and prospects for southeastern Europe in a talk of nearly two hours today with Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano preliminary to an interview with Premier Mussolini tomorrow.

Count Teleki was understood in diplomatic circles to have sought information on Fuehrer Hitler's talk with Mussolini a week ago. It was believed that Count Ciano reassured him that nothing had been agreed upon in that meeting to change the Italian "wait and see" attitude toward the European war.

Count Teleki is to have an audience with Pope Pius XII. on Thursday.

The French ambassador, André Francois-Poncet, left for Paris today to discuss the present situation with his government.

Italy's desire to maintain a neutral peace in the Balkans was reflected in editorial expressions of friendship for Jugo-Slavia which were splashed on the front pages of most newspapers.

REYNAUD HEARS ITALY'S VIEWS ON BALKAN FUTURE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 25. — France's new premier, Paul Reynaud, had a long interview this afternoon with Raffaele Guariglia, Italy's ambassador to France. It is presumed they discussed France's apprehensions over Italy's attitude toward a possible new lineup whereby the three totalitarian powers—Germany, Italy, and Russia—would guarantee the Balkan status quo.

Raffaele Guariglia.

The semiofficial press and government spokesmen discounted the possibility of German maneuvers in the Balkans forestalling British and French plans there.

The premier will address the nation by radio at 8 p. m. tomorrow [1 p. m. Chicago time].

FRENCH TROOPS QUIT TRENCHES TO PLOW FARMS

Sent Back Home to Fight Food Shortage.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 25.—Agriculture, which provides the lifeblood of France, has been affected more than any other activity by the calling of French man power to the army. With the advent of spring, after the hardest winter of the century, a heavy strain is placed on those who deal with agricultural problems.

Mobilization in France took away every fit man of military age from the land, some 2,500,000 in all. A great many skilled workers and foremen also were called up to the serious detriment of war industries, but for the most part these men have returned to key positions where their work offers a more useful contribution to the national war effort.

Need Labor on Farms.

In agriculture, however, the need has been chiefly for labor, altho it is recognized that experienced farmers must direct the work.

Since 1900 there has been a considerable rural exodus. The number of city dwellers at the last census, 1936, was over 2,000,000 greater than the rural population, whereas in 1900 it was 6,000,000 less. Between 1892 and 1925, 1,700,000 families disappeared from the land, leaving slightly less than 4,000,000, of which only 3,000,000 were working farms of less than 25 acres. This movement has accelerated since 1936.

Consequently, the outbreak of the war saw a sudden increase of an old problem against which various measures have been taken, including the drafting of foreign labor, chiefly Belgians.

Big Drain on Farm Labor.

When the French were mobilized for war, foreigners, with certain exceptions, remained on the land. However, since both Polish and Czech refugees are forming armies on French soil and Belgium has recalled her citizens for mobilization, there has been a considerable drain.

The government is making a tremendous effort to find a remedy for this problem of manpower. Two drastic government decrees have been published to control labor in wartime. The second of these, issued on Feb. 27, gave specific powers for the requisitioning of all persons belonging to the agricultural classes.

Ninety thousand men from 45 to 48 years of age have been called up for farm work during the spring sowings. In addition, a special "sowing leave" is now being accorded to all soldiers not serving at the front and who were formerly landowners. This leave is for 30 days at a time and will continue until April 30.

Work on Deserted Land.

When the advance zone in front of the Maginot line was evacuated at the beginning of the war, the fields were left unattended. Because of the comparative lack of shell fire army commanders picked farmers and farm hands from the ranks and put them to work on the deserted land. Troops also have been formed into agricultural companies under the command of officers who were farmers. They will do spring sowing on a big scale.

As a result of the war and weather, winter sowing extended to 8,250,000 acres instead of the normal 12,500,000. Moreover, at least 1,250,000 acres are lost thru the effects of the hard frosts. The total deficit, therefore, amounts to about 5,500,000 acres and it affects the most fertile of the corn fields.

Spring sowing should partially fill the gap, but if it fails to do so it may be necessary, as the case may be, to import or to refrain from exporting 190,000,000 bushels of wheat at a loss of about $240,000,000. This is the basic problem.

Probe Hushed Up, but Not the Capital Crystal Gazers

Washington, D. C., March 25 (AP).—A house subcommittee which decided against a proposal to investigate fortune telling in the national capital came in for some ribbing today. Convening for its first meeting since making the decision, the subcommittee, headed by Representative William T. Schulte [D., Ind.] was startled to see a half dozen robed and turbaned men and women stalk in. The "fortune tellers" [their leader was Jack Mullane, former actor who operated a costume business in Washington] presented the subcommittee with a petition thanking Schulte for his "staunch refusal" to allow the inquiry. They attempted to present Schulte with a miniature crystal globe, but the chairman waved them off, muttering "Take it away."

No Money Saved

New auto wrecked by Alfred Riggins early today.

Alfred Riggins, 20 years old, of Milwaukie, Ore., near Portland, arrived in Chicago by train yesterday, continued on to South Bend, Ind., and picked up a new automobile purchased by his brother Clarence at a motor plant there. Last night he started to drive it back to Oregon for his brother to save the freight charges. Early today Alfred fell asleep at the wheel at 106th street and Western avenue and ran into a pole. He suffered nose and rib fractures—and ruined the new car.

A woman hit-run victim, who was struck Sunday at Clybourn and North avenues, died yesterday in Augustana hospital. A few minutes after death she was identified as Mrs. Adolphina Gibis, 65 years old, 935 Concord place, by her son, Joseph.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 214 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 164 were killed in Chicago where 4,647 were injured in the same period.

JAPS PREPARED TO WAGE FINISH FIGHT IN CHINA

New Troops Are Sent to Front Daily.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO [By mail].—Japan is pouring fresh troops into China. The high command here is determined, at whatever cost, to fight it out to a finish with Gen. Chiang Kai-shek. Despite the existence of a certain degree of peace sentiment in some sections, there can be no doubt of the war office's strong determination to keep on fighting.

Altho the glamor of war is wearing away after more than two years of steady fighting, the morale of the people appears to remain high. In all parts of Tokio on almost any day colorful tho solemn farewells may be witnessed as friends cheer newly enlisted men. The Japanese consider joining the fighting services and dying for their ruler the highest honor that can befall them.

Bear Heavy War Expenses.

A little of the war atmosphere may be seen in Tokio as small units march thru the streets. Their equipment is fair compared with that of most European armies, but not on a par with the outfit of American troops.

Japan is a country poor in natural resources, thus its army and navy cost a sum out of all proportion to the other items of its expenditure. Consequently it would be unfair to compare Japan's equipment with that in the United States. The Japanese soldier, however, has great moral courage and fighting spirit. And he needs it, because he is experiencing terrible hardships and privations.

The tactics which have hit the Japanese harder than almost anything else in the present undeclared war is the thoroness of the "scorched earth" policy. This makes it necessary to transport food to the troops not only during the duration of a given campaign but long after cities and towns were taken. This is proving a tremendous hardship to the men at the front.

Army Greatly Expanded.

Considerable difficulty also is being encountered in equipping the vast army that has been sent to China and the job confronting the arsenals, the wartime industries, and the transportation facilities is a gigantic one.

The regular peacetime army of Japan numbers 275,000 men. Official figures of the present Japanese military forces are not obtainable, but reliable sources estimate that there are 1,000,000 men in China proper, 400,000 more in Manchukuo, and 600,000, including picked divisions, at home—a total of 2,000,000 under arms.

At present the troops in China are battle according to the book, that is, they follow the rules and regulations as prescribed.

Do as Regulations Say.

For instance, if the regulations say that 25 tanks must be on a given line on a front of a certain length in order to advance, such must be the case, regardless of immediately existing conditions.

Hence, when a battle is begun and the attack launched, the soldiers are bewildered when no serious opposition is encountered. The Chinese renew the battle later by counter-attacking from the sides or rear. Practically all the Chinese fighting is guerrilla warfare, which completely baffles the Japanese.

One of the biggest miscalculations was over the fighting strength and morale of the Chinese forces. One thing which can be said for the high command in Tokio is that from the very start it warned the people that this would be a long war. The widely held misconception is that the military leaders promised a swift victory.

The people, however, refused to believe that the nation was in for a long conflict. They were plainly overconfident as a result of the easy victories won by the Japanese forces in Manchuria in 1931.

During the early stages of the war, the Japanese had some bad breaks. In North China, for instance, it rarely rains, yet at the time the Japanese opened their drive, the countryside was flooded by the worst and longest rains in a hundred years.

Japanese motorized units were bogged down and in many cases rendered useless. Horses had to be rushed to their assistance. The lesson the Japanese learned as a result of this experience was that motorized units cannot always be depended upon.

not meeting with the success claimed in the army's press releases. Professional soldiers say the reasons are twofold:

FIRST—The strange country, the scarcity of food, and the Chinese' new fighting tactics, and

VIOLATES COURT BAN BY DRIVING HIS AUTO; GETS 60 DAYS IN JAIL

Walter Jedynak, 22 years old, 1916 Division street, was sentenced yesterday by Judge J. M. Braude in the Boys' court to 60 days in the Bridewell for driving his automobile in violation of a court order suspending his driving privilege for one year. The suspension was imposed by Judge Braude on Feb. 13 after the court had dismissed a reckless driving complaint against Jedynak.

Walter Jedynak.

In the Safety court Judge Frank M. Padden sentenced four reckless motorists to jail and fined a fifth $100. Gerald E. Ricaud, 46, of 810 Pleasant street, Oak Park, and Richard Klobouchik, 39, of 1520 South 58th avenue, Cicero, received 10 day jail sentences for driving while intoxicated.

Duncan Robertson, 30, of 2141 North Latrobe avenue, and Edward Bultrus, 23, of 1810 Roosevelt road, received five day jail sentences for reckless driving. The fine was imposed on Adolph Jacobee, 29, of 933 Foster avenue, on a charge of drunken driving.

300 Hear Plans to Depress 71st Street Line of I. C.

More than 300 south siders attended a meeting in the Bryn Mawr school last night to hear speakers discuss plans for depressing the tracks of the 71st street branch line of the Illinois Central railroad. The meeting was sponsored by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and 25 neighborhood organizations. Among the speakers were Congressman Raymond S. McKeough; Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, and W. G. Usz, I. C. engineer.

SUPREME COURT COOL TO ADDED LAKE DIVERSION

Questions Show Trend of Justices' Opinions.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—Justices of the United States Supreme court manifested distinct hostility today to the plea of Illinois for a temporary increase in the permitted diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago.

The diversion at present is restricted to 1,500 cubic feet per second, in addition to domestic pumpage, by the Supreme court's decree of April 21, 1930, and the Illinois plea now before the court seeks an increase to 5,000 cubic second feet until Dec. 31, 1942. The case was taken under advisement.

Attorney General John E. Cassidy of Illinois told the court that his petition was filed solely at the request of officials and residents of Lemont, Joliet, and Lockport, who complained that unsightly filthy, and noisome conditions constituted a menace to the health of the populace.

Hughes Questions Cassidy.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, whose recommendations as special master were adopted by the Supreme court in the 1930 decree, questioned Attorney General Cassidy adversely and was joined by all other members of the court excepting Justices Frank Murphy and William O. Douglas. The chief justice and Justices Harlan F. Stone, James C. McReynolds, and Owen J. Roberts were particularly unsympathetic.

Much of Cassidy's time was devoted to a discussion of the Chicago Sanitary district's inability to complete the west side sewage treatment works within the time contemplated by the 1930 decree. The Illinois attorney general told the court that the Sanitary district had completed all the construction necessary for the collection of more than 99 per cent of all the sewage within the district and the treatment of 70.4 per cent of it.

With the completion of the west side works, Cassidy said, the Sanitary district will raise the percentage of treatment of the sewage of the west side area—a population equivalent of 1,800,000—from the present 33⅓ per cent to 85 per cent, and this will raise the total percentage of treatment to 85 per cent, as required by the 1930 decree.

Asks About Delay.

Chief Justice Hughes wanted to know what the "jam" was—what was holding up progress on the west side construction. Cassidy declared that back in 1934 the Sanitary district entered into an agreement with the Public Works administration, which called for a modification of the original construction program.

The PWA set up a reviewing board, which recommended that construction of the southwest side project be rushed and that completion of the west side works be postponed pending a scientific determination, by experiments, of the best treatment method, Cassidy said. The results of these experiments, he said, will be presented to the PWA board within a few months, but the works will not be completed until the PWA board approves, and this will require two working seasons—1941 and 1942.

"The review board knew as well as the sanitary district when our decree closed, didn't it?" asked Justice Roberts. "Do you mean that it has been holding it up all this time?"

Cassidy repeated that the agreement called for approval by the PWA board and recalled that the terms of the agreement were submitted to the court in the semi-annual reports of the sanitary district. After he had been pressed by various justices as to the reason for the delay, Cassidy said he knew of no reason "except the human equation."

No Reflection on Engineers.

"You mean you think they are too slow?" asked Justice Stone. Cassidy said he intended no such reflection on the engineers but Justice Stone asserted that there could be no other "human equation."

Justice Roberts told Cassidy that he couldn't expect the court "to penalize the other states in order to help you out of your sludge condition." When Cassidy said he didn't wish to penalize the other states, Justice Roberts replied: "You're asking us to let their water go thru the waterway."

The states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, and New York are opposing the Illinois petition, on the ground that the diversion of water at Chicago lowers the levels of the Great Lakes, to the detriment of riparian property owners and navigation.

Replying to the lake level argument, Cassidy said the effect of increasing the diversion at Chicago by 3,500 cubic second feet would be negligible.

Select the answer which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 24.

1. The number of gallons in a barrel is 16½ 31½ 47½ 62½.
2. A survey of 33 leading movie actresses showed their average weight to be 98 lbs. 105 lbs. 114 lbs. 128 lbs.
3. The average height of these 33 girls was 5'0" 5'2" 5'4" 5'6".
4. The reason some soaps float is that in their manufacture they have had whipped into them more egg white olive oil lard air.
5. A "jack-in-the-pulpit" refers to a puppet naval chaplain flower joker.
6. A young wife had a baby, but was quite ill for two months, so she hired a neighbor woman, whose baby had just died, to nurse her infant. The doctor later told the mother that the baby had syphilis. He tested her blood and obtained a negative Wassermann. The husband was found to have syphilis. Where did the baby most probably get this disease——— from the father?
   —— from the mother?
   —— from the neighbor woman?

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

DAY'S CHILL, BUT JACK AND JILL ROLL EGGS ON WHITE HOUSE LAWN

Washington, D. C., March 25 (AP).—The coldest Easter Monday on record in the capital chilled the White House egg roll into slow motion today. Following tradition, the White House gates opened at 9 a. m. to youngsters under 10 years old, but even tho the sun shone brightly, a raw wind cut the attendance down to less than two-thirds of the 1939 figure of 52,000.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt twice went thru the grounds greeting her guests. A cold kept the President indoors.

There was plenty of space to roll eggs, but the heavy wraps which thoughtful mothers insisted their children wear handicapped their technique. It was hard to hold eggs with mittened hands. When the grapevine carried the word that lost children were being cared for in a downstairs section of the White House—where it was nice and warm—many children cheerfully got "lost."

Jafsie Condon, Lindbergh Kidnaping Figure, Is Ill

New York, March 25 (AP).—Dr. John F. Condon, 79 years old, "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping and a major witness against Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the convicted abductor, was reported today at his home to be ill—so seriously ill that he had not been informed of the recent death of a brother.

RULES AIR WAVE PERMIT NO CURB ON COMPETITION

High Court Holds Its Protection for Public.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—The United States Supreme court today ruled that the Federal Communications commission, in granting a permit for a new radio station, need not consider the effect such competition would have on an existing station.

The opinion, written by Justice Owen J. Roberts, reversed a ruling by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia which required the commission to issue findings of fact on an existing station.

"Plainly it is not the purpose of the federal communications act to protect a license against competition, but to protect the public," Roberts said, adding: "Congress intended to leave competition in the business of broadcasting where it found it, to permit a licensee who was not interfering electrically with other broadcasters to survive or succumb according to his ability to make his programs attractive to the public."

Will Review Alien Registration.

The Court of Appeals had directed the commission to make findings of fact as to whether a proposed station to be operated by the Telegraph Herald of Dubuque, Ia., would financially injure a station already operated by Sanders brothers, who contended there was not enough advertising revenue to support another station.

The court agreed to pass on the constitutionality of a 1939 Pennsylvania law requiring aliens to register and to carry an identification card.

A three judge federal court in the Middle Pennsylvania district held the legislation unconstitutional on the ground that it "attempts to usurp power [to regulate aliens in this country] confided by the constitution to the federal government."

Simplify Census Measure.

Pennsylvania officials said the act was intended simply as a census measure. It would apply to between 300,000 and 400,000 aliens in the state, exempting noncitizens who have resided in Pennsylvania prior to 1908, parents of world war veterans, and aliens who had started proceedings to become United States citizens.

Each alien upon payment of a $1 fee would be issued a card which must be shown upon demand to a law enforcement officer. Penalties were provided for failure to register.

Constitutionality of the measure was challenged by Bernard Davidowitz and Vincenzo Travaglini, both of Philadelphia. Altho he was a naturalized citizen, Davidowitz contended he was of foreign appearance and spoke with an accent and hence would be constantly embarrassed by demands to show a card.

Case from Colorado.

A dispute between the governor of Colorado and the attorney general of that state over the handling of water diversion litigation reached the Supreme court today when both officials submitted answers to a rule to show cause why the state should not be held in contempt of court. The court received the returns without comment.

Colorado was ordered on March 4 to file her answer today in proceedings brought by Wyoming, which contended Colorado should be held in contempt for violating a 1936 decree of the high tribunal limiting to 39,750 acre feet the amount of water Colorado could divert annually from the Laramie river.

Gov. Ralph L. Carr and Attorney General Byron G. Rogers disagreed over the nature of Colorado's reply and so each submitted a brief.

The court also refused to review a decision that the constitution affords no protection against private interference with freedom of speech and of the press. The justice department had appealed from a fifth Circuit court ruling which set aside the conviction of five persons accused of conspiring to prevent Henry P. Ewald, executive editor of Mobile [Ala.] Daily Newspapers, Inc., from continuing an antigambling campaign.

Vacating previous action, the court set aside the conviction of Bob White, Polk county, Texas, Negro, sentenced to death after being found guilty of raping a white woman.

The action was taken, without a formal opinion, upon the authority of a decision Feb. 12 which reversed the conviction of Florida Negroes on the ground that confessions had been obtained improperly. The high tribunal refused last Nov. 13 to review White's conviction.

Don't Give Baldness a Head Start

A YOUNG man with a good head of healthy hair sheds and re-grows an average of 81 hairs each day. Baldness needn't worry him as long as this normal shedding and re-growing process continues unhampered.

Baldness comes when some local infection, such as dandruff, makes it impossible for the scalp to re-grow enough hair to replace that which falls out. When this happens, your scalp logically becomes a problem for a Thomas expert. He solves the problem by (1) determining the exact cause of your hair-loss and then by (2) adapting the reliable Thomas treatment to overcome this cause and to help your scalp structure continue its normal function of growing hair.

Fourteen local scalp conditions, responsible for 90% of all baldness, come within the scope of Thomas treatment. Thomas can end your dandruff, stop abnormal hair-fall, and help you to promote natural hair growth on thin and bald spots. Call today for a free scalp examination and learn more about this sound, proved method of scalp treatment.

Benefits Nation of Sufferers!

COLUMBUS, OHIO: For over 20 years Dr. F. M. Edwards (widely known physician) successfully treated scores of patients for constipation and the headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness which often result.

This wise Doctor knew liver bile must flow freely every day into your intestines or fatty foods can't be properly digested and you may become constipated. So he kept this in mind when he perfected his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful, yet they assure gentle, thorough bowel movements and ALSO help stimulate bile flow. Test their goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

[ADVERTISMENT]

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

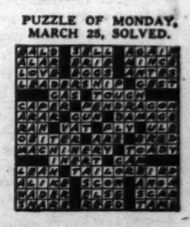
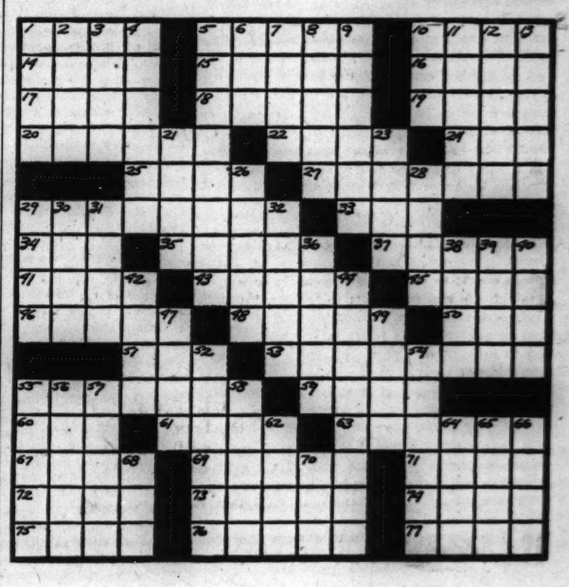
PUZZLE OF MONDAY, MARCH 25, SOLVED.





MEET THE MORNING ON TOP OF THE WORLD!

After too much eating and drinking "alkalize" excess stomach acids as they develop—by this simple Phillips' Method.

1. Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water.

2. You'll feel wonderful at the office tomorrow and do a good job!

It's a wonderful feeling after overindulgence—eating too much . . . smoking too much . . . or drinking unwisely . . . to know there is a way to "alkalize" excess stomach acidity while you sleep. A way to wake up next morning feeling fit as a fiddle . . . and avoid those "morning after" upsets that so often ruin a whole day. It's the way thousands use . . . a way so simple and pleasant . . . yet so amazingly effective, you'll wish you had tried it long ago.

Here's what you do

"Alkalize" while you sleep: Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water—at Bedtime.

While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach . . . easing the upset "full" feeling and nausea . . . getting your stomach back to "normal" so you rest easily. By morning you feel good as new!

Then—when you wake—take two more tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with the juice of a whole orange.

Amazing how you feel!

Even though you have abused your stomach with too much eating, smoking or drinking, this simple way that thousands use avoids "paying the piper".

See for yourself. Note how clear your head feels next day . . . how keen . . . without the dullness due to stomach acidity you'd ordinarily expect. You go about your job with a wonderful feeling of alertness. Try it. You'll be amazed.

Your choice—liquid or tablets

When you buy, get either a bottle of liquid Phillips' Milk of Magnesia for home use or get a box of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets to carry with you . . . to take instantly anywhere when trouble begins. Just be sure you get the real Phillips' article . . . clearly marked "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

CONTEMPT OF COURT OR CONTEMPT FOR A JUDGE.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch and three of its editorial employés have been cited for contempt of court by a St. Louis judge because of comment on the judge's disposition of a criminal case. The newspaper has answered that it holds the courts in the highest respect, that it was performing a public service in calling attention to the court's conduct, and that it considers the contempt citation an attack upon freedom of the press and the constitutional rights of the Post-Dispatch.

THE TRIBUNE has long admired the valiant fight of the Post-Dispatch against the alliance of crime and politics in St. Louis and Missouri. We regretted, when THE TRIBUNE was fighting in 1934 against the attempt to muzzle the press with NRA licenses, that the Post-Dispatch saw fit to pooh-pooh our fears for freedom of the press. We hope that the precedents established by THE TRIBUNE'S lawyers in a number of freedom of the press cases will assist the Post-Dispatch in resisting what we agree is an unjustified attack.

The facts in the Post-Dispatch case, briefly, are these: The motion picture operators' union in St. Louis was in the control of one John P. Nick, a fit confederate of Willie Bioff and the late Tommy Maloy. The Post-Dispatch backed the decent members of the union in ousting Nick and his gangster supporters thru court action. In the course of the investigation it developed that in connection with the settlement of a wage dispute, which settlement gave the union members no substantial benefits, the movie theater owners of the city had paid $10,000 to a political pal of Nick's possessing the name of Putty Nose Brady.

Nick and Brady were indicted on a charge of extortion. They were granted separate trials. After three mistrials the prosecution put in evidence of a sort against Nick, and the trial judge, Thomas J. Rowe Jr., held that the evidence was insufficient and ordered the jury to vote an acquittal. Meanwhile the union had instituted a civil suit on the theory that if there had been a shakedown the money belonged in the union treasury and not to Nick or Brady. The day after the directed acquittal of Nick by Judge Rowe Judge Ernest F. Oakley held that there had been a shakedown and ordered Nick and Brady to make restitution to the union.

The Post-Dispatch commented in somewhat tart fashion on this discrepancy in opinion between Judge Rowe and Judge Oakley. When Judge Rowe dismissed the charges against Putty Nose without permitting the jury to hear any evidence, the newspaper commented further in the same vein.

The newspaper was then cited for contempt of court by Judge Rowe. The citation was on two grounds, one special, the other general. The special ground was that a second extortion charge is pending against Nick and one of his associates, and that the Post-Dispatch's comment was designed to influence and embarrass the court in its trial of the pending case.

This the Post-Dispatch denies. It commented only on cases that had been disposed of. Newspapers rarely, if ever, comment on cases that are pending or on trial. This, it may be noted, is largely to avoid prejudicing jurors or prospective jurors, and not usually because of any apprehension that such comment will exert improper pressure on the trial judge. Indeed, courts have held that a judge is presumed to be of such moral stamina and so well trained in the law of evidence that he will not be swayed by any comment on a pending case that comes to his attention.

If courts are to use the power of contempt to punish comment on cases already closed, on the theory that such comment may affect similar pending cases, it is obvious that corruption on the bench may in many instances escape public censure for all time. If, for instance, one of our own Municipal court judges, having been corrupted, should dismiss a batch of handbook operators is he to be protected from denunciation merely because another batch of handbook operators are to appear before him the next day, and a third batch the following day, and so on until the improbable date when handbooks cease operating in Chicago?

The general charge against the Post-Dispatch was that its comment tended to create widespread disregard for the authority of Judge Rowe's court; to scandalize the court; to subject it to ridicule and contempt; to impede, interfere with, and embarrass its administration of justice; to prejudice the court in the public mind, and to bring it into public disrepute and hinder it in judicial proceedings.

The delicate shadings of the English language are nowhere more apparent than in the phrase contempt of court. The story attributed to Lincoln is in point. A judge fined him $5 for contempt, and he tendered the clerk of the court a $10 bill. The clerk said he had no change.

"That's all right," said Lincoln. "I'll take it out in contempt."

In England the courts derive from the king, and the judges, sitting in place of the king, have over the centuries assumed a number of royal prerogatives, including wide powers in punishing any criticism as contempt of court. In courts deriving their authority from a republic such assumptions of royal prerogatives are at best inappropriate and sometimes are vicious.

Legally the judge sitting on the bench is the court, but that cannot obscure the vital difference between the court as an institution, the authority of which must be defended, and the judge as an individual, subject in his acts, official and unofficial, to the failings and vices of any other human. This practical difference is recognized legally. Ex-Judge Manton, appealing his conviction for selling justice, argued that if the conviction were allowed to stand the court on which he had sat would be brought into disrepute. The Supreme court of the United States rejected that argument.

Obviously, the contrary of Manton's argument was true. The court was not brought into disrepute by his detection and punishment, but its reputation would have been sorely hurt if his knavery had gone unpunished. Exposure of corrupt influence in a court is, as the Post-Dispatch maintains, not an attack upon the reputation of the courts, but a defense of their purity and a public service of the greatest value.

If judges are permitted to use the power of the court in which they sit to inflict personal revenge on those who expose their rascality, then that court will truly be held in contempt, and justly so.

AMERICAN ARMS FOR RUSSIA.

Britain's minister of economic warfare, Ronald Cross, told the house of commons the other day that his government is giving constant attention to Russia's purchases of war materials in the United States. Now that the Finnish war is ended, the British fear that the copper, aviation gasoline, and other supplies which Russia has been getting from us may reach Germany.

Our government imposed what is called a moral embargo on exports of essential war materials to Russia, but the embargo didn't work and it is difficult to believe that the administration in Washington expected it would. Tho the exports of copper to Vladivostok climbed from nothing last fall, before the Finnish war began, to 55 million pounds in January, no effective steps were taken to interrupt the movement. To be sure, Mr. Roosevelt denounced Russia as an aggressor and declared his undying devotion to Finland, but the fervor was verbal and had no consequences in the world of action. The sympathy with the soviet régime which has characterized this administration from the start evidently is as lively as ever, and not even the assault upon the Finns was able to disturb it.

Our supplies helped Stalin win his war and today are helping him arm for the next one. There is no reason to suppose that our government under its present leadership will interfere. From Mr. Cross' speech in parliament the conclusion may be drawn that if our help to Red Josef is halted the credit will go not to Mr. Roosevelt, but to Mr. Chamberlain. The British fear that Russia will be able to reëxport to Germany over the Trans-Siberian railroad or at least to send Germany the equivalent of the American goods landed at Vladivostok. How well founded these fears may be is not as yet clear, but the record to date suggests all too plainly that America isn't going to take the initiative in the matter as long as Mr. Roosevelt is in power.

FINE REPUBLICAN MATERIAL.

If the Republican party is to play its expected part in regenerating the nation next year its members must exert their efforts in the campaign now under way to choose for representatives in congress men capable of furnishing leadership in the tremendous tasks that will fall to that body. The Chicago area is fortunate in the caliber of the leading contenders for the Republican nominations in two of its congressional districts—the 9th and 10th.

Charles S. Dewey, who seeks the nomination in the ninth district, on the north side, is an international authority on governmental finance. Following four years of service as assistant secretary of the treasury he was asked to reorganize the fiscal and banking system of Poland, a task to which he devoted three years. He made his first bid for elective office in the 9th district in 1938 and, campaigning against an opponent backed by the full weight of federal and local machines, lost by a very narrow margin.

In the 10th district, which includes the far north side wards of Chicago, the north shore area, and Lake county, George A. Paddock is outstanding in a field of above average candidates. Ralph E. Church, the present industrious representative of the district, is not a candidate for the seat because he is seeking the senatorial nomination. Mr. Paddock is thoroly schooled in local politics, having been one of the most effective members of the Evanston city council for the last nine years. He has also rendered valuable services to the Republican party organization in Illinois, particularly as chairman of the state finance committee which in 1934 picked up a badly shaken state organization and set it on its feet. His most valuable quality is that of coöperative leadership, one which will be invaluable to his state and nation if he goes to congress.

A CAMPAIGN CURIOSITY.

[New York Herald Tribune.]

The splenetic Harold L. Ickes, who wears with such jaunty grace his honestly won title of the Donald Duck of Politics, apparently has developed what amounts to a monomania, or phobia, in his dislike of the idea that Thomas E. Dewey might some day be elected President. He exhibits this gnawing bitterness in a magazine article in which, after several characteristic passages of vituperation and ridicule, he manages to drag in a totally new reason why Dewey should not be President. This fresh objection, which is highly ingenious even for Ickes, may be boiled down to this: He is the tool of Mark Hanna. Does this reasoning seem curious or strained? Not at all. It goes this way: One of Dewey's ardent supporters is—and has been for some time, making no secret of it—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms. Mrs. Simms, who has been interested in politics during most of her 60 active years, is, as anybody who reads the papers knows, identified with the Dewey campaign management. Now follow closely. She is the daughter of the late Mark Hanna of Ohio, who was a political power back in the 1890s and an extremely able man, at that. He has, to be sure, been dead a long time, but Ickes would have us believe that from his grave his long arm reaches out, thru the agency of his daughter, to manipulate the thoughts, actions, and ambitions of Thomas E. Dewey. Says Ickes: "This is no time to have a Mark Hanna for President—by proxy, by descent, or escheat or otherwise." There you are. It may be that future historians, surveying with puzzled eyes the doings of this disjointed era, will be able to record that in 1940 the campaign issue raised by Ickes was "Keep Mark Hanna out of the White House!"

SPEAKING OF MYSTERIES.

The profound thinkers who can find cryptogram messages from Sir Francis Bacon in the works of Shakespeare have broken loose again—and how! They have gleaned from the First Folio of "Hamlet" a complete play by Bacon, called "The Prince of England." It deals with the murder of the earl of Leicester by Queen Elizabeth and the earl of Essex, and is alleged to be better than "Hamlet." The Philosophical Research society, headquarters in Los Angeles [of course], has published the text of this incredible discovery.

St. Dismas, the "good thief" of the Crucifixion, is not named in the Bible. His lore is legendary. If you seek the source of his name, try the uncanonical gospel of Nicodemus, also called the Acts of Pontius Pilate, vi. 23. This document, unknown until the 13th century, belongs to a group of religious writings called the Pseudepigrapha.

POETS AND POSTAGE STAMPS.

When they were struggling rhymesters, bent
On wooing Fame, I know
Full many a hard earned dime they spent
On postage to and fro.

"Dear Editor"—These words they'd write,
"Please find an ode enclosed,
A little thing tossed off last night,
And a sonnet I've composed."

In postscript they would add "Also,
As literary hostage,
Enclosed find—just in case, you know—
A stamp for return postage."

Longfellow, Lowell, Riley, too,
How many, many times
They sent them forth, even as I do,
Their now immortal rhymes!

Today, behold their faces shine
Upon the stamps we use,
Bold and bewhiskered and benign,
The favored of the Muse.

When verse of mine perchance falls short,
How proud am I to know well
Of Longfellow or Lowell.

And I am heartened and consoled,
Indeed, with the reflection:
Their poems, too, in days of old
Sometimes met with rejection.

If I could only hope some day
An artist would revamp
My features for a like display

Paging Mr. Gambrinus!

March is the month for bock beer. In explanation, bock is the male goat, and did you ever see a billygoat cavorting? After imbibing a few steins of bock beer you are likely to feel the same way.

This beer tastes sweeter, has a high malt content and a dark, creamy foam. Its alcoholic content is about 8 per cent. Bock beer is thicker than regular beer and it is said that in former years in Bavaria, its place of origin, the following procedure was gone thru in order to ascertain whether it was ripe:

The liquid was poured on wooden benches, whereupon the brewer's hefty helpers—all built along the generous lines of a freight car—were asked to seat themselves. If after 15 minutes their leather pants were glued to the bench, then the beer had turned out properly. Bock beer season in Germany always was joyous. A billygoat was usually placed atop the largest barrel.

Incidentally, a black billygoat is still believed to keep sickness away from horses; hence practically every cavalry squadron keeps one of these ruminants in its stable. Prosit! C. O. R.

(The figure on top of the Board of Trade building represents Ceres, goddess of agriculture.)

Ceres, awake! Your daughter calls to you,
You so aloof and high in shrouding stone;
Your loved Proserpina has come anew
And for a season you are not alone.
Forgotten is the pomegranate's spell;
And longingly she seeks you once again,
Rejoicing in the clasp she once knew well,
Benignant goddess of the ripening grain.
Now sweetly, she has bid her lord farewell,
Fed Cerberus his honey cake and wine;
Along the Styx; kissed Charon for her fine.
Then with Avernus past she needs must run
Flinging her white arms to the curving sky,
Whistling to birds that circle in the sun
And laughing as she hears the fledglings cry.
Beneath her feet the wind-flowers gently sway,
And flowering buds the bonds of winter break.
Together you may tread your welcome way.
Proserpina is nigh, Ceres, awake!

ARTHRITIS LEAVES ITS TRACKS BEHIND.

FEW of us realize the all too general prevalence of rheumatic disorders and—under this caption—all forms of arthritis are included. It is our most common and annoying malady—producing more disability and more suffering than any other. While it is not classed among those ailments that may cause death, nevertheless it is responsible for more invalidism than heart disease and tuberculosis combined. Once it has taken hold it rarely lets go completely. Some residue may be detected thruout life. About the best we can do—should it come—is to make certain that it tears down one's physique as little as possible and that enough adjustments are made to permit us to carry on with efficiency.

Fortunately, a high percentage will recover—at least to the point where they will be comfortable. But will its creeping effects interfere appreciably with function? It has been estimated that from 65 to 75 per cent will be restored to full activity. Of the balance, a fair proportion will be able to manage satisfactorily but they will be partially incapacitated, possibly with periods in which the difficulty will become worse or better, as the case may be. A certain number will become progressively infirm with possible deformities—verging upon helplessness.

Now, all of this signifies that when the trouble shows its head for the first time, no quarter should be given. Treatment must be vigorous and intensive and we must summon to our aid every weapon that science can offer. This means the eradication of infection wherever it is found; the building of resistance thru good food, fresh air, plenty of sunshine; and the correction of all digestive and metabolic disturbances.

No pain is too small to be given attention, particularly if it recurs or if it is accompanied or followed by excesive fatigue. Stiffness and aching in the joints in those who are past middle age indicate that better elimination is probably in order. This may be accomplished by fluids [fruit juices], a selected diet of high vitamin feedings, heat, massage, and exercise. Most of the "cures" can be achieved at home, altho if pus pockets are found in the sinuses or about the teeth medical and dental help will be needed.

By and large, physicians have neglected the great field of physiotherapy: Electricity, heat [electric bakers], hot baths or packs, massage, muscle movements, etc. Among preventive measures may be mentioned the avoidance of dampness and chilling. The body—particularly the feet—should be protected at all times against inclement weather. Damp or wet extremities have much to do with ushering in sore throats and acute infections that may lay the foundation for future illness.

But medical men are not helpless before this avalanche. Sunshine or ultraviolet is exceedingly valuable and, on the theory that some metabolic derangement may be responsible, various chemicals [such as sulfur] are supplied in large quantities. Injections of salts of gold have also been helpful and, in many instances, the discomfort will recede rapidly under a change of climate of but a few weeks' duration. The most desirable spot is one in which dry air is combined with heat and where the skin may be exposed gradually and without burning to the direct rays of old Sol.

We should remind ourselves that we keep well when we maintain resistance at a high level and arthritis will pass us by if we make certain that all structures are performing naturally. Sometimes the urinary tract will harbor bacteria and, occasionally, allergy may be the culprit; but the weak spot in patient A's armor may be the least vulnerable in patient B.

In addition, we must be alert to undue fatigue—whether the symptom comes as a result of play or of work. While the system is prepared to compensate for an overstrain now and then—if such episodes come frequently or are akin to exhaustion—we may with reason anticipate a physical break.

[What to do for arthritis, incorporated into leaflet form, will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.]

DIGESTION OF FISH.

J. V. writes: I have heard that fish is easily digested. I am a manual worker and need lots of nourishment, but I have trouble with digestion. Do you think fish advisable in my case?

REPLY.

It would be well first of all to ascertain the cause of your trouble. If an ulcer is present a special diet will be needed. Some varieties of fish are handled easily—such as sole, pike, perch, and halibut. Those with coarse fibers are dissolved with difficulty. You should avoid fried foods of all sorts and, in preparing fish, baking is preferred.

BOYHOOD DREAMS.

Platteville, Wis., March 22.—I was much interested in the Rev. Mr. Henslee's story in the Voice of the People column this morning, stating that, as a boy on his father's farm in western Kansas over 50 years ago, he thought out almost exactly the same plan recently worked out by Mr. Frank Andrews, that of lariating a plow to a post in the middle of a field and whipping it round and round under its own power until the whole field is plowed.

Well, here is my story. A little over 50 years ago, as a boy on my father's farm in eastern Kansas I thought out a design for a corn harvester almost the exact duplicate of the harvester used today. I explained my invention to my father one day, sitting alongside him on the high seat of the old spring wagon on our way to town—incidentally, one of those dear, historical days when we were on our way to town to buy my boots for the winter, red top, copper toed boots. But my father advised that it would take a lot of money to develop the idea and, anyhow, "I never knew an inventor who got rich," he said.

And that was that. Another dream of youth, like Mr. Henslee's, had to wait for 50 years until dreamed by some one else.

Well, and without changing the subject either, youth dreams today. Politically, industrially, socially, and not of mechanical inventions alone. I hope they make their dreams come true and not make civilization hang in the balance 50 years for the fruit of their dreams.

AIRPLANE ACCIDENTS.

Park Ridge, Ill., March 22.—Is there a conspiracy afoot to discourage our energetic and fast growing industry, aviation?

I have reference to the headline on the front page of this morning's issue. It said, "Stalled Plane Dives Into Lake." Then down further the news article explained that the plane glided down close to a tug. There is a big difference between diving and gliding, and the pilot of this ship deserves a good deal of credit for his judgment and skill.

It is unfortunate for the industry that aviation does not receive more intelligent treatment from the press. There are occasional plane accidents, just as there are thousands of automobile accidents, but the rarity of airplane accidents makes front page news. Also, that the vast majority of airplane accidents that occur in private flying are as inexcusable as the majority of automobile accidents. It is virtually impossible for any pilot to get into trouble when he pays a reasonable amount of attention to the rules of flying, and if the average autoist was as competent and as well trained as the airplane pilot, auto accidents would be rare too, and thereby deserve front page headlines.

HOW ABOUT CASTILLE SOAP?

Chicago, March 22.—I can no longer control the impulse to call attention to those radio broadcasters who advocate the use of various cigars and cigarettes with frequent and repeated reference to "Havana" tobacco. There is no tobacco raised anywhere near Havana; however, there is Cuban tobacco—and there is none better. Havana cigars—yes; Havana tobacco—no!

L. E. MYERS.

TEASPOONS AND TABLESPOONS.

Chicago, March 21.—In your "Horse Sense" questions of Saturday, March 16, you state there are four teaspoons to a tablespoon. I was taught in school and my cook books all say there are three teaspoons to a tablespoon. I even measured them. And the cook books are right. MRS. J. L. MCFADDEN.

MEN AND MACHINES.

Chicago, March 21.—I refer to the editorial captioned, "A Tax On Machinery." In it, the author dubs those as half-wits who would believe that machinery is the cause of economic distress. What other than machinery has brought about the condition of unemployment? In short, there is a problem to be solved of mass unemployment since machinery has come into general use.

No worker condemns the machine. But all ex-workers whose human energy has been displaced by the machine, as well as all businesses affected by the result of mass unemployment, do loathe the one way system of mass production under which industry is trying to operate. Any machine displaced worker would be glad to share the profits of the machine if only given a chance to earn.

The foregoing is not a challenge, but rather, a few words in defense of those who, because they exercise common sense, would be classed as half-wits. Senator O'Mahoney's proposal to tax machinery would not remedy the condition of unemployment any more than would amputating a dog's tail keep him from wiggling the stub which would still be there. F. W. ERNST.

SPUNKY WOMAN.

Chicago, March 22.—I would like to express praise and admiration to the little woman who took over her husband's job while he was confined to his home with a broken leg—namely, Mrs. Ann Pekarek. If there were more women wit hher spunk there would be fewer people on relief. Credit must also be given to Barney Berne for giving her the opportunity to carry on.

MRS. C. F. SCHMELING.

A LADY OUT OF HAND.

Chicago, March 22.—I attended the Maple Leaf-Blackhawk hockey match last night and witnessed an incident which reflects on the good sportsmanship of Chicago hockey fans. A well dressed young woman, sitting in a section where one usually sees society represented, kept up a continual stream of abuse at the Toronto players, notably Horner, whom she repeatedly accused of being "a yellow dog." The fact that her companions made no effort to curb her misguided enthusiasm was no credit to them.

I have always admired Chicago sports fans for their loyalty to their teams whether on the winning or losing end, but abuse of players who cannot retaliate is surely no part of loyalty or universal sportsmanship. Had the players in question done anything to have aroused the anger of the fans such behavior might be overlooked, but when it was directed without rhyme or reason thruout the game it cannot in any way be condoned. FAIR PLAY.

FOR CROMWELL.

Chicago, March 20.—I see in this morning's issue of THE TRIBUNE; that Senator Bennett C. Clark has recommended the recall of James H. R. Cromwell, American minister to Canada. We are now living in critical times, and every thing concerning the public is concealed. The tendency is to do everything in an underhanded manner. It is refreshing to have at least one man representing us abroad who dares to stand on his own feet and strike from the shoulder, more power to him. It would be the height of folly to remove a man of his type.

CHECK TRANSACTION.

Chicago, March 20 [Legal Friend of the People].—About three months ago I cashed a check for $100 for a man who has been trading with the company where I am employed.

This check is payable to this man, made out in Wisconsin by another man who has made a purchase from him. This check came back to me as [NSF] not sufficient funds. I now am the possessor of this check. I made several appeals to this man to pay for the check and to collect from the Wisconsin man, but as to date all he does is make promises to pay, which are not kept. He tells me that he cannot do a thing to this man, for he resides in Wisconsin.

1. I was always under the impression that a check of that kind was forgery, and regardless of what the state in the Union may be he can be brought to justice. My company does not want to bring suit against him, for he is a man of small means, and so the company would not gain much. My questions are these:

2. Is there any way we can collect this money or not?

3. Is there a law that will bring this man from Wisconsin to Illinois and force him to pay?

4. And can I as an employé be held for this? G. A. R.

1. Forgery is an entirely separate and specific offense, consisting of signing another person's name. In general, the question whether drawing an N. S. F. check is criminally punishable depends on whether something of value was originally obtained for the check as distinguished from cases in which such a check is given for a pre-existing debt, for example, wages already earned.

2. Depends on the debtor's assets and income. If you wish to make the attempt, the first step would be to place your claim in the hands of an attorney for collection.

3. Probably not.

4. If you were held, it would be as an endorser rather than as an employé. It seems probable that you can be held.

TODAY IN HISTORY

March 26, 1753.

Benjamin Thompson, physical scientist, philanthropist, and administrator, a New Englander who became a knight of both Great Britain and the holy Roman empire, born. He went to England during the American revolution and held various civil and military posts, meanwhile studying physics. During army service in Bavaria he won governmental favor and remained as administrator of the state. Part of his personal fortune was used to establish the Rumford medal of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

"The Game."

"The game" was an after-supper diversion at Clifton Webb's party in his apartment at the Ambassador a few evenings ago, with such stars as Helen Hayes, Raymond Massey, and Mr. Webb, back from their evening performances, tensely acting out book and play titles, poetry quotations, and names of famous persons as dramatically as if there were applauding audiences and a big box office take.

The amount present of what seemed psychic power was, as Miss Hayes expressed it, almost frightening. So difficult a quotation as the first line of Keat's Ode to a Grecian Urn, Thou still unravished bride of quietness, was guessed almost immediately. Miss Hayes didn't even get a chance to act out Lucrece when it was her turn. She got as far as her original announcement that she was about to do the title of a poem when Tom Fisher astonishingly called out, Lucrece! Miss Hayes guessed Freddie Bradley's acting of one of her own vehicles, Coquette, after his first gesture. Mr. Webb acted out Keats' line, Beauty is truth, truth is beauty, with such dexterity that it was guessed immediately.

The loudest laughter of the evening was when a famous drama critic, given the Seventh Commandment to act out for his team, announced that he was about to do a slogan. And Leonore Harris, the Mrs. Stanley of The Man Who Came to Dinner, given "psychoanalyze" to act out, announced, "It's a hyphenated pronoun in two syllables." "Who-all," promptly guessed a member of her team.

In the Morning Mail.

Dear Miss Provines: Dr. Stock and Paul Leyssac are not the first to experience the difficulty of making Milwaukee audiences laugh. The late Jack Osterman used to describe the Milwaukee theatergoers something like this: "Milwaukee! Where the doorman gives 'em ether as they walk in!"

More Food Notes.

"Recently one of your readers asked for food suggestions," writes Frank L. Rand. "Perhaps she would like the mole poblano or the San Antonio style enchiladas and the delicious chocolate ice cream with coffee sauce at the Costa Rican Coffee house; the spoon bread served with the fried chicken at Kentucky Serves a Meal; seafood gumbo at the New Orleans restaurant up north; the incomparable hamburger steaks recommended by the incomparable Richard at Schlogl's; or let her go to the Wrigley Building restaurant and have Pete serve her a meal of his own selection.

"Strangely, very few Chicago restaurants have discovered that one of the most succulent of deserts is hot apple pie with ice cream. Ask for it in a restaurant and you get cold pie on a hot plate. The whole pie should be heated thoroly in the oven before it is cut. New Englanders have served their pie this way for many generations.

"The New Englanders also know that for tasty baked beans the tiny California pea beans are superior to navy beans, and that honest-to-goodness succotash should be made from equal parts of corn and luscious, mottled 'shell beans,' or 'horticultural beans' as they are sometimes called."

Grace Shumway to Carry Daisy Chain at Vassar

BY JUDITH CASS.

PRETTY Grace Shumway, who made her debut in Lake Forest last July, is among the 26 sophomores at Vassar college who have been designated for the signal honor of carrying the famed Vassar daisy chain at the annual class day exercises on June 7.

Girls chosen to carry the chain are selected for their outstanding scholastic and extracurricular activities and for their beauty. Since they are only in their second year when they receive this honor, they have two more years in which to live up to what is expected of a daisy chain girl and to enjoy the popularity that always goes with the honor.

This year's class day festivities will be especially significant, for this is Vassar's 75th commencement anniversary and it is expected that 5,000 alumnæ will be present. Miss Shumway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward de Witt Shumway, is a fifth generation Chicagoan, her great-great-grandfather having been Matthew Laflin, pioneer Chicagoan.

Spending Their Easter Vacations in Florida.

Miss Shumway and Miss Joan Reid are spending their Easter vacation in Palm Beach, visiting Miss Reid's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan S. Reid, who have a house there for the season. The girls flew south from New York last Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Shumway left Chicago on Easter for two weeks in Boca Grande, where they will be joined by their son, Edward Jr., who is a student at St. Paul's. If Miss Shumway and Miss Reid had elected to spend their spring holidays in Chicago instead of in Florida, they undoubtedly would have heard the president of the college, Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, speak yesterday at a luncheon at the Chicago Athletic association.

The Chicago and North Shore Vassar clubs had the largest meeting in their history at the C. A. A. The presence of Dr. MacCracken and an exhibit of the vocations and avocations of Vassar graduates drew a crowd of about 130.

The ballroom was filled with Vassarites, young and old, some, in fact, who had not yet entered the college at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Miss Eunice Hale and Miss Sally Welsh, who won't be going to Vassar until next year, came with the latter's mother, Mrs. Vernon Welsh.

Alumnae Are Reminded Vassar Is Theirs.

Dr. MacCracken, who is celebrating his 25th year as president, reminded alumnæ of Matthew Vassar's letter to them: "Remember that Vassar college is yours; yours to use and yours to adorn with the fruits of your life," and suggested that the advice might be paralleled in one's relation to one's country.

Mrs. Andrew MacLeish, at Dr. MacCracken's left, spoke of life at Vassar in the 1870s. Mrs. T. George Lee, president of the Chicago club, announced that the drive for a $2,000,000 educational endowment and scholarship aid fund has reached the $1,200,000 mark. Chicago has raised more than half of its $51,000 quota.

Mrs. Robert McKisson, vice president of the North Shore club, read a list of exhibitors in the Vassar hobbies display in the absence of the president, Mrs. Robert Bartow, who was ill.

Exhibits Cover Wide Range of Interests.

The exhibits ranged from radio scripts to medical drawings and included some lovely sweaters knitted by Mrs. Spencer Keare for the members of her family. The Castle twins were represented by paintings and sculpture, Miss Caroline showing a painting of "Carmel Coast," and Miss Josephine a piece of sculpture.

At the speakers' table were Mrs. Chauncey Borland, Mrs. Henry Berkhausen, Mrs. Abraham K. Selz, Mrs. Bertram Cahn, who entertained Dr. MacCracken at dinner last night; Mrs. Edward McDougal, Mrs. Edwin Austin, Mrs. Percy Wilson, and Mrs. Harold Leopold, among others.

Dr. MacCracken will address members of the Woman's College Board of Chicago at tea at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Thorne hall. His subject will be "The Woman's College." Among those who will be hostesses are Mrs. Oscar Hayward, general chairman; Miss Helen Monchow, who will be mistress of ceremonies, and Mrs. Andrew MacLeish, who will introduce the speaker.

Sunbeam League Origin Recalled by Benefit.

In the spring of 1912 a group of young unmarried women gathered to form a Sunbeam league in Chicago such as already existed in London and New York. Their object was to visit hospitals and to make the time pass more pleasantly for the poor sick and crippled children by reading to them, playing games with them, and providing them with toys.

The organization was formed at the suggestion of Mrs. William Kirkwood, then society editor of THE TRIBUNE, who spoke to Miss Mary Holabird, now Mrs. Urban Harris. The original board had twelve members, among them Mrs. Rawleigh Warner, who then was Miss Dorothy Haskins; Mrs. Paul Seaborn, the former Persis Rollins; Miss Louise Morris, Miss Agnes Black, and Miss Marie Buhmann. At the end of its first year 120 young women had offered their services, and the organization was granted a charter on which its purpose was stated as that of "bringing sunshine into the lives of children in Chicago hospitals or wherever else it may be needed."

600 Tables Are Sold for Card Party Today.

The league now has 200 members and looks after between eleven and fifteen thousand children a year at seven kindergartens. The kindergartens are located at the Convalescent Home for Women and Children, the Cook County hospital, the Research and Educational hospital, the Children's Memorial hospital, the Martha Washington Home for Dependent Crippled Children, and the Spalding school.

Raising funds to maintain these kindergartens is done by an annual card party. This year's is being held today at the Stevens hotel, with Miss Helen Blosser as chairman. About 600 tables have been sold. Some of those on the committee are Mrs. Harry L. Nelson, Mrs. Clyde Blair, and Mrs. David M. Rhodes, president of the league.

Miss Skinner Luncheon Guest of Mrs. Barnes.

Margaret Ayer Barnes [Mrs. Cecil Barnes] is giving a small luncheon today for Cornelia Otis Skinner, who is in Chicago for a week's engagement at the Selwyn theater. After luncheon Mrs. Barnes' guests will attend the Chicago Symphony orchestra concert.

Mrs. Barnes and Miss Skinner are both alumnae of Bryn Mawr college. Miss Skinner dramatized Mrs. Barnes' novel, "Edna, His Wife," and presented it on tour with great success for two seasons.

Carnation for Daytime

The working girl must choose her daytime perfume with special care. It must be as appropriate as her costume, as agreeable as her personality. A true carnation cologne, spicy and not too sweet, is one of the few scents that fit her special needs.

The spicy, bright fragrance of carnation is now one of the most popular scents to be found. It has been giving other florals a good run for the money for the last few years and we're told that this spring it's breaking all records.

Come to think of it, the true carnation is a lovely perfume for spring. It has that "wake-up-and-live" zip to it—the same crisp perkiness that characterizes the petals of the flower itself. The sweet, somnolent scent isn't exactly what the mood orders when the tag end of winter rolls around.

Experimenting with carnations, we've found a few that are extra special and a lot that are just so-so. One of the best versions we've found is in a cologne [and bath powder and sachet, too] called "blue" carnation. It's quite wonderful, really. It has a spice and vitality that sets it apart, and it's one of the most delightful of fragrances with spring clothes. There's just something about it that chimes in with all the manifestations of a brand new, exciting season.

It seems to us that the working woman has a difficult time finding a fragrance for daily use that's appropriate and attractive. The too romantic scent is out, if she has any sense of fitness. But she does want something that bolsters her reputation of femininity and freshness without imperilling her reputation for good taste. The blue carnation cologne is ideal. It meets all of her special requirements. It refreshes, its perfume is crisp rather than coy, and all who notice it, including herself, approve its character and charm.

Miss Skinner Is Back; She and Chicago Happy

"EDNA HIS WIFE."

Solo drama in 11 scenes, dramatized by Cornelia Otis Skinner from the novel by Margaret Ayer Barnes. Settings by Donald Oenslager. Costumes by Helene Pons. Music by Elliott Jacoby. Presented by Miss Skinner in the Selwyn theater, Monday evening, March 25, 1940.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Returning to Chicago in "Edna His Wife," the first of three solo dramas she is to present this week, Cornelia Otis Skinner seemed happy once again in her accustomed material. With eight separate characters to account for all by herself, she played with infinitely more range and finesse than she was able last year to discover for the heroine of Bernard Shaw's "Candida."

As Miss Skinner has developed the technique of her solo drama performances, it is essentially a craft compounded of clever implication and deft dwelling upon minutiæ of gesture, vocal inflection, and timing. She can fit her behavior and mannerisms to the dress she is wearing, and she flits with neat dexterity from time to time and from place to place.

In other words, she is the mistress of a brief episode on the stage, while she misses both continuous line and cumulative power when she undertakes a sustained part like "Candida."

For all that it is essentially a series of character sketches hung upon the thread of Mrs. Barnes' plot like beads which would scatter in a million directions if the string were not there, "Edna His Wife" is engaging and agreeable. Some of the women whose lives impinge upon Edna's are portrayed with flashes of brilliance—Dolly McElroy, the too, too blasé Chicago society woman of 1913; Florrie Brophy, the one-time burlesque trouper who is about to have a child by the wrong man; and Edna's daughter Jessica, a gin-flushed flapper of the 1925 prohibition days.

Oddly enough, Miss Skinner's characterization of Edna herself is considerably less convincing. In her recurrent portraits of the Blue Island station agent's daughter who married an ambitious lawyer and found herself gradually translated into a social sphere in which she could not live and talk naturally, there was a sort of bloodless refinement that did not adequately define the character. This was intended, I suppose, to be a kind of bewilderment, but it registers rather negatively, or, at least, too blandly.

The period clothes and settings are worth seeing, and Mrs. Barnes' text, inimitably documented with references to passing modes and locutions, is eminently worth hearing.

Mexico Lecture Topic for Geographic Society

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Vaudeville Safari

Aboard the Chief, Eastbound, March 26.—This morning, at 8:15 o'clock, one troupe of movie stars and starlets were waited on at Albuquerque, N. M., by couriers from the governor of New Mexico, dignitaries from Coronado, Indians in full regalia, leather-skinned cowboys, and other deputations who met us at the Santa Fe station with whoops, hollers, bands, and scrolls. . . . The scrolls were elaborate parchments from the state of New Mexico inviting Helen Parish, Marjorie Weaver, Arthur Treacher, Betty Jaynes, Vivian Fay, Bela Lugosi, Douglas MacPhail, and this reporter to act as guests of honor at the cuatro centennial. . . . It was a pleasant demonstration of interest and good will but believe me, it scares the bejabbers out of you to awake to an ear splitting war cry and find a painted Indian staring beadily at you from the door of a Pullman drawing room. . . . Eventually we scared the Indian chief: he rapped on one drawing room and Bela Lugosi opened the door. . . . The Indian backed away hastily. . . . He had seen "Dracula."

Just before lunch the company had another visitor, a popeyed little fellow who wasn't an Indian. . . . Eddie Cantor and Ida are on the Chief, en route to the east for the première of his new flicker, "Forty Little Mothers," and they came in to watch us rehearse. . . . The company got a great kick out of meeting Cantor and, in turn, he got a tremendous thrill. . . . "It's wonderful," he told Helen Parish and Marjorie Weaver, "to observe the ambition and enthusiasm in youngsters. The whole world is before you kids, and vaudeville is a world all its own. I watched you just now when you were rehearsing—that fire in your eye, I had it, too, when I started out 27 years ago. Had it? I still have it. Don't ever let it die out, that flame, because that is the stuff of which stars are made. Stardom just won't come to you: you've got to work. The honeymoon in your work never must be over. Your ambition always must be at white heat. Mickey Rooney has it—say, that kid will have it when he's 80.

They asked him about vaudeville, what to do, what not to do, and he told them things that should be read to every youngster and veteran in show business: "Just remember this," he started. "Once the customer has bought a ticket, he has done his part—the rest is up to the performer. From then on, the public is always right, and there is no such thing as a bad audience. Never let down at any performance. When you're out there doing your act, remember that while it may be 'old stuff' to you, it's new to that particular audience. Play every show as tho it would be your last performance, the one you'd like to have remembered by audiences."

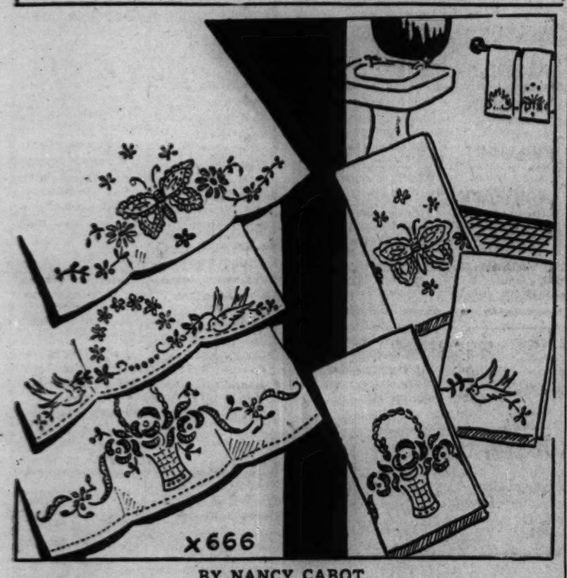
"Between 5:30 p. m. and 7 p. m., each night," continued Cantor, "vaudeville has what performers call a 'supper show.' All the people are having supper except the performers and you are liable to play before a comparatively small audience. That show, I've always thought, is the test of a real, honest-to-goodness performer. Remember that those people who have been good enough to come into the theater to see you have paid their dough, in addition to paying you the compliment of attending that particular show. So don't just 'go thru the motions' at the supper show. Give the kind of a performance you would give if people were hanging from the rafters. Don't think that it's okay to let down, as a lot of bad performers do. Don't think that it's okay to indulge in private jokes with the members of the company or with the band at the show. Certainly, the applause will be less at the supper show and so will the attendance, but get out there and give your finest performance. Anything less than your best performance is not only an insult to the audience—it also is an insult to you."

To dramatize that important thought, Cantor recalled an actual experience. While he didn't mention names, I'm quite certain that the performer he had in mind was talented Dave Stone of the famous team of Montgomery and Stone. . . . "Supper shows can be most important," he told them. "I remember once when an agent persuaded Florenz Ziegfeld to go to a small theater to look at a fine dancing comedian. 'Ziggie' demurred. He was busy. The trip would be too long. The agent persisted. Finally, Ziegfeld yielded and went to the small theater and arrived in time for the supper show. It was a small audience, as usual, and the dancing comedian patronizingly gave a mediocre performance. Ziegfeld was furious at the agent. As a result, that dancing comedian had to wait five years before he got into Ziegfeld 'Follies.' Remember that, you kids. There may be only 100 people in an audience, but one of that 100 may be a Darryl Zanuck or a Leo B. Mayer or a Dave Selznick or a Nate Blumberg or a Jack Warner. And they'll only judge you on what you show them."

"If you fail to get an encore at any show," said Cantor. "Worry about it. Find out why. And just because you're a hit in one show, don't take it for granted that you'll be a big hit in the next show or in the next city."

Before he went back to his own car with Ida, Cantor gave them two other bits of pertinent advice. . . . "When you girls get to New York," he warned, "don't marry Georgia Jessel. And on every stage, I want you all to watch Ed Sullivan. Observe exactly what he does, what he says, his mannerisms and his attitude toward the audience. And be sure not to do anything that Ed does. I saw him at Loew's State last year, and believe me, kids, the man has absolutely no talent. Whatever he does is accomplished by sheer fighting spirit. And if he doesn't print this, I will sue him on behalf of vaudeville."

Embroidered Spring Motifs



BY NANCY CABOT.

Embroidered flowers, birds, and butterflies are favorite motifs and this group is no exception. Each design measures 6 by 16 inches each, but may be cut down to a single motif, as shown in the accompanying illustration. These may be used for towels, pillow slips, curtains, or luncheon sets.

Good Morning!

Faith, and this is a broth of a picture!

No "super" feature it, as the movie world rates "super" features. Nope. Just good, robust, heart warming entertainment concerned with plain folks that will delight plain folks—even as you and I.

The principal character is an Irish cop who, when he expects promotion, finds himself retired in order that a stripling just out of police school may get a foothold on the force. And he, Pat Casey, must instruct the young man who, to make matters perfectly wrong, is a Scotsman, no less. . . .

Angus Ferguson is the young patrolman's name, and he is, at first, puppishly anxious to make friends. But Casey is agin him, and a neat, life sized feud develops between the pair . . . until—Angus meets Maureen Casey. Then Casey practically fights alone. . . .

Poor Casey. What to do with himself! At last the fates settle the question and he runs for alderman. And now occur some richly humorous sequences. For Casey, finding that certain interests are about to make him a catspaw—and he, having taken and spent their money without knowing from whence it had come!—starts forth to run against himself. In other words, he stumps the city advising all good men and true NOT to vote for him. Which of course cinches an enormous majority. [Candidates for election, please take notice.]

It takes a Casey to outwit a Casey. Maureen, having been turned away from the parental roof because she becomes Mrs. Ferguson, ups and makes Casey a grandfather. If you think an Irishman who loves his child can withstand such persuasion—think again.

The acting is all top notch. You'll love Thomas Mitchell as Casey. Plenty of reason for his having won the academy award for superior supporting work! Dennis Morgan is funny and amusing as Angus, and Priscilla Lane is a lamb as Maureen. . . . Excellent direction!

See you soon.

Gun Bought Grant

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Framed by his enemy, Santee Bales, Sam Teacher, outlaw cowboy, shoots the bank robber dressed to resemble him. The governor agrees to give Sam $25,000 in addition to full pardon for all the crimes accredited to him if he will persuade obstinate Matt Drury to sell the railroad the right of way thru one of Drury's canyons. Sam gets a job on Drury's ranch and has a run-in with his worthless son Steve and his pretty but spoiled daughter Celia. Instead of firing Sam, Drury takes his advice and gives Steve a small stake and sends him out on his own; and he tells Celia she has to run the house. Both Drury's children leave home in a huff. Celia getting a job in a restaurant. Steve gets into a crooked poker game with Bales and ends up the big loser, having to go into partnership with Bales. Bales wants Steve to get the grant of the canyon property so he can make the governor pay him. Sam, investigating the canyon, is captured by Bales and his men. They steal his gun, tie him up, and leave him. Sam manages to break loose, and when he reaches town he is arrested for the murder of Steve. The gun with Sam's initials is found near the murdered man. Matt is determined to hang Sam, but Pearly, Matt's foreman, convinced of Sam's innocence, resigns from his job. He buys a stable next door to the jail and digs Sam out.

INSTALMENT XX.

PURSUIT.

"You, sheriff, unlock the door to Loud-mouth's cell." The sheriff obeyed Sam's order with alacrity. "Now, get in all of you."

The sheriff didn't understand for a second, and then he said hotly: "You can't do that!"

"Will you get in there, you three, or do I have to slug you and throw you in?"

The two deputies and Sheriff Lovejoy stepped into the cell. Sam locked the door and took the keys.

"Take a good look at it," Sam said. "I roosted in one of the damn things for a week."

"I'll be out of here in a day!" Lovejoy raged.

"If you are I'll come back and throw you in again."

"You come back here again and we'll hang you, Teacher."

"I'll be back," Sam drawled. "You're goin' to serve your time in there like I did. One whole week. Seven days. Remember that, you bunch of tin-horn wrong-guessers, the next time you throw an innocent man in there. Because I'm goin' to show you what a week in jail means."

Lovejoy started to yell. Sam heard the pounding of feet on the boardwalk outside, and unlocked the door to his own cell. Waving in mock salute to the three men in the cell, he then lowered himself into the hole again, crawled thru to the cellar, mounted the stairs, went out the back door, and found Pearly in the alley, holding both horses.

"What in——"

"Ride," Sam said. "I'll tell you later."

He and Pearly rode north out of town, taking to the creek at a slow pace so as to make little noise. Upstream, they paused and heard the town above them awake. Men were yelling out in the plaza. A couple of signal shots were let loose in the air. Sam grinned into the night, spurred his horse and then took a dozen deep breaths of free air. They clung to the Rio Arriba for a mile.

Minutes later he said: "Nobody's seen you, Pearly. You better let me go on alone."

"No."

"You'll be outlawed," Sam said.

"I will be anyway," Pearly said. He told Sam of his purchase of the saddle shop. When the tunnel was discovered it would be apparent to Sheriff Lovejoy who had dug it.

When he was finished Sam said, "You mean you put out three thousand dollars for that saddle shop, just so's you could break me out?"

"I still own it."

"You did that and you broke me out of jail and you're an outlaw now. Why, Pearly?"

"I don't like to see an innocent man framed," Pearly said patiently, stubbornly.

"I'm used to this, Pearly. You ain't. From now on, besides havin' a price on my head, I'm goin' to ride high, wide and handsome. I'm goin' to take chances only a fool would take. I'll likely have the army on my trail in another month. I won't eat regular and I won't sleep regular and I'll wear out a couple of saddles. I'm goin' to tear this territory wide open. You still want to stick with me?"

"That's why I broke you out."

"Then let's ride," Sam said. "You find us a hidin' place. I'll take care of the rest of it."

Pursuit, of course, was inevitable, and Pearly set out to shake the posse which would be on their trail by morning. It was a task he could concentrate on with relish, for he knew every foot of this vast range with the knowledge that comes with years. Every stream, every patch of malpais, every stray band of horses helped to cover their tracks. Doubling back and circling, and cutting their own trail innumerable times, he steadily worked north toward the Rim. At noon, they climbed to the Rim by a narrow cattle trail and by midafternoon were in a lonely canyon of the Ute foothills. Pearly chose the hiding place with foresight. At first sight it appeared to be a dry and inaccessible place, twisting tortuously into the foothills. But deep in it there was a small cave, and less than a quarter mile from the cave there was a spring which welled out of a limestone outcropping, flowed a hundred feet to make a minute patch of the canyon floor green with grass, and then disappeared again into the ground.

Food, blankets, and ammunition were all wrapped in the slickers behind their saddles, and just at nightfall, they dismounted, made their camp, staked out their horses up the canyon close to the spring, and ate.

Once the job of guiding them to a safe hiding place was over, Pearly seemed to be at a loss. Their supper of pan bread, jerky and coffee finished, they rolled smokes and lay back on their blankets before the cave. Sam was quiet, his face creased by a scowl. Pearly wanted to talk, but something on Sam's face told him that it wouldn't be welcome.

Suddenly Sam said, "Santee will be up here from Santa Luz in a couple of days, Pearly. We got to work fast."

"Work fast at what?"

"Gettin' that right of way from him."

"It's got," Pearly said drily. "That's the only thing we can't change, Sam."

"We got to."

"But he's likely struck a bargain with the governor or the railroad already. It's out of his hands."

Sam smoked thoughtfully for a moment, and then said, "Somethin' keeps stickin' in my mind, Pearly. I can't get it out."

"What?"

"When Santee showed me the deed to the Rio Medio canyon, he asked me if I knew where the east boundary of the Ortega grant was. Where is it?"

"The Rio Medio canyon."

"But the words. What are the words of the old charter?"

Pearly thought a minute, and then said, "I can't say 'em exact. But it's something like 'the east boundary of said grant shall be three hundred varas at all points east of the river known as the Rio Medio'."

"You sure it says the river?"

"Sure. What else could the Rio Medio be? 'Rio' is Spanish for river."

Sam asked about the other boundaries then, but he wasn't paying attention to what Pearly said.

Then Sam asked a question which seemed completely irrelevant. "Drury ever had his land surveyed?"

"No."

Sam sat up, dropping his cigaret. "You mean, it's on the records just the way you told me?"

"Why not? The Ortega grant was here long before this was United States territory. It was here long before it was the Republic of Mexico's territory. It's been here since this was New Spain. Same boundaries, no bigger or no smaller. I don't reckon there's much sense in havin' it surveyed. The old Ortega charter is on file for any one who wants to see it." He looked over at Sam, sensing the excitement in Sam's voice. "Why?"

"I'll tell you tomorrow. In the mornin' we're goin' to ride out and take a look at this country."

That was all Pearly was able to get out of him that evening. Next morning, Sam was up and the fire was built before daylight. He went about the chores of camp whistling and humming, and Pearly, wondering at it, said nothing.

Breakfast finished, Sam said, "I'd like a look at the Rio Medio canyon, Pearly—the upper canyon."

"There's a posse out for us, son. We better hole up for a stretch."

"This can't wait," Sam said. "You comin', or am I goin' to do it alone?"

"You ain't goin' to do it alone," Pearly said grimly.

They saddled up and Pearly, again in the lead, headed east for the Rio Medio. They clung to the lower slopes of the foothills ready, in case they sighted riders to the south on the long slope to the Rim, to dodge back in the foothills. But Pearly had worked better than he knew in covering their tracks. The posse was still tangled up and baffled by the story of the tracks below the Rim.

GASOLINE ALLEY — SOWING THE SEEDS

Here's Advice for Girl Who's 'Not That Kind'

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We have before us a communication the theme of which repeats itself in our mail constantly. No better can we picture for you the character in said communications than by calling her the "I'm not that kind of girl."

Or, if a clearer negative of her is required, here she is reflected in Jane's letter.

"I don't understand why the men all get fresh with me, for I'm not that kind of girl."

Such a girl does everything in the world to invite familiarity. She acts coy. She is cuddly, and how cuddly! She grabs a man's arm at the slightest excuse or clutches his hand or fools with his coat lapel. Or she deliberally jostles against him. Everything to invite complications which she hopes then to resent with authority. Maybe she permits kisses, a number of them, and then when the man seems to be getting out of control she puts on her puritan act. We have a suspicion that when the young woman argues that she's not that kind of girl, she is getting a big kick out of the experience that prompted the argument.

Tell such a miss that she ought to stop and think about what she's doing and her big-eyed, innocent return will be that she wasn't doing a thing. None knows better what she's up to. DUMB she is in this day and age when her tricks are so plainly seen thru. Dumb she is not to be better organized about the young men in her life.

There are few situations that a girl can't cope with befofe dishonorable intentions are revealed. The clever miss today squelches advances with little ado in their earliest stages. She quietly disengages herself from encircling arms. She does it without fuss or ado, dramatics or censure. She moves casually away with, perhaps, a pleasing remark on her lips to help the young man keep face.

Yes, girls, if you are of the type chronically "misunderstood," it's you and your attitude, your conduct that needs checking up with the intention to find out what gives this wrong impression about you.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Few plays can make a defender feel as foolish as those that present declarer with the gift of a "free" finesse. At times, particularly when making a blind opening lead, it is difficult to avoid this horror; on most occasions, however, careful attention to the bidding will save the day. There was no excuse whatever for West in today's hand.

East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	4 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

West was tempted to double the four spade bid on his two defensive tricks, but restrained himself with the thought that South must have quite a freak to be able to bid it.

West opened the king of diamonds and East naturally followed suit with the deuce, since from his angle there was no possible reason for a diamond continuation. West, eager to follow orders but without the wit to figure out the proper shift to make, now led his top heart. Declarer chortled as he put up dummy's queen and ruffed poor East's ace with the three of trumps. The king and a low spade put dummy on the lead for the cashing of the heart king, upon which declarer discarded a losing club. South returned to his hand by ruffing a heart with an honor, drew the remaining trumps, and then conceded one diamond and one club.

Altho West could not be sure that the declarer was out of hearts, there was no earthly reason to lead a heart while dummy retained the spade ace entry.

We have seen what happened when South ruffed the heart lead. Now let us suppose that East had a five card suit and that South had a heart instead of one of his losing clubs. The same catastrophe would have ensued from West's shortsightedness. Dummy's heart trick would have been established before declarer's club ace was knocked out and, even tho declarer followed to the first heart play, he would then not have to lose any club trick whatever.

Obviously, West should have shifted to a club, not to a heart, for there would have been no earthly way for declarer to have avoided the loss of two diamond and two club tricks.

New York Philharmonic to Play Here on Nov. 21, 22

New York, March 25 (AP).—Seventeen concerts will be played on successive days when the New York Philharmonic-Symphony takes to the road Nov. 18. While the Philharmonic is playing in Chicago Nov. 21 and 22 the Chicago Symphony will be heard in Carnegie hall, New York. Frederick Stock and his orchestra will be making a tour of their own in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the orchestra.

Dr. Charles A. Blanchard Memorial Is Dedicated

A memorial bronze plaque in honor of the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Blanchard was dedicated yesterday in Blanchard hall at Wheaton college. Dr. Blanchard was president of Wheaton college from 1882 until his death in 1925, succeeding his father, the Rev. Dr. Jonathan Blanchard, founder of the college. The plaque faces a similar memorial to Dr. Jonathan Blanchard.

On the House

More and more women, as the newer houses prove, are of the opinion that a kitchen with a "place to sit down in" is a comfortable kitchen . . . a spot where you can drop down for an occasional snack, unless, of course, you have a separate breakfast nook or dinette . . . a desk with perhaps a radio and drawer space for a sewing basket.

Semi-Precious Gems Fashion 'Hit' Jewelry

BY REA SEEGER.

When a clever designer works with semiprecious gems the result is romantic jewelry with surprisingly low price tags for all the lovely combinations of subtle color and unusual composition. New jewelry just out is of this semiprecious quality. Even the names of the gems are intriguing. . . . Rose tourmalines, white sapphires, great square cut amethysts in the rings, moonstones clustered in necklace, bracelet and earrings, garnets, peridots of shimmering yellow green and the tawny gold of topaz have been exquisitely composed into symphonies of color.

All these pieces look like court jewelry. . . . Each piece is distinctively designed without duplication unless it is one of a set. Even then the outlines are different tho the gems are the same in color contrasts. All gems are set in sterling silver washed seven times with gold. The gold contrasts with the subtle shades of green, rosy pink, red or the soft old blue of the moonstones.

It's jewelry that will accent your most sophisticated dull black afternoon dresses to perfection, whether it's a single clip for necklines or a multicolored brooch.

Bracelets are barbaric chunky beauties. . . . One especially effective is widened in the center, and blazes with many small sets of yellow green peridots and white sapphires. The dusky gold setting is repeated in the twisted rope chains at the end of the bracelet. Rose tourmalines, white sapphires, and aquamarines make matching necklace, earrings, and bracelet or clips.

Most of the rings and earrings are used in quaint old fashioned rosette outlines. A few of the peridots, amathysts and topaz rings are the large oblong outlines set in either the dusky gold or the unusual "old silver" mountings. It's the most unusual jewelry of the year, every piece is made by hand and each piece an eye catching decoration!

Beets, because of a natural, rather hard texture, are one of the cook's most difficult vegetables. When they come to the table diced in solid little cubes, this texture problem seems accentuated. If beets must be reduced to bits, they may be eaten far more easily in a chopped condition.

"Baby" beets are attractive and not hard to handle whole, or cut in halves, and it seems to us that the larger beets taste best when thinly sliced. Buttered, thinly sliced beets, salted and peppered to perfection, are delicious, but thinly sliced beets in some kind of sauce often are even better.

Harvard Beets.

[Serves Four to Six.]

12 small cooked beets, sliced
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cornstarch
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup water or liquid from canned beets
3 tablespoons butter

Combine sugar, salt, and cornstarch. Add liquids and cook to a smooth, thick sauce. Add beets and heat thoroly in the sauce. Add butter. It is best to let beets cook gently for half an hour in the top of a double boiler so that the cornstarch in the sauce is thoroly cooked and beets will have time to absorb the sweet-sour flavor of the sauce.

DEVILED BEETS.

Heat 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons horseradish, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, 2 teaspoons sugar, and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Pour over sliced, cooked beets. This is enough for 3 cups of sliced beets. Horseradish may be omitted, or minced onion may be substituted. Cook onion gently until yellow in the butter, if it is used.

RUSSIAN BEETS.

Grind or chop cooked or canned beets to make three cups. Heat 2 tablespoons butter, blend in 1 tablespoon flour, and cook smooth with 3 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and pepper to taste. Heat beets in the sauce and add last ½ cup thick sour cream. Heat, but do not boil, and serve at once.

Beets Baked in Orange Sauce.

[Serves Six.]

12 beets sliced thinly
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup orange juice
3 tablespoons butter

Use small to medium beets. Peel while raw and slice into a greased casserole. Combine sugar, flour, and salt. Add orange juice, mix until smooth, and pour over beets. Dot with butter, or melt butter and add to the sauce. Bake in a 350 degree oven for an hour.

This sauce may be prepared, and cooked sliced beets may be heated in it on the surface of the range.

Baked Spiced Beets.

[Serves Six.]

3 cups sliced raw beets
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 tablespoons honey or sugar
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup water

Slice beets into a buttered casserole. Combine other ingredients and pour over them. Bake covered at 350 degrees for an hour.

The Catholic Anthropological society will hold its 15th annual meeting today at Rosary college, River Forest. The Rev. Francis P. LeBuffe will preside.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Tuesday, March 26.

Strong feelings of opposition today. All human relationships tend to come out with whatever they may possess of competition, aggression on the lower emotional level; on the higher levels, this is a rare opportunity for proper coöperations.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, from this to next anniversary, stirs new aspirations, which will affect relations with others and partnerships. Avoid overexpansion in financial interests. Danger: May 18-30, Sept. 30-Oct. 17, Feb. 18-26, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Excellent vibrations for progress with boss and those of other sex.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

March 26, 1940.

Use your analytical powers today and restrain impulses. Many rulers, generals, and financiers were born on an eight date [8, 17 or 26]. It is the number of authority, expansion, and executive powers. Those born on today's date have a year of introspection and retrospection in which they should review their past efforts and improve thru self-analysis so as to be ready for a big year in 1940. They must strive for justice for this is the keynote of those ruled by the powerful number eight.

Would you like to know what kind of a year 1940 will be for you? Send for your personal yearly, monthly, and daily guide.

New Symphony Called Work of Power, Beauty

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The fourth symphony of Ralph Vaughan Williams received its first Chicago performance at the Studebaker theater last night at the hands of Izler Solomon and the Illinois Symphony orchestra. It turns out to be a work whose importance can hardly be overestimated.

For in this symphony we have Vaughan Williams in his magnificent maturity. It is the work of a man who has lived a long and rich life, who has spent five decades perfecting himself in his art, who now has something tremendous to say, and who says it with an overwhelming simplicity and power.

As to the content of the piece, one can say only that it concerns itself with psychological states which have never before been exploited in just this way. The piece's cold fury alternates with a stern sort of lyricism and with what might be called—if there were such a thing!—a grave boisterousness. Yet the fury and the lyricism and the boisterousness are Vaughan Williams' own—not to be compared with the similarly named qualities with which other composers might deal.

Of the symphony's surface characteristics the most striking is its relentless economy of means. Everything is reduced to its absolute minimum. One feels the hand of a man to whom the mellifluous—the merely pleasing—the flowered bypath—are luxuries with which he can have nothing more to do. The symphony is imperiously single minded. Say what you have to say and stop!

There are passages—sometimes whole pages—which remind one of the fact that Vaughan Williams' early preoccupations included church modes, folk music, and the music of the madrigalists. Yet all of these idioms have been thoroly assimilated and bent to a personal use. The symphony is "modern," if by modern music is understood music which dares to be strident and jagged and cacaphonous when those qualities are necessary to a proper statement of what the composer is bent on saying.

The performance by Mr. Solomon and the orchestra was so good that the music stormed its way into a listener's consciousness without his being aware that it was being produced by 80-odd sawing and blowing men and women up on the stage.

Nathan Milstein's Orchestra hall audience of last evening found the great Russian fiddler in such fine form that it rewarded his efforts not with applause alone but with great emotional shouts.

Some of this was due to the splendor of the music, some to the excitement engendered by a dazzling technical display. For in a group of Paganini caprices Mr. Milstein did things with the fiddle that not a handful of living men can do. He went up the scale until the ceiling was reached and passed, yet kept his tone free from the slightest suggestion of a squeak. He did bravura passages at such lightning speed that only the beginnings of phrases counted in the rhythmic effect, yet the notes in between fell into place as naturally as pearls into a string.

Besides the Paganini, the program included a Vivaldi and a Beethoven sonata, the Bach chaconne, and the Glazounoff concerto. Arthur Balsam played accompaniments and piano parts.

Annual Orphans Outing Is Announced for Aug. 21

The 36th annual outing for orphans, crippled children, and aged persons will be held Aug. 21 in Lincoln park, L. C. Smith, president of the Orphans' Automobile Day association, announced yesterday. Preparations are being made to take care of 5,000 underprivileged guests from 40 institutions. Among the participating organizations are the Chicago Automobile Trade association, the Chicago Motor club, the Lions clubs, and Funeral Services, Associated.

Two Pretty House Dresses

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOUSE DRESSES.

With the bridal season around the corner of spring this is the time to think seriously of house frocks. Brides will want to make them and friends will want to make them as gifts to altar marchers. Two patterns today creates especially pretty versions.

Left, a model on princess lines with rickrack braid and buttons for trimming. The interesting shoulder yoke is trimming in itself, as are the pockets on the flared skirt. All the inexpensive cottons, dark or light, printed or plain, make up handsomely.

Right, a version with surplice, contrasting collar and cuffs, trimmed with ready made ruffling. The sash in the back matches the other trimming. The waistline points down into the skirt, which is moderately flared. The fabric prescription for the first frock holds true for this one.

Style No. 2784 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 2¾ yards of braid for short sleeved frock.

Style No. 3201 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with 1 yard of contrasting and 2½ yards of ruffling for short-sleeved dress.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin Dickinson of Memphis, Tenn., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Estelle, to John Joseph Corrigan of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Corrigan of St. Louis. The wedding will take place in May, and Mr. Corrigan and his bride will reside in Chicago. Miss Dickinson will be a transfer from the Memphis to the Chicago Junior league. She ruled as first Queen Isis of Osiris in the 1935 Cotton carnival and represented the Memphis Country club as princess in the carnival festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Lawrence Mills of Highland Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Ann, to Robert Alexander Gosling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gosling of Honolulu. The wedding will take place in the early fall. Miss Mills was graduated from Ferry Hall and her fiancé from Yale university.

Softness in Clothes and in Makeup Earns Compliments

When we congratulated a friend of ours on her extremely smart hat the other day she said: "It's smart, I guess, but that's what's wrong with it. Wearing it, when I approach a saleswoman she says: 'Yes, Madam?' In my other hats to date I have always managed to get 'Yes, Miss?'"

That's a little bit of humor we doubt if men could appreciate as women will. We all have had that kind of hat once in a lifetime, smart as can be, but just so severely smart it lopped off our fond illusion of youth with one fell blow.

We see a definite attempt, on the whole, with women to get away from the smart sophisticate in many departments. After all, the last court of appeal, man, has not been seen noticeably to genuflect before it, whether the supersmartness were of tongue or dress. We think of an acquaintance given to the hard, unyielding type of man-tailored suit and hat as severely designed, always in dark, uninspiring colors. Her hair, done expensively enough, goodness knows, was curl-plastered tight to her head.

For so nice a person, she had no right to look so formidable. Whenever she received a compliment it was about being "smart," and these weren't any too many. One day one of those so-called friends, whose words may prove kinder than her intention, told our acquaintance there wasn't a soft line about her. We met her the other day in a pinkish beige ensemble with light brown accessories and a devastatingly arranged veil. She was beaming. Twice already within an hour she'd been told she looked lovely, she confided. "No more ultrasmartness for me," she added. "I like 'lovely' so much better."

That's what we had in mind in introducing this subject today. If you want to be told you're lovely, you have to have that endearing appeal of softness. So don't be persuaded into the hard-lined hat or the hard material. Keep that word softness in mind and err, if you must, on its side rather than on the other.

CHICAGO AIRMEN FEAR HAZARDS IN NEW POWER LINE

Expect Heavy Voltage to Void Flying Beam.

Aeronautical authorities in Chicago are concerned over plans of the Commonwealth Edison company to install a new 220,000 volt power line along a route where, they contend, it may interfere with reception of the Chicago radio beam by airplane pilots. They also believe it may become a hazard to all flying off Chicago airport, it was disclosed yesterday.

The power to be carried on the new line is much greater than that of the usual high tension line. It is to pass within a quarter of a mile of the Chicago radio beam transmitter. It is believed that power leakage from the lines, particularly in rainy or foggy weather, will create a static zone that may block reception of the beam signals as airplanes approach the field.

Reluctant Approval Given.

Edison engineers have held a score of conferences with representatives of the city, the Civil Aeronautics authority, air line pilots, air line operators, and private flyers in the last few days. The company intends to proceed with its building program, the plans for which are 10 years old, and a reluctant approval has been given.

No direct efforts have been made to block the program because the power company has full legal rights to erect the line. Property has been acquired and the Edison company now is waiting final approval by the war department before beginning construction work. The war department's sanction is needed because the line will twice cross navigable waters—the canal.

A. H. Wait of Chicago, regional airport engineer for the C. A. A., yesterday filed a memorandum with the engineers corps of the war department, stating that the authority could not prevent the line's installation. Wait's memorandum suggested that the company be directed to construct the line so that there would be a minimum of radio interference, and to light all the radio towers near the airport.

Studies are Recommended.

In the memorandum it also was suggested that further studies be made after the installation of the power lines. Wait suggested that the company should agree to make any reasonable changes or alterations in the installation at a later date if these were found to be desirable.

M. S. Oldacre, equipment and research engineer for the Edison company, yesterday promised Wait that this would be done. Oldacre has said that the line will have the best insulation of any line carrying similar power anywhere in the world. He said the steel towers, which will rise from 120 to 169 feet above the ground, will be lighted.

In the course of the conferences Edison officials said war department officials have urged them to complete the line by next October. They reported that the war department has asked that plenty of reserve power for Chicago be available "in case of an emergency."

Route of Line Traced.

Oldacre said the power is to be brought here from Edison Powerton station near Peoria. The line will run directly toward Chicago to a point east of Lockport, Ill., where it is to turn north and follow the north bank of the drainage canal to Cicero avenue. There it will jump to the south bank until it reaches the Crawford power station at 3501 South Pulaski road.

The height of the towers will not be as great a hazard as the possible radio effects, aeronautical men said. An explanation of this is as follows:

In conditions of snow, rain, smoke, or low clouds, when flyers must fly by instruments, they follow the radio beams to the beam transmitter station. As they pass directly over the station they encounter a zone called the cone of silence, where there are no signals. This zone acts as a marker, and they thereupon begin their glide toward the airport.

It is essential that the reciprocal beam just beyond the silent zone be followed exactly so that the airplane, when it pops out beneath clouds, will be headed directly toward the airport.

The proposed power line will cross the descent beam at right angles at a point within a few hundred yards south of the transmitter, and between the transmitter and the airport. If there is a large amount of power leakage this will kill the beam signals entirely. Such a condition would virtually eliminate Chicago airport landings in difficult weather.

How 220,000 volt power line, which may be erected by Commonwealth Edison company, would interfere with radio beam by which airplanes effect landing on Chicago airport. Airplanes strike the radio beam at an altitude of 1,000 feet and after passing thru the silent zone begin a steep and swift descent. Officials fear the power line will create a static zone that may block reception of radio signals by the pilots.

ONE KILLED, ONE HURT AS C. & N. W. TRAIN IS DERAILED

One member of the engine crew was killed and another seriously injured late yesterday when the Viking, a seven car limited of the North Western railroad, inbound from Minneapolis, was derailed three blocks north of the Crystal Lake station in McHenry county.

The locomotive plunged down an embankment and overturned, killing the fireman, Louis Miller of Baraboo, Wis. The engineer, Thomas Conway of Baraboo, was scalded with steam. a severed coupling prevented any of the cars from following the engine.

All of the cars were derailed but managed to remain upright on the roadbed after bumping over the ties and tearing up a stretch of track. The passengers were jolted, but according to railroad officials only one, Mrs. E. A. Sorenson, 6101 Stony Island avenue, was slightly injured.

Railroad employés said the cause of the accident had not been determined. It was reported by some witnesses that the train ran thru a switch used to shift trains from the main line during construction of an underpass for state highway 47.

A story in THE TRIBUNE last Jan. 22 stated that Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, suspended managing officer of the Manteno state hospital, had been asked to "stop using the state-owned automobile assigned to the managing officer, and to buy his own gasoline." The implication that Dr. Hinton was [at that time] using a state-owned car, and state-purchased gasoline is denied by his family. Manteno hospital officials yesterday confirmed that he has not used such a car or such supplies this year.

TITO SCHIPA HITS HOT NOTE; GETS 45,000 HEATERS

Tito Schipa, operatic tenor, has title to 45,000 automobile heaters under a confession judgment in his favor which was signed yesterday by Judge Harry M. Fisher in Circuit court.

Schipa's attorney, Vito B. Cuttone, said the singer had lent $5,250 to Jose Swan of Los Angeles and Leo Swan of Chicago, owners of the Continental Automotive corporation, 231 South La Salle street. A 60 day promissory note, bearing court waivers, was secured by a conditional bill of sale on the heaters.

Cuttone said the note became due last Friday. The heaters are in a warehouse in Columbus, O.

BRAZIL CLOSES MAJOR PAPER IN SAO PAULO; VARGAS FOES SEIZED

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, March 25 (AP).—An authorized government source tonight said the newspaper O Estado de Sao Paulo, long considered the leading morning paper in Brazil's greatest industrial city, was closed today by order of the federal intervener, Adhemar Debarros.

[Reports in Buenos Aires said the closing of the paper was followed by the arrest of several of the "most prominent people of Sao Paulo," including the editors of the newspaper and nearly all of the Sao Paulo deputies to the national congress before President Getulio Vargas created the "new state" two years ago.

[Among those detained were said to be members of the Brazilian Democratic Union, composed of political parties opposing Vargas.]

CUBS' STREAK ENDS; LOSE TO ANGELS, 6 TO 3

EUROPEAN BOXERS DRILL ABOARD SHIP FOR CHICAGO

TRAINER KLAUS IS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PROSPECT

Predicts Victory by Ulderico Sergo.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD THE VULCANIA, March 25.—The European Golden Gloves champions, who are sailing toward the United States aboard the Italian motorship Vulcania, today began preparations for their matches with Chicago's representatives in the ninth annual International Golden Gloves show in Chicago Stadium on April 10.

Under the direction of Trainer Steve Klaus and European boxing officials, the fighters engaged in short drills. Trainer Klaus said the program will be stepped up as the boat nears New York.

Expect Sergo to Win.

Trainer Klaus and the officials today kept their eyes on Ulderico Sergo, the Italian bantamweight, who is making his fourth trip to the United States. Sergo, a former Olympic and international Golden Gloves champion, is counted upon for a victory over Chicago's 118 pound representative, who probably will be Jimmy Joyce of Gary, Ind.

Sergo earned his place on the European squad by his clever exhibitions of ring generalship in the Italian national tournament. He was eliminated in the semifinal round on a close decision, but officials wasted no time choosing Sergo after it was learned that Arturo Paoletti, the champion, could not make the trip to Chicago.

Eager to Avenge Defeat.

Sergo's first appearance in Chicago was in 1935 as a member of the Italian team which lost to Chicago, five bouts to three. Sergo was one of the three Italian victors, the bantamweight winning from Johnny Brown.

Sergo was born in Fiume, July 4, 1913, and has lived in that city ever since. When Sergo was born the town was part of the Austro-Hungarian empire, but it was seized by Gabriele d'Annunzio and legionnaires in 1919 and 1920 and held for Italy. Sergo today said he saw plenty of fighting as a boy and picked up quite a few tricks from d'Annunzio's hard boiled soldiers.

Gives Medals to Son.

Sergo said his parents at first were opposed to his boxing ambitions, but they later consented upon his promise not to come home too badly smashed up. Sergo has been to many parts of the world and always has returned home with medals and trophies.

These awards now are in the possession of his 3 year old son, and Sergo has promised Junior he will return to Fiume next month with a medal from Chicago after his bout with Joyce.

CHICAGO PREPARES

Chicago's Golden Gloves champions, who rallied to tie New York, 8 to 8, in the intercity matches last week, will start training Friday for the international meeting with Europe's title holders in Chicago Stadium on April 10. Sixteen fighters, two in each weight division, will report to Head Coach Johnny Behr for the opening workouts at noon Friday.

Coach Behr and his assistants, Paddy Kane and Freddie Caserio, plan daily sessions to reach the peak of condition for the Europeans, reported stronger than last year's squad which defeated Chicago, five bouts to three.

Two Defending Champions.

Paycheck Is in Shape, but So Is Mr. Louis!

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pompton Lakes, N. J., March 25.—Johnny Paycheck, challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight title, held a private rehearsal this afternoon for Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York athletic commission, and Dr. William H. Walker, commission physician.

When Paycheck had finished two rounds against Bob Fertig, smallest and least dangerous of the sparmates, the chairman declined comment other than to say, "We are only interested in physical condition. When the fighter gets into the ring he's on his own."

Dr. Walker had the facts, however, and since he also had examined the champion at his Greenwood lake camp an hour earlier, the figures are offered for comparison.

Louis Has Weight Edge.

Paycheck's pulse was 68. Louis' pulse was 71. The challenger's blood pressure was 132 over 80 (sistolic and diastolic, respectively). The champion's blood pressure was 118 over 70. To complete the record, Paycheck weighed 190 pounds and Louis 202 pounds. Paycheck will be 26 years old in June.

We must also report that Paycheck would not have boxed this afternoon except for the official visitors, that he made the best of the situation and that each of the two rounds was cut ten seconds short. Johnny will box again briefly on Wednesday, not because he needs contact work, but rather because it seems to be expected.

Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, moved into camp for its duration this noon. Harold Steinman, Paycheck's manager, has obtained films of the first bout between Max Schmeling and Louis, and Joe's fights with Tommy Farr, Bob Pastor, and Arturo Godoy. Paycheck will study these tomorrow in Pompton Lakes' Colonial theater.

At New Orleans, La.—Jimmy Perrin beat Al Reid [10].

Davey Day of Chicago, No. 1 contender, and Sammy Angott of Louisville, second foremost challenger, yesterday afternoon signed to meet in a 15 round bout for the lightweight championship declared vacant by the National Boxing association because of Champion Lou Ambers' refusal to defend the title against Day as required by the N. B. A. The match will be held in Louisville Derby eve, May 3. Lieut. Col. Harvey L. Miller, president of the N. B. A., yesterday morning announced the action against Ambers in Washington, D. C.

The association, which authorized the match, incorporated in its recommendation that the survivor must risk the title against the outstanding challenger within three months. The leading contender would be the winner of a 15 round event between Ambers and Lew Jenkins in Madison Square Garden May 10.

Dethronement of Ambers by the N. B. A. is believed to be the first of a series of moves aimed at breaking New York's monopoly on champions and championship fights.

Rand's Bid Fails.

Bill Rand, Chicago Stadium promoter, offered Day and Angott $3,500 each to meet in the west side arena April 17, but the bid failed to equal the one made by Vernon Franklin, matchmaker of the Sportman's club in Louisville. Franklin will pay the principals $5,000 each.

Johnson S. Mattingley, the Kentucky athletic board of control's one man commission, was present at the signing. So were Charley Jones, manager of Angott, who was unable to appear because of the illness of his wife in Pittsburgh; Sam Pian, representative of Day, and Davey.

Dempsey to Referee.

Mattingley predicted the contest would attract a $25,000 gate. It will be the first championship event held in Kentucky. Jack Dempsey will referee the encounter.

Day, who competed in the 1931 Golden Gloves tournament, and Angott will be meeting for the third time. The stocky Louisville slugger won the first battle in 10 rounds in the Stadium last Oct. 6 and Day emerged with the second decision in 12 rounds in the same arena Dec. 8.

DE CORREVONT'S TRIPLE AIDS AS N. U. GAINS TIE

Lafayette, La., March 25 [Special].—After two successive defeats to Louisiana State university, Northwestern's baseball team fought to a 4 to 4 ten inning deadlock with Southwestern Louisiana institute here today. The game was called because of darkness.

Two walks and two errors helped the Bulldogs score three in the first inning. Trailing, 4 to 1, after seven innings the Wildcats tied it up in the eighth on singles by Al Lustig and Hank Clason, a triple by Bill De Correvont, and a wild pitch. Score:

OLLE TANDBERG of Sweden, who will meet Cornelius Young of Chicago in the heavyweight bout of the International Golden Gloves show in Chicago Stadium April 10, may not be Joe Louis' successor as world's champion, but he is the best amateur heavyweight Europe ever has sent to Chicago. . . . We saw him whip Herbert Runge of Germany in Berlin two years ago with as fine a performance as you would care to see. . . . He won the European championship again last year in Dublin. . . . This is the first time he has been able to leave his employment long enough to make the trip to Chicago. . . . Young has established himself as the best amateur heavyweight in the United States by fighting his way thru the Chicago tournament and then defeating the champion of the New York meet. . . . So you know by this time that the windup bout of the international show will involve the world's two leading amateur heavyweights. . . . Taft Wright, outfielder obtained by the White Sox in a trade with Washington, was named after the late President William Howard Taft. . . . This is the perfect basketball scoring play outlined by Byron Bozarth, coach of the Granite City High school team which won the Illinois state championship for 1940: "Line up your center under the basket and station a forward on each side of him. Put the two guards beyond the free throw circle. One guard has the ball. He shoots. The ball goes thru the hoop. That's perfect." . . .

Add permanent jokes: waiting for the Yankees to collapse. . . . Ford Frick lists five National league clubs with an even chance for the 1940 pennant. . . . Jimmy Carroll, East St. Louis bookmaker, has lost money on the Kentucky Derby for the last five years, but he steps up this year with a 3 to 1 price on Bimelech and only six candidates under 30 to 1. . . . Dixie Walker, a true gentleman of the old South, amazed the Dodgers by reporting for training with a colored valet. . . . Three baseball writers with the White Sox recently were stranded at the ball park on the outskirts of San Bernardino, Cal. . . . The team's bus to the Pasadena camp had returned without them. . . . The authors hitch-hiked to the city and rode the rest of the way aboard a mail train. . . . Meanwhile they sent a wire to Jimmy Dykes which read: "We hope you finish eighth." . . . Dykes didn't mind the telegram. . . . He was too busy laughing about the bus that wasn't there. . . . Altho their Canadian rivals excel in most phases of hockey, Americans make the most efficient goal tenders, because of their baseball training.

Willie Hoppe beat Joe Chamaco, 50 to 49, in 43 innings.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Twenty-one years ago, in Cleveland's Moose hall, Tilford Denton, a 37 year old Kansas City billiardist, ran 17 points in one inning in the course of a 50 to 20 victory over Byron Gillette. That remarkable string stood as the world's record in three cushion competition until 1930, when Gus Copulos equaled it, firing 17 at Otto Reiselt.

Last night, in Bensinger's South Wabash avenue rooms, the same Denton, now 58 and the oldest man in the current tournament, met 33 year old Jay Bozeman, the speedy young man from Vallejo, Cal. When their match was over, Bozeman was the winner, 50 to 44, in 47 innings, but not until old Tiff had given a packed house the biggest thrill of the evening by duplicating that 17 of 1919.

Has One Big Inning.

Trailing, 11 to 2, going into the 10th inning, Denton batted down one billiard after another. He had dashed off 11 when he got the break that enabled him to prolong the string and the customer's cheers. On his 12th stroke, he tried an around-the-table natural, but the ball ran into what seemed to be a hopeless kiss. Instead, that collision sent the cue ball around four rails before backing into the third ball for the billiard. He then ran five more before missing a five cushion around-the-table effort on the 18th.

Bozeman came back to tie the score twice at 20 to 20 and 22 to 22, then sprinted out into a lead which finally sent him out of his half of the fortieth inning with a comfortable 45 to 34 advantage. But Denton promptly rattled off nine billiards in the next four innings. Tiff could bag only one more, however, while Bozeman was picking up the necessary five, the deciding three in the forty-seventh frame.

Hoppe Eludes Capture.

Denton's sparkling chain was not the only thriller of the night, for the final match nearly saw the capture of wild Willie Hoppe, the bad man of billiards and still a fugitive from defeat after 11 matches. William's 10 rivals have organized one-man posses day after day trying to bring him down. He had escaped eight of them at least once, and the ninth, Art Rubin, twice. Last night they sent out Señor José Chamaco, whose billiards are as unpredictable as the jumping beans of his native Mexico. José was the only man before last night's match who hadn't given chase to Hoppe.

And a wild chase it was, one that had the customers standing on their feet, for it seemed that at last Hoppe would be caught. But a scratch shot on the 50th billiard enabled William to make his getaway, 50 to 49, in 43 innings. This break came after Chamaco had ridden up to a 49 to 49 tie

Chicago Fives Await Arrival of Loyola Foes

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

St. Philip of the west side and Leo of the south, Chicago's representatives in the national Catholic prep basketball tournament starting tomorrow night in Loyola university gymnasium, today will keep a sharp eye for trains and automobiles carrying rival teams into the city. The Chicago quintets, having studied season records, probably will be equipped with yardsticks to measure the height of individual heroes on the out-of-town squads.

The Chicagoans also are aware of the speed and accuracy possessed by little fellows, but they are particularly interested in giant teams, such as Central Catholic of Fort Wayne, Ind., 1939 champion, which usually have had amazing success in tournament play. Both Chicago squads drew Wisconsin teams for opening round opponents on Thursday's schedule, St. Philip getting Superior Catholic of Superior, and Leo, Chicago champion, being paired with St. Mary's of Menasha. The Menasha team averages 6 feet in height.

Santa Fe Five Due Early.

The first out-of-town quintet to check in at the Allerton hotel headquarters will be St. Michael's Horsemen of Santa Fe, N. M. Eight players, headed by Coach Salvador Perez, will arrive in the city at 7:45 o'clock this morning. In addition to seeking the national title, the New Mexico champions will act as good will ambassadors for the Coronado Cuarto Centennial celebrations to be held in New Mexico, West Texas, and Oklahoma this year, and in Kansas during 1941.

The westerners, who won 28 out of 30 games this season, were awarded a huge gold trophy by the Centennial commission after winning the New Mexico title, and will wear the official Coronado emblem on their jerseys during the meet. The players

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 25.—The Cubs today became self-conscious upon learning that their seven game winning streak made them the leading major league exhibitionists in California and points east to the Atlantic coast. In this awed state, they placidly submitted to a 6 to 3 trimming at the hands of the Los Angeles Angels.

In an earlier encounter the Cubs defeated the Angels, 4 to 2, the held to four singles. They were not so fortunate today in the final outcome but they again hammered out four singles, three in the first inning and one in the sixth.

Cubs Quit Work Early.

The Cubs made three runs off Fay Thomas in the first inning, then subsided completely during the remainder of Fay's four inning term, not a runner reaching first base in the second, third, and fourth innings. Bill Nicholson's single and two walks formed the attack on Emil Kush in the last five innings.

The early Cub splurge started with a pass to Stan Hack, who made his first appearance of the year in a starting lineup. Mattick singled to center, Hack taking third. Barney Olsen fouled to Rip Collins after which Nicholson singled to right, scoring Hack and putting Mattick on third. Nicholson reached second after Gordon Donaldson fumbled his single. The runners held their bases while Dom Dallessandro was being retired on an infield tap, but both scored on Glen Russell's single to center.

Stringer's Hit Scores Two.

Charley Root retired the first six Angels in order but Lowery, first up in the third, doubled to left, paused while Bill Holm flied out, and went to third on Thomas' single to center. Paul Carpenter struck out but Eddie Mayo walked, loading the bases. Stringer singled, scoring Lowery and Thomas.

The Angels tied the score in the fourth, Root's last inning. Lou Novikoff opened with a triple off the left field wall and scored on Donaldson's single to center.

Chicago Lads Deliver.

The Angels went ahead in the seventh at Ken Raffensberger's expense. After Lowery had fanned, Holm, a Chicago boy, doubled to left and stopped at third when Kush, another Chicago lad, singled to center. Kush reached second on the throw in and Carpenter was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Mayo beat out an infield hit, Holm scoring, and Stringer's single to left brought in Kush and Carpenter.

The teams will meet again tomorrow.

CAGNI FLOORS ARON 3 TIMES; WINS DECISION

Philadelphia, Pa., March 25 (AP).—Cal Cagni of New York punched his way to a 10 round decision tonight over Milt Aron, Chicago welterweight, before a crowd of 8,000 in the Arena. Cagni weighed 151½; Aron 150.

Three times Cagni floored Aron—in the second, third and eighth. For a while in the fifth, however, Cagni suddenly lost his urge as Aron drilled a left hook to the head. Crowding in close Aron shot punches under the heart and when the round ended Cagni was nearly exhausted.

THEY'RE AT SEA!

RECORD ENTRY OF 1,401 RECEIVED FOR DOG SHOW

70 Trained Animals Listed in Obedience Classes.

BY BOB BECKER.

A record breaking entry of 1,401 dogs was announced yesterday for the International Kennel club dog show which opens Saturday morning in the International amphitheater. William Ogilvie, secretary of the club, said that althe the management of the show had not made a complete re-check of entries, that the 1,401 figure was assured.

Ogilvie also announced that 70 trained dogs have been entered in the obedience classes sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. This figure is believed to be a new American record for obedience classes in licensed shows. The Foley organization, which superintends the International show, said that the Detroit exhibition had 65 entries in its obedience classes and the Cleveland show had 60 trained dogs, but as far as is known no other dog show in the United States ever has received an entry of 70. Winners in these obedience classes to be held during the two day show will receive Tribune trophies.

The entry of 1,401 dogs is 136 higher than last year's total and 234 higher than the 1937 total, indicating the extent to which dog owners are supporting the Chicago show.

A preliminary to the big show will be held Friday afternoon when the amateur dog judging contest is held in the amphitheater. In this event young men and women between the ages of 14 and 21 will show their ability to judge pure bred specimens of four different breeds. A nationally known judge will give the entrants oral examinations and also watch them judge the dogs.

Winner to Get Ellis Trophy.

Contestants who come nearest to grading dogs according to the official breed standards will win cash awards and medals. The winner will be entitled to one year's possession of the C. Groverman Ellis silver trophy.

2d Chicagoan Enters Fifth Place ABC Tie

Detroit, Mich., March 25 [Special].—Rudy Boedecker of Chicago accounted for one of the important changes among the leaders in an afternoon of mild firing in the American Bowling Congress championships here today.

The West Ridge recreation bowler tabulated 1,839 to reach a three way tie for fifth place in the all-events. He carried over 638 from the five man appearance, added 597 in the doubles, and his 604 in the singles. His total equaled that posted over the week-end by Bud Rice, East St. Louis, and Vince Fowler, Chicago.

Edward Ceislinski and John Miller, Buffalo, reached ninth place in the doubles ratings with 1.223. Ceislinski carried on in the singles with 631 to take third place in the all-events with 1,881.

Chicagoans dominated the mass firing with eight singles series ranging up to Edward Damitz's 648, and four doubles totals from 1,145 up to the 1,183 posted by William Gardner and Gale Prescott.

Calling All Cars! Be on the Lookout for a Dognaper!

Tenafly, N. J., March 25 [Special].—Police and radio alarms were sent out today for apprehension of the "dognapers" who are believed to have stolen Galway Garry of Rosecroft Babette by Milson O'Boy II., Irish setter puppy belonging to the Knightscroft kennels. The puppy is valued at $1,000, and was being groomed for showing. Galway Garry disappeared late yesterday.

Europeans Drill at Sea for Chicago

in a special elimination tournament in Rome, Italy, last Wednesday, are now en route to America aboard the motorship Vulcania.

Two of Europe's champions, Eric Agren of Sweden, welterweight, and Egisto Peire of Italy, lightweight, are defending International Golden Gloves title holders. The coaches will greet the Chicago candidates for these weight assignments with reports of the Europeans' ring styles which carried them to victory last year. The lightweight candidates are Tony Ancons of Detroit, and Eddie O'Connell of Chicago. The welterweights are Savior Canadeo of Chicago and Anthony Jones of Springfield, Ill.

Tandberg Holds Interest.

The coaches also are particularly interested in the heavyweight position. Reports on Europe's Olle Tandberg, considered by boxing authorities as the greatest heavyweight in European amateur boxing history, have convinced the coaches that the progress of Cornelius Young and William Cowan, the towering Rockford boxer, will bear special attention.

The squads which will report to the coaches Friday are:

112 pound class—Harold Dade, Chicago, and Sam Stinson, Peoria, Ill.

118 pound class—Jimmy Joyce, Gary, Ind., and Roy Brown, Chicago.

147 pound class—Savior Canadeo, Chicago, and Anthony Jones, Springfield, Ill.

160 pound class—Joe Maxin, Cleveland, O., and Otto Stowa, Springfield, Ill.

175 pound class—James Richie, St. Louis, Mo., and Shelton Bell, Dayton, O.

ILLINI WIN ON HOME RUNS IN MISSISSIPPI, 7-1

Clinton, Miss., March 25 [Special].—The University of Illinois baseball team opened its southern trip with a 7 to 1 victory over Mississippi college here today. The Illini registered only four hits, but two of them were home runs, and these coupled with the generosity of Choctaw hurlers, who gave out 12 bases on balls, enabled the Illini to gain an easy triumph.

Adolph Gruenfeld, sophomore right hander from St. Mel's high school of Chicago, yielded only one hit in five innings and only two men reached first, one on an error. Score:

Illinois	000	040	102	—	7	4	3
Mississippi college	000	001	000	—	1	5	3

Batteries—Gruenfeld, Grant and Brewer; Kainer, Mills and McLeod, Alford.

INDIANS DEFEAT PHILS, 3 TO 1, IN 12 INNING GAME

Score Twice on Rookie Thomas Pullig.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 25 (AP).—A two run outburst off the delivery of Rookie Thomas Pullig in the 12th inning gave the Cleveland Indians a 3 to 1 triumph today over the Phillies.

The two runs broke a 1 to 1 tie that had existed from the seventh inning. The Phillies took a 1 to 0 lead in the fifth on Gus Suhr's home run, but the Indians tied it up in the seventh on a double and a single.

Philadelphia [N.]	000	010	000	000	1	7	0

Batteries—Pulford, Eisenstat and Hemsley, Hegan; Hirbee, Pullig and Warren.

RED SOX, 7; BEES, 4.

Bradenton, Fla., March 25 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox greeted Lou Fette with a five run barrage in the first inning today as they evened the intracity series by drubbing the Boston Bees, 7 to 4.

The Sox bunched 6 of the 14 hits they totaled against four Bees pitchers to drive Fette from the box. Denny Galehouse and Emerson Dickman of the Sox yielded nine hits, but kept them scattered until the latter took over in the fifth and gave the National leaguers half of their runs.

PIRATES, 5; ATHLETICS, 4.

San Francisco, Cal., March 25 (AP).—Arky Vaughan's eighth inning triple with two men on base today gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5 to 4 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics and their third victory in the five games between the two teams. Vaughan's hit tied the score. A pinch runner scored the winning tally after a long fly. Score:

GIANTS, 6; CARDINALS, 4.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 25 (AP).—The New York Giants piled a dozen hits off three Cardinal rookies on top of five St. Louis errors today and defeated the Cards, 6 to 4. The victory broke the Giants' four game losing streak.

The Giants gave Carl Hubbell three runs to work on in the first inning, and he responded by pitching 4⅓ innings of hitless ball. Joe Orengo broke the spell with a fifth inning homer and three more hits tied the score. The Giants sent in their second stringers in the sixth and, after dropping a run behind, won out with two seventh inning runs on three hits and an error. Score:

St. Louis [N.]	000	031	000	4	7	5

DODGERS, 18; TIGERS, 11.

Clearwater, Fla., March 25 (AP).—Aided, as usual, by the short right field fence and a brisk wind, the Brooklyn Dodgers poled out 16 hits—six of them home runs—to conquer the Detroit Tigers, 18 to 11, today. Joe Vosmik led the parade with two homers and a single, batting in seven runs. Peewee Reese also hit for the circuit twice.

The Tigers hit three homers, one by Hank Greenberg, but they never were in the argument after scoring three runs in the fourth to tie the count at 8 to 8. Score:

YANKEES, 12; BLUES, 2.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 25 (AP).—The veteran Monte Pearson and Rookie Marvin Breuer limited the Kansas City Blues to six hits as the world champion Yankees won their final game of the training season here, 12 to 2. It was a typical Yankee victory. Jake Powell and Arndt Jorgens clouted homers with the bases loaded to complement the pitching. Pearson yielded only one run and two hits in the five innings he worked. Score:

Kansas City [A.]	000	010	100	2	6	1

Burlington Junior College Five Whips Morton, 64-48

Adolph Kiefer added another world back stroke record to his list of swimming achievements last night, churning 100 yards in 57.2 seconds in the Chicago Towers club pool. This bettered his own recognized world record of :58.2 and his American record of :57.8, set three years ago, but never accepted as a world standard.

Kiefer's new mark was achieved on the first leg of the 300 yard medley relay during a dual meet in which he helped the Chicago Towers team defeat Northwestern university, 51 to 32. His opponent for the back stroke portion of the relay was Jerry Zehr of the Wildcats.

Kiefer later bettered his world record of 1:32.7 when he won the 150 yard back stroke in 1:31.6, but no claim for a new mark will be made, since the judges declared Adolph made an illegal turn.

The Towers club team won first places in seven of the nine events. Two of the winners' victories were accomplished by Otto Jaretz, national A. A. U. 100 yard free style champion, who swam 50 yards in :23.7 and 100 yards in :52.2.

DYKES GIVES HIS SOX—AND TONGUE A DAY OF REST

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 25.—Not a wheel, either mental or physical, turned today in the White Sox camp. The boys were told they could shift for themselves until tomorrow. They didn't even get the customary 8 o'clock breakfast call.

Furthermore, Manager James Dykes didn't even take the trouble to issue a few snippy remarks in the direction of Eddie [Lefty] Smith, whose pitching against the Cubs yesterday was on the slovenly side. Bill Dietrich, who like Smitty, is suspected of having taken his training too lightly, also was spared any harsh words.

They Need a Rest.

The real reason for Dykes sticking to his original holiday decree despite yesterday's defeat was that most of the men really were in need of some leisure time. They have been hopping around daily for several weeks on fields that have gradually become rock hard, there being no rainfall. This sort of footing is wearing on the legs.

The camp's record for the most protracted membership in the 1940 arnica squad belongs to Thornton Lee, the leftie, but he expects to turn in his card in the near future.

Lee's arm wasn't exactly strong when he pitched in the Major-Coast league all-star Finn benefit in Los Angeles March 10 and, altho he worked only one inning, it was enough to give him a setback.

McNair Shows No Improvement.

The only other upsetting item is the condition of Eric McNair's arm. It's been sore for two weeks and he had been permitted to make his own decisions on when he played. He guessed wrong by playing too often, and one throw has been enough to spoil whatever he might have gained by a day of rest.

The Sox will climb back into their sightseeing bus tomorrow for another trip to Hollywood, where they are scheduled to play the Stars of the Pacific Coast league. When they were over there last week the Chicagoans' pitching was handled so well by Orval Grove, Ken Reid, and Ed Weiland that the Stars produced only six scattered hits and no runs. So the same kid trio will work tomorrow.

In the first afternoon match Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia defeated Arthur Rubin of New York, 50 to 28, in 59 innings. The second matinée match was a real battle from start to finish, going 67 innings before Johnny Layton won, 50 to 49, over Jake Schaeffer. Welker Cochran beat Allen Hall, 50 to 41, in 38 innings, in the afternoon final.

HURRY IF YOU'D BUY THE YANKS; PRICE GOING UP

New York, March 25 [Special].—Out of the welter of rumors concerning the sale of the New York Yankees' baseball empire today came the fact the club holdings can be bought for $6,000,000 cash, but that the price may be boosted on April 13, when a government appraisal of the Jacob Ruppert estate becomes known.

This was learned from Byron Clark, attorney for the three women owners of the club, after new reports had the club going to a syndicate headed by Postmaster General James A. Farley and former Gov. James Cox of Ohio.

Weather Again Stymies $5,000 Greensboro Tourney

Greensboro, N. C., March 25 (AP).—The tournament committee and Fred Corcoran, P. G. A. tournament manager, decided today upon another one day postponement of the second round of the $5,000 Greensboro open golf tournament. An all day snowfall yesterday blanketed the fairways. The temperature was 8 degrees today. Ben Hogan and Clay Heafner tied in Saturday's round with 69s.

Paycheck Is in Shape, but So Is Mr. Louis!

idea of what will be expected of Paycheck Friday night when he faces Louis in the Madison Square Garden ring.

"Johnny is not going to rush the champion as he did Fertig this afternoon," Leonard said emphatically. "That would be foolish. He's going to use all his speed and agility, to give Louis a moving target, if any. We expect Paycheck to befuddle Louis, to jab and hit and move away."

When Leonard had finished we realized he had given an accurate plan of what would be required to whip Louis. It remains for Paycheck to demonstrate under fire how far he can carry out this prospectus. No one has denied that Paycheck lacks a stunning punch. Such critics as Sec Taylor, Des Moines, Ia., sports writer, who has seen the majority of Paycheck's fights in the last two years, testifies that Johnny is knocked down easily, but adds, "He gets up and fights all the harder."

All of which seems to add up to a knockout and Louis' successful defense of his title for the ninth time. In what round? That depends on how quickly Louis goes to work.

Paycheck is quietly optimistic. He is satisfied that he has an opportunity to win the heavyweight title. There is no question of his honesty and sincerity.

He is physically fit. Dr. Walker reported "reflexes normal" and even Johnny's "apostolic pressure," as Mushky Jackson, Mike Jacobs' court jester, calls it, met the physician's approval.

60 WILDCATS TO START SPRING PRACTICE TODAY

Spring football practice will start at Northwestern university today as Coach Lynn Waldorf greets a squad of 60 candidates, including upper class men and members of last fall's freshman team.

Coach Waldorf plans to devote the spring drills towards developing men to replace 16 letter men from last fall's squad who will be graduated in June. Eleven of the departing veterans are linemen.

Wes Fry, newest addition to the Wildcat coaching staff, arrived in Evanston yesterday and will be on hand for the opening practice.

2 Games Decided by One Point in St. Andrew Meet

One point victories in two of three games marked the opening of the St. Andrew invitational basketball tournament in the church gymnasium, Paulina and Addison streets, last night. St. Stephen's defeated St. Andrew's No. 2, 18 to 17 in overtime. Our Lady of Grace won from Ascension of Harvey, 16 to 15. St. Bernardine eliminated St. Andrew's No. 1, 26 to 16.

Pallatin Beats Bobby Britton in Marigold Bout

Tommy Pallatin, St. Joseph, Mich., welterweight, pounded out a decision in 10 rounds over Bobby Britton of Miami, Fla., in Marigold Gardens last night. Young Britton was unimpressive. It was his first fight in three months. The decision of Referee Joe McNamara and Judges Harold Marovitz and William O'Connell was unanimous.

Tom Johnson, heavyweight; Jim McCormick, 142 pounder, and Billy Eddy, lightweight, all of Detroit, won three supporting matches. Johnson defeated Frank Greene in five rounds. McCormick conquered George Kontopolis in four, and Eddy beat Gene Ward in four rounds. Eddy, member of the 1938 International Golden Gloves team, was making his Chicago debut as a professional.

Zale, Brown Sign Up for Friday's Bout

Tony Zale, Gary middleweight, and Ben Brown of Atlanta, Ga., appeared in the Illinois boxing commission yesterday and signed formal contracts for a 10 round bout in Chicago Stadium Friday. After the signing ceremony Zale, who will defend his No. 3 contendership, and the southern champion returned to Trafton's gymnasium to resume workouts.

Zale went five rounds against two sparmates and Brown sparred six with two partners. They will follow the same routine this afternoon, but tomorrow Tony will cut his drill to four rounds. Tom Concannon, trainer for Brown, said his Irish protégé would wind up boxing with six rounds tomorrow. Both boys will do light loosening up exercises Thursday.

Run in Parks Daily.

Meanwhile the rivals are hitting the road daily, Brown in Palmer square on the west side, and Tony in Lincoln park. When he first arrived Brown used Garfield park for his running, but because of the icy roads there he now is using Palmer square.

"We don't want to take a chance on slipping and turning an ankle," Trainer Concannon explained. "This match means a lot to Ben. He is determined to win it at all costs."

Hopes to Meet Hostak.

Zale's contract calls for a $2,000 guarantee and a privilege of 20 per cent of the receipts. The 22 year old Brown will collect $1,000. So will Norment Quarles, Henderson, N. C., lightweight, who meets Davey Day in a 10 round secondary feature. Day will be paid $1,750.

Promoter Bill Rand yesterday asked Chairman Joe Triner and Commissioners Sheldon Clark and James R. Fitzpatrick of the Illinois boxing board what Quarles' status would be if the fighter from North Carolina scored an upset over Day.

The commissioners said Day, matched to meet Sammy Angott in Louisville on Kentucky Derby eve, May 3, to succeed Lou Ambers as lightweight champion, would lose his place as No. 1 contender if such an event came to pass.

BRUINS, RANGERS RESUME SERIES IN GAME TONIGHT

New Yorkers Hope to Even Semi-Final Playoff.

New York, March 25 (AP).—The Boston Bruins and New York Rangers renew their National Hockey league playoff feud on Madison Square Garden's ice tomorrow night with Lester Patrick's Rangers very much in need of victory to stay in the running for the Stanley cup.

After taking the opening game between the league's two top ranking sextets on the Garden ice, the Rangers proceeded to drop two in Boston to the fast skating, hard checking Bruins. The series is decided on best four out of seven basis with another game scheduled for Boston Thursday. The sixth contest, if necessary, will be held here Saturday and the deciding game, still if necessary, in Boston Sunday.

JACK CHURCH INJURED

TORONTO, Ont., March 25 (AP).—Jack Church, young defenseman who starred for the Maple Leafs in their opening playoff series against the Chicago Blackhawks, will not be in the Toronto lineup when the Leafs open their Stanley cup semi-final series against the Detroit Red Wings here tomorrow night.

Church, playing his first full season in the National league, suffered a three-stitch cut in his hip in the second game with Chicago. Regis [Pep] Kelly, who has been suffering from a heavy cold, is listed as a doubtful starter, altho he practiced with the Leafs today.

"Bucko McDonald will replace Church," Coach Dick Irvin said. "He will play beside Wally Stanowski, with whom he has never teamed. That's quite a blow, but it may be overcome partly by the fact that McDonald is anxious to get in a few wallops at the Red Wings, who sold him to us last winter. If Kelly is out he will be replaced at right wing by Nick Metz, and Murph Chamberlain will take Metz's place as utility forward."

"Cold is a Flavor Cheat
It disguises the true character of your beer"
—by RICHARD SEIBOLD, Meister Bräu Brewmaster

50° TASTE and COMPARE with The "50-DEGREES" TEST

So you'll get full enjoyment from the delicious flavor of beer . . . or can choose another beer you really like

I SEE a lot of people drinking beer so cold they can't possibly taste its true flavor. They don't seem to know that beer is not like some drinks—the colder they are the better.

If you want to know how a beer really tastes, drink it the European way—at 50 degrees. That's where true beer flavor shows up—good or bad. A lot of people already know this old brewer's secret of how to taste and compare beer flavor. And these are the people we make our beer to suit.

We could add sugars or syrups to the brew. But we'll never do it. We bottle with only natural draft beer carbonation created in the brew itself so Meister Bräu is naturally lively and sparkling, smooth and mellow.

Ask for Meister Bräu Draft Beer. Bars take special care to serve it at the proper temperature.

Do the "50-Degrees" Test. Then you'll get full enjoyment from beer flavor. And you'll know the brand you really like.

Phone your retailer for Meister Bräu and compare it with any beer—regardless of price. I'll stake my reputation on your verdict.

ACCUSE 14 MORE OF CONTEMPT IN STRIKE VIOLENCE

Court Defiance Charged in St. Charles Outbursts.

Contempt action was filed yesterday in the Kane County Circuit court at Geneva against 14 men seized in Du Page county last week after violence in connection with the strike against the St. Charles Manufacturing company.

Judge F. W. Shepherd.

The men, some of whom are striking employés of the company, are accused of violating an injunction issued by Judge Frank W. Shepherd on Feb. 15 prohibiting intimidation of loyal employés and damage to the company's property. They will be taken before Judge Shepherd on April 15.

Two Injured in Attack.

Four of the accused were seized on March 20 as the result of an attack on a company truck a week ago yesterday. Two colored men were injured. On Thursday another group of men halted a car in which Walter MacNeille, secretary of the St. Charles concern, and three employés were helping to convoy a truck. Ten men were arrested.

Charges of assault were filed against the 14 men in the Justice court of W. H. Johnson at Wheaton.

Continue Assault Cases.

When the assault cases were called yesterday they were continued until April 1 at the request of Attorney Frank McCarthy of Elgin, for the strikers, and Barnabas Sears of Aurora, for the company.

The strike at the plant was called on Feb. 8 by two American Federation of Labor unions, the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers, and Helpers and the International Association of Machinists. The company holds that it cannot negotiate with them because the two unions and an independent group have appealed to the National Labor Relations board, each asking exclusive bargaining rights.

MORE PLAGIARISM DAMAGES DENIED TO PLAYWRIGHTS

Washington, D. C., March 25 (AP).—Charging plagiarism, Edward Sheldon and Margaret Ayer Barnes of Chicago, playwrights, failed today in the Supreme court to obtain all the profits made by Metro-Goldwyn Pictures corporation from the 1932 motion picture, "Letty Lynton."

Chief Justice Hughes delivered the opinion that affirmed a ruling by the federal Circuit court at New York which awarded 20 per cent of the profits to the playwrights and 80 per cent to the picture corporation.

John W. Davis, New York attorney for the motion picture company, said the writers sought approximately $600,000, while the Circuit court awarded them aproximately $115,000, plus interest and costs. The Circuit court found that there had been deliberate plagarism of the author's play, "Dishonored Lady." The Supreme court declined to review this part of the decision.

Davis contended that most of the success of the motion picture was due to the stars appearing in it—Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery—and that it would be unfair to permit the playwrights to take all the profits.

SET UP CATHOLIC ARCHDIOCESE IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington, D. C., March 25 (AP).—With the blessing of Pope Pius XII., the District of Columbia today became, with other capitals of the world, an archdiocese of the Catholic church. The Most Rev. Michael J. Curley was named the city's first archbishop.

In a colorful Easter Monday ceremony in St. Matthew's cathedral, attended by the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States of America, the capital was separated from the archdiocese of Baltimore. Archbishop Curley will have jurisdiction over both archdioceses, with the title of archbishop of the archdioceses of Baltimore and Washington.

The archbishop, speaking at the ceremony, gave thanks to the pope for the elevation, and spoke out strongly against intolerance, saying there would be none in the new archdiocese.

He concluded with a plea that America keep out of foreign wars.

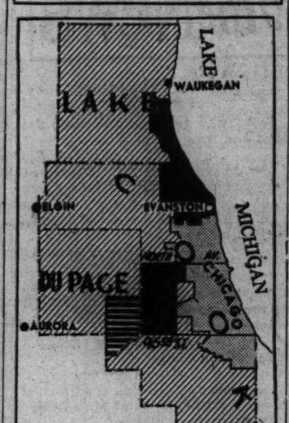
Mosquito Project



Status of WPA mosquito abatement project. Plans for new surveys in Lake, Du Page, and Cook counties have been approved.

Dr. Spencer S. Fuller, chairman of the Tri-County Mosquito Abatement committee, was informed yesterday that the Washington office of the Work Projects administration has approved a WPA project to find mosquito breeding areas in Lake, Du Page, and Cook counties.

The original project, drafted by J. Lyell Clarke, engineer for the Des Plaines Valley Mosquito Abatement district, and approved by the three county boards, called for the counties to spend $3,750, $3,100 of it in cash, as the sponsor's contribution. The WPA was to have provided $30,844 for men and truck rentals. This plan was revised in Washington, and the approved project now requires the counties to provide $9,615 and the WPA $28,319.

Dr. Fuller said he would send Clarke and A. L. Porter, field engineer for the Des Plaines Valley district, to discuss with P. C. Will, Illinois director of WPA operations, what arrangement can be made for the counties to provide additional personnel and materials instead of increasing their cash contributions. Last year the Cook county board voted to spend $2,000 cash, Lake county, $600, and Du Page county, $500.

EX-POLICEMAN TRIED IN KILLING IS FOUND DEAD

Walter Ford, a former policeman who was tried for manslaughter for shooting a tavern owner, died yesterday in his home at 4846 Haddon avenue. He was 43 years old.

He was found in a coma in a bathroom by his wife. He died without regaining consciousness. He had been ill for several years, and his condition became worse Saturday.

Ford, who worked out of the North avenue station, killed Michael Wujs in the latter's tavern at 4148 Division street last Aug. 1. He was acquitted by a jury on Oct. 18. His defense was that the shooting was accidental. The state charged he was drunk at the time. He was discharged from the police department a week later.

ARE WORDS 'OR ELSE' A THREAT? UNION DENIES IT

Hits Injunction Plea of Laundries.

The meaning of the tiny phrase "or else" became a center of controversy yesterday at an injunction hearing before Judge Grover C. Niemeyer.

The phrase was held by Morris K. Levinson, an attorney for the Metropolitan Hand Laundry Owners' association, to have sinister significance in labor disputes. Attorney Floyd Thompson, representing the Chicago Laundry Workers' International union, denied there is any implication of violence in the words.

Seek to Block Strikes.

The owners' association is seeking an injunction to restrain the union from threatening or intimidating members, and to prevent the calling of strikes against members who refuse to sign new individual contracts with the union calling for higher wages.

Levinson produced seven affidavits in which laundry owners said they had been approached on the new contracts and told to "sign or else."

Thompson, examining the affidavits, passed over this statement with a slighting comment: "'Or else?' What does that mean?"

Charges Sinister Meaning.

"In Chicago 'or else' has sinister significance," Levinson asserted. "In relation to labor disputes, we all know what 'or else' means."

Thompson countered with the statement that the words could refer to any natural, regular, legal development that might result from the owners' failure to sign.

Thompson contended the injunction suit is being supported by no more than 25 of the 500 members of the owners' association. He asserted 401 owners had signed individual contracts with no quarrel or dispute.

Judge Niemeyer, who made no comment on the "or else" debate, continued the hearing to Thursday.

CHICAGOAN RESTS AFTER 13 DAYS OF HICCOUGHING

David Kier, 71 years old, was resting easily in Michael Reese hospital last night with his third and longest attack of hiccoughing apparently under control. It lasted 13 days.

His physician, Dr. Morris W. Lev, said the hiccoughs stopped Friday after an injection of novocaine into the phrenic nerve controling the movement of the diaphragm. After 72 hours in which the patient suffered no recurrence Dr. Lev said the treatment seemed to be successful.

Dr. Lev also attended Kier five years ago, when his hiccoughing attack lasted only a few days. Some 13 years ago the patient had his first seizure, which lasted 11 days.

It has not been possible to determine what brings on the attacks. Kier is in the upholstering business and lives at 1622 South Millard avenue.

ENGINEER URGES TELEVISION BAND BE GIVEN TO F-M

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—A recommendation that frequency modulation, new static free radio technique, be granted the entire 40 to 50 megacycle segment of the radio spectrum was made today before the Federal Communications commission by Paul A. Demars, chief engineer for the Yankee Network of New England and advisory engineer to the F-M Broadcasters, Inc. The F. M. B. I. is leading the movement for additional allocations for the new radio system and its establishment as a regular broadcasting service.

Frequency modulation now has an allocation of one megacycle, from 42.5 to 43.5, in the 40 to 50 megacycle portion of the spectrum. Demars' recommendation, if granted, would involve taking over from television the first television band, from 44 to 50 megacycles, on which Radio Corporation of America and National Broadcasting company, its subsidiary, are carrying on their television program.

Demars presented an allocation plan for setting up frequency modulation stations on a basis comparable to the system of clear channel, regional, and local stations prevailing on the standard broadcast band today.

He reiterated the suggestion of Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong, inventor of the F-M system, that the new technique could make available a radio station for every town in the land. Thus, he said, the present pressure for facilities on the standard broadcasting band might be relieved.

James O'Connor.

HOSPITAL TESTS REVEAL GREAT DISCOVERY FOR CONSTIPATION

At last—here's an ideal, "daily" treatment for constipation with its headaches, mental dullness, fatigue and sallow skin.

Tests in a world-famous hospital have proved a "little daily dose" of Kruschen (world-famous formula, now at last obtainable in pleasant tasting "bubbling" form) actually produces nature's own gentle, pleasant, "daily" bowel movements by keeping the waste matter in the colon moist, soft and easy to expel.

Scientists report: "Kruschen can be taken for years without having to increase the dose." Also acts as a mild Antacid and Kidney Stimulant. Gives you MORE for your money, too! A jar that costs only a trifle lasts for WEEKS. Over 245,000,000 jars have been sold thruout the world. Kruschen MUST be good—it MUST do the work! Made in U. S. A.

How Comes in Pleasant Tasting "Bubbling" Form!

SUPREME COURT UPSETS PATENT PRICE CONTROLS

Termed Violation of Antitrust Laws.

Washington, D. C., March 25 (AP).—The Supreme court ruled today that patent owners may not extend their legal monopoly to control their products after they reach the dealers, and specifically may not impose restrictions that fix prices.

The case in point involved the Ethyl Gasoline corporation, but Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of antitrust prosecutions, said that it went "far beyond the oil industry" and was "the most important decision on the subject of the use of patents to restrain trade that has ever been handed down by any court."

The court agreed to decide the constitutionality of coal price fixing and made a number of other important rulings.

In a unanimous decision the court held that the Ethyl corporation was violating the Sherman antitrust act by its system of licensing 123 refiners to make antiknock fuel with its patented tetraethyl lead fluid, and in turn making the refiners license dealers.

Licenses Control Price.

The 123 refiners handle 88 per cent of all gasoline sold in this country. The licenses impose various restrictions upon their use of the fluid, one of which provides that the antiknock gasoline must be sold at a certain fixed price increase over other fuel. Jobbers are required to apply for licenses thru the refiners.

The decision, written by Justice Stone, said that these licenses went beyond mere protection of the ethyl patent monopoly and gave the corporation dominion over the jobbers' business and control of prices.

"By the leverage of its licensing contracts resting on the fulcrum of its patents," Stone said, "it has built up a combination capable of use, and actually used, as a means of controlling jobbers' prices and suppressing competition among them."

He added that this attempted regulation of prices and market practices of the jobbers, which the Ethyl company could not legally bring about by contract, could not lawfully be done by manipulation.

Price Regulation Proscribed.

Assuming that the company, as owner of a patent, could issue or withhold licenses to jobbers at will, the decision said, "It does not follow that it can lawfully exercise that power in such manner as to control the patented commodity in the hands of the licensed jobbers who had purchased it, or their actions with respect to it in ways not within the limits of the patent monopoly.

"Conspicuously among such controls which the Sherman law prohibits and the patent law does not sanction is the regulation of prices and the suppression of competition among the purchasers of the patented articles."

The justice department now is en-

Sears May Sell Its Employes Stock for $60

Stockholders of Sears, Roebuck & Co., at their annual meeting in New York on April 29, will vote on the establishment of a sixth employes' stock purchase plan which would permit employés of the company and its subsidiaries to buy 125,000 shares of capital stock at $60 a share, the proxy statement disclosed yesterday. The stock closed at $86.12½ on the New York Stock exchange yesterday.

Robert E. Wood.

Under the plan directors would grant employés the privilege to buy shares from time to time until June 30, 1945, the expiration date. A committee of directors not eligible for purchase would make the allotments. Proceeds from the sale of the stock would be used for general business purposes of the company.

Plan of "Immeasurable" Benefit.

"The board of directors," the company announced, "believes that the policy of encouraging and enabling employés and officers to acquire a proprietary interest in the company thru the purchase of its capital stock, particularly under such employés' stock purchase plans, has been of immeasurable benefit to the company and should be continued and enlarged."

As of Jan. 31 a total of 374,829 shares had been paid for and delivered to employés and officers in accordance with the five previous plans. A total of 139,796 shares remained to be paid for and delivered under three of the plans. All but 1,243 shares were subject to existing stock purchase contracts.

Compensation of Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board, for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31 amounted to $73,078, the report disclosed. Thomas J. Carney, president, received $75,386, and Donald M. Nelson, executive vice president, $70,386. Directors and officers as a group were paid $514,932.

Officers Receive Stock.

Eight board members held stock purchase contracts under which 20,346 shares remained to be delivered upon payment, including 5,267 shares to Carney and 7,667 to Nelson. During the last fiscal year 7,073 shares were turned over to officers and directors, Carney received 2,733, and Nelson, 333.

Stockholders will also elect a board of directors of 16 to serve for one year. The nominees, all incumbents, and the number of shares of stock owned by each are:

James M. Barker, 7,451; Arthur S. Barrows, 4,327; Carney, 10,631; H. Wendell Endicott, 16,610; John M. Hancock, none; Gordon B. Hattersley, 3,035; Theodore V. Houser, 4,325; Fowler B. AUTOMOBILE DEALERS VOTE HEAVILY AGAINST CONTROL, TEST SHOWS

Detroit, Mich., March 25 [Special].—Automotive News today reported first returns in a straw vote on the Patman auto sales control bill indicated that members of the National Automobile Dealers association are voting heavily against the Patman bill and other federal legislation.

The Patman bill was given two votes, while 105 were cast against it. Three dealers favored federal legislation, while 104 voted against it.

Automotive News, a leading trade paper in the automotive field, polled members of the dealers' association and asked them to mark its straw ballot the same way they marked the association's ballot. The straw votes are unsigned. Balloting on the official poll will close March 30. No official results will be available until the poll is complete.

Automotive News said: "Since the straw ballots thus far hail from all sections of the country, metropolis and hamlet alike, the poll to date provides a significant cross section of dealer opinion, despite the fact that the number of votes received comprises a meager portion of the nation's 40,000 dealers."

OFFICIALS DIFFER ON BRITISH CUT IN COTTON BUYING

Washington, D. C., March 25 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull said today that the state department had received no word that Great Britain had decided to cut down purchases of American cotton. He added that no other department had received such word.

Other government officials said, however, that they had been informed Britain expects to reduce its purchases of the American product as a means of conserving foreign exchange.

Freight Runs to West Coast Cut a Full Day

Time for all railroad freight service between Chicago and the Pacific coast will be cut 24 hours, effective April 7, C. J. Whipple, vice president of transportation of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said yesterday.

Shipments to terminal points extending from San Diego on the south to Seattle on the north will be given sixth morning instead of seventh morning delivery, he explained. Saving of time also will be effected for other intermediate points in the Pacific coast and intermountain states.

Climaxes Long Fight.

This improvement climaxes a campaign of about 10 years to obtain better service on Chicago merchandise cars, Whipple said. Advocates of the sixth morning delivery persuaded railroads to change from eighth morning to seventh morning delivery about 8 years ago.

"While for several years shipments have been arriving at Pacific coast terminal cities via direct lines in ample time to make sixth morning delivery," Whipple said, "they have been held over to the next morning.

Chicago Interests Protest.

"This practice has occasioned sharp protests from those Chicago business interests who are in keen competition with Atlantic seaboard shippers who have been using the Panama canal with its lower water rates. Such competition renders it necessary that middle west shipping interests be accorded the best service attainable."

Transcontinental railroads establish the delivery time by an agreement among themselves to make it uniform for all. Two of the advantages of the new cut in time to Chicago shippers is the saving of interest charges on thousands of dollars represented in the merchandise and the acquisition of more rapid turnover.

German Films Get Larger Share of Slovak Market

Washington, D. C., March 25 [Special].—More than half the motion picture films exhibited in Slovakian theaters in the future will be of German production, United States Trade Commissioner Paul H. Pearson reported today from Berlin. This is in accordance with a new agreement concluded between the German and Slovak authorities.

STANDARD OIL OF INDIANA NET IS $34,142,642

Sperry Also Shows Earnings Gain.

Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Sperry corporation and several other leading companies in various lines of industry yesterday reported increased earnings for 1939.

Edward G. Seubert, president of Standard Oil, issued a preliminary statement showing 1939 net income of $34,142,642 after depreciation, depletion, amortization and federal income taxes. This was equal to $2.23 a share. In 1938 profit was $27,771,976, or $1.82 a share.

"Conditions generally more favorable, at least until the latter part of the year, were responsible for the improvement in profits for 1939," Seubert reported.

Includes Subsidiaries' Profits.

Seubert said the 1939 figure represented the consolidated amount earned by the company, including its share of the profits of subsidiaries, on a net investment of about $689,500,000.

He said other figures and a full report on the year's activities will appear in the pamphlet report which will be sent to stockholders about April 10. The company's annual meeting will be held at Whiting, Ind., April 25.

Sperry, manufacturer of aviation, navigation, and gunfire control instruments, reported its consolidated profit last year was $5,462,061, equal to $2.71 a share, compared with $4,961,398, or $2.46 a share, in 1938.

1939 Shipments Larger.

Thomas A. Morgan, president of Sperry, in discussing the company's business in his report to stockholders, said:

"Shipments of the manufacturing subsidiaries were almost 20 per cent larger in 1939 than in the preceding year. The company received substantial orders in the latter part of 1939, resulting in the orders on hand at the end of the year reaching a new peak, the real effect of which will be felt in 1940.

"To meet this increased volume, we are working extra shifts, leasing additional factory space and subcontracting certain types of work with other companies."

Columbia Gas and Election corporation announced its earnings for 1939 in a report which accused the Securities and Exchange commission of creating uncertainty which hampers expansion of the utilities industry.

Assail SEC in Report.

Philip G. Gossler, chairman of Columbia Gas, and Edward Reynolds, president, said in their report:

"Great uncertainty exists regarding future financing of ever-recurring construction of additional utility facilities because SEC policies under the public utility act of 1935 are as yet undetermined.

"The fact that the SEC has not decided whether Columbia's integration plan shall be approved also makes it impossible to forecast what action might be taken by the company's directors on the payment of dividends on the common stock."

Profit of Columbia Gas and subsidiaries last year was $12,083,222, equal to 46 cents a share on the common stock, compared with $10,230,747, or 31 cents a share, in 1938.

Value of British Pound Falls Again to 9 Year Low Level

The price of the British pound sterling plunged to the lowest level since 1931 at New York yesterday when the British government's new exchange control regulations went into effect. A drop of 2¾ cents drove the price down to $3.68¼.

The drawing indicates the shrinkage in the value of the British pound in terms of American dollars since the start of the war.

The pound involved in the New York trading is the unofficial or free pound, which under the new rules cannot be used in international trade to pay for goods bought from Britain. Buyers of English goods must now purchase sterling at the official rate of $4.03½.

This requirement greatly restricts the uses to which the unofficial pound can be put, causing the demand to dwindle and the price to fall. The free pound for many weeks has been cheaper than the official pound, and until the new rules went into effect, Americans and others had been benefitting from the use of unofficial sterling in international trade. The New York price of sterling has fallen about 25 cents in the last month.

The bottom price reached in yesterday's trading was the lowest since the pound was removed from its gold base in September, 1931.

Dealers said that aside from the functioning of the exchange controls, there was no new development to explain the renewed weakness of the pound. They said the volume of trading in sterling has become so small that small offerings or orders cause wide swings in the price.

The Canadian dollar eased in sympathy with sterling, and the French franc was weak, but currencies of the neutral nations were mostly steady.

REPORT PLAN TO LIFT CURB ON PLANE SALES TO WARRING EMPIRES

Washington, D. C., March 25. [Special].—The United States government has decided to relax its restrictions on the export of war craft in order that Great Britain and France may buy 500 or 600 of the latest and fastest models of American manufacture, it was reported tonight. This decision apparently was reached at a conference today between President Roosevelt, Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, and Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff.

Details of the arrangement are expected to be revealed when Woodring appears before the house military affairs committee Wednesday at the opening of its hearing on sales to foreign powers.

It is understood that the empires, under their $1,000,000,000 purchasing program, will seek only the fastest types of planes. Their demands thus far have centered on three models, the P-38, a twin engined single seater Lockheed pursuit ship, powered with Allison liquid-cooled engines; the P-39, known as the Bell Aircobra, also with Allison engines, and the P-40, Curtiss plane with a cannon which fires through the nose of the ship. All these models have been tested and have proved capable of speeds in excess of 400 miles an hour — in some cases considerably more.

Weekly Bill Offering Nets Treasury Par or Better

STOCK EXCHANGE BLAMES REALTY BURDEN FOR LOSS

New York, March 25 (AP).—Reporting it was in the red again last year, the New York Stock exchange today discussed its troubles as a Wall street landlord, blaming real estate for a major part of the loss.

In the big bull market years before the 1929 crash when brokers were making money hand over fist, the exchange expanded its real estate holdings in the downtown financial district with the idea of enlarging the trading floor.

The depression and shrinkage in trading completely changed the situation.

The consolidated net loss of the exchange and its affiliated companies amounted to $1,149,373, compared with a loss of $1,548,417 in 1938.

PITTMAN HOLDS TRADE TREATY PACTS ILLEGAL

Would Strip Power from President.

Washington, D. C., March 25 (AP).—Chairman Key Pittman [D., Nev.], of the senate foreign relations committee today denounced the New Deal's system of tariff making as unconstitutional. He declared congress should require that trade agreements with other countries have the approval of two-thirds of the senate before they become effective.

Senator Pittman.

Senator Pittman spoke as the senate calmly began debate on what had been billed—due to the eagerness of the administration and the determination of the opposition—as the big controversy of the session.

Seek Three Year Extension.

Pending was a bill to extend the trade agreements act for three years. Unless it is passed—it already has the approval of the house—the authority of the administration to reduce tariff rates in agreement with other nations will expire in June.

An exceedingly close decision on Pittman's plan is in prospect, one that may be swung by a shift in two or three votes. Pittman and others contend that only senate ratification can make the trade agreements act constitutional. New Deal spokesmen

LOANS
on the borrower's signature

A limited type of loan—$300 to $1,000—solely on the borrower's signature. It is of practical convenience for executives (senior or junior), professional men, and others who are in qualified borrowing circumstances.

We call this loan Self-Secured rather than "unsecured," "single name," "without collateral." For the borrower does give security when he gives his promise to pay—his word is his bond.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, March 25 (AP).—A few air transport company stocks and specialties continued their rising trend in today's market, but leaders generally sold at slightly lower prices.

Attempts at the start to get the list, as a whole, back on an upward course met with faint response and prices soon turned irregular. Spotty conditions prevailed to the close.

Traders kept commitments light, brokers said, in view of slack developments in the European war, the still cloudy business picture at home and lack of definite opinions regarding the domestic political outlook.

While enthusiasm was lacking for the majority of industrial issues, airliner stocks remained popular as further forecasts were heard of climbing traffic and earnings for these concerns.

Except for selected shares, activity was light thruout. Transfers totaled 594,990 shares, against 578,810 last Friday.

Loft, holder of a large interest in Pepsi-cola company, once more was the liveliest performer, getting up 1⅝ to a new high along with American Airlines, up 2¼; Pan-American Airways, up ⅞, and National Aviation, up ½.

Advances were also retained by Sperry, United Air Lines, Canada Dry, Brunswick-Balke, Briggs Manufacturing, Sears Roebuck and Texas corporation. On the downside were United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Lockheed, Curtiss-Wright, Kennecott, Western Union, Dow Chemical, Westinghouse, du Pont, and Johns-Manville.

New York Bonds.

New York, March 25 (AP).—Excepting a dip in some inactive foreign dollar issues, the trend was generally higher in today's bond market.

United States government loan offerings were scarce when buyers appeared for limited quantities of treasury maturities and prices were bid up as much as ⅛ point in one case before the order was filled.

Low yield corporate loans likewise were firm in light dealings. Ahead fractins to around a point were Pennsylvania General 4½s, Remington-Rand 4¼s, Standard Oil of New Jersey 2¾s, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube 4s.

Losers of a point or more in the foreign group included Uruguay 6s, Brisbane 5s, Norway 4s, and Canada 3s.

Chicago Stocks.

Four stocks—United Air Lines, Sundstrand Machine Tool, Chicago Yellow Cab, and Elgin National Watch—climbed fractions to new high price levels for the year on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Sundstrand fell back to close unchanged, but the tohers held their gains. Declines outnumebered advances thruout the list.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago Title and Trust stock declined a point and Continental Illinois eased a half a point yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Other issues were unchanged.

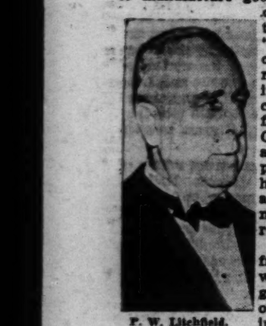
GOODYEAR HEAD CHARGES TAXES CURB INDUSTRY

Urges Share of Profits for Employes, Investors.

American industry has made efforts to manufacture goods economically, only to have the tax collector take "the lion's share" of any benefits resulting from increased efficiency, P. W. Litchfield, president of Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, told stockholders yesterday at their annual meeting in Akron, O.



P. W. Litchfield.

He said the fruits of progress would do more good if, instead of being absorbed in taxes, they were passed on to employés, investors, and consumers.

"Private initiative is being crushed under the weight of domestic taxes, and the total unemployment figure remains in the neighborhood of 10 million," Litchfield said.

Course Declared Wrong.

"No matter what one's political beliefs may be, the conclusion is inescapable that we are on the wrong course. The benefits of technological development passed along by industry to stockholders, employés and consumers undoubtedly would accomplish more for the common good than the prevailing policy under which such created wealth is taken and distributed by government."

Goodyear's domestic tax bill for 1939, Litchfield said, was equal to $472 for each employé, compared with $111 in 1929. He described the business outlook for the first half of 1940 as "reasonably satisfactory," but said domestic political conditions and the European war make it impossible to foresee what will happen in the latter half of the year.

Litchfield, who has been with the company 40 years, said there is little likelihood of any serious shortage of crude rubber. "However," he said, "there is just enough danger in the situation that national attention should be turned to the development of a source of rubber supply within the western hemisphere."

Reports Sales Upturn.

At a meeting of Loose-Wiles Biscuit company's stockholders in New York, Hanford Main, executive vice president, reported that the company's sales in the first two months of 1940 were larger than the volume for the corresponding period in 1939.

He said the price structure for the company's leading products has improved and that profits should reflect the change.

Last year's tonnage of sales exceeded that for 1938, Main said, but the dollar volume was smaller in 1939 because of an average decline of 5 per cent in selling prices.

He said the company has drawn extensive plans for improving its bakeries, and soon will begin work on a new bakery at Oakland, Cal.

Loose-Wiles previously reported that its 1939 profits were $1,084,065, compared with $988,074 in 1938.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of A. Stein & Co., Chicago maker of garters, suspenders, and raincoats, R. S. Donnelly was elected a director to fill the vacancy caused by the death of F. E. Perry. Other directors were reelected. They reelected all officers.

Vacuum Cleaner Sales Near Record in Month

Cleveland, O., March 25 (AP).—Electric vacuum cleaner sales rose to 144,373 in February, from 120,168 in January, and 112,322 in February, 1939, C. G. Frantz, executive secretary of the Vacuum Cleaner Manufacturers' association, reported today this was the second highest February in the industry's history, and the 16th consecutive month, with one exception, to show an increase over the corresponding month a year before.

Business Bits

The sixth annual chemurgic conference of agriculture, industry, and science will open tomorrow at the Hotel Stevens for a three day session. Authorities in the three fields will address the delegates.

Hempstead Washburne has been appointed Chicago correspondent of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Company of St. Louis. His office is in the Field building.

Robert S. King, formerly president of the Pennzoil Oil company, has been appointed to succeed George D. Crabbs as president of the Philip Carey Manufacturing company, roofing and building materials company at Cincinnati, O.

Roy W. Moore, president of Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., of New York, will address the Illinois Manufacturers Costs association tonight at the Hotel La Salle. Speaking on the subject, "Business Leadership," he is expected to emphasize the importance of good employer-employé relations.

Approximately 2,250 Shell dealers attended the opening session yesterday of the Shell Oil company's advertising convention at the Palmer House. The convention will close today. J. G. Sinclair, Chicago divisional manager, said that the company's 1940 advertising campaign was outlined to the delegates.

PLAN SUBMITTED TO REORGANIZE MAJESTIC RADIO

The Majestic Radio and Television corporation yesterday filed with Federal Judge John P. Barnes a reorganization plan to be considered next Monday. The company has been in bankruptcy since last October.

The plan provides for a new company of the same name and for the issuance of $165,000 of 5 per cent, 10 year debentures to provide working capital. Unsecured creditors would be paid in new preferred or common stock and stockholders of the old company would be given rights to subscribe to new debentures and new common stock.

Allied International Investing corporation and Automatic Products corporation, two of the largest creditors, would receive 150,000 shares of new common stock and would assist in underwriting the debenture issue, according to the plan.

American Brewers to Open Annual Convention Today

Between 400 and 500 brewers, including two from Alaska and one from the Panama Canal Zone, will open the two day annual convention of the American Brewers association today at the Palmer House. John D. Marshall, former mayor of Cleveland, O., now secretary of the Ohio-Buckeye Brewers association; T. Howard Kelly of the United Brewers Industrial Foundation, and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson are scheduled to address the delegates on Wednesday.

SUPREME COURT UPSETS PATENT PRICE CONTROLS

Calls License Violation of Trust Laws.

gaged in a campaign against alleged use of patents to establish restraints of trade. A case against the glass container industry is pending at Cleveland and another, against the composition hardboard industry, was filed two weeks ago in New York.

Grants Review of Coal Law.

The Supreme court agreed to review a federal District court decision sustaining the constitutionality of the 1937 national bituminous coal act, designed to stabilize the industry by price fixing.

Constitutionality of the legislation was challenged by the Sunshine Anthracite Coal company of Clarksville, Ark. It appealed from the adverse decision by a three judge District court at Little Rock.

The company contended the statute should not be applied to its product since it was anthracite coal. The bituminous coal commission has held, however, that the product should be classified as bituminous. Another contention was that the act violated state rights.

The three judge court held that provisions for establishing minimum prices, now supervised by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, were within congressional power.

Seeks to Avoid Paying Tax.

An excise tax of 19½ per cent of the sale price of the coal at the mine was imposed on producers who did not subscribe to a code regulating marketing. The Sunshine company started the litigation in an effort to escape paying $14,748 taxes imposed.

Congress passed the legislation after the Supreme court had declared unconstitutional a 1935 law on the ground that it was an invalid regulation of wages and hours of labor.

The department of justice failed to obtain a Supreme court review of a decision refusing to award the United States between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000 as interest on the value of oil and gas extracted by the Standard Oil company of California from the Elk Hills, Cal., naval petroleum reserve.

At the same time the tribunal refused to reconsider its action of Jan. 29 in declining to review a ruling that the United States, and not the Standard Oil company, has legal title to the land involved in the naval reserve.

Rules Sales Tax Invalid.

Justice Stone delivered a decision holding unconstitutional New York City's 2 per cent sales tax as applied to fuel oil sold by the Gulf Oil corporation for use on outgoing European liners.

In other actions today, the court:

Sustained a 1935 Oklahoma law imposing a tax on income received by national banks in that state from United States government bonds which had been made tax exempt by congress. This opinion affirmed a ruling by the Oklahoma Supreme court which held that the 6 per cent state levy was not an income tax, but a franchise tax measured by net income.

Returned to Minnesota courts for further action litigation involving constitutionality of a tax on chain stores graduated according to the amount of gross sales. Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Stone and Roberts dissented from the majority ruling delivered by Justice Douglas which said Minnesota state courts would have to decide technical legal questions arising under either state or federal law.

The Supreme court submitted to Illinois state courts the question of ownership of oil and mineral rights along the right-of-way of the Missouri-Illinois Railroad company in the Salem oil field in Marion county, Illinois. The court granted a railroad petition to have oil removed and the proceeds impounded until settlement of the ownership controversy.

The tribunal reversed a ruling by the Eighth Federal Circuit court that the railroad owned only a right-of-way for railroad purposes.

WILL HAYS ASSAILS FILM CENSORSHIP AS BLOW AT SELF RULE

New York, March 25 (AP).—Attempts at movie censorship were assailed today by Will H. Hays as "a scheme destructive of the very basis of free speech, a free press, the freedom of the air, or a free screen."

In his annual report as head of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., Hays cited facts and figures to support his contention that "the progressive social improvement of the screen is the result of self-regulation."

"The new censorship movement parades under the name of 'community selection'—except that self-appointed censors, not the community, are to do the selecting," Hays said. He added that what is now urged "thru misleading propaganda is really selection without the consent of the community." Hays declared that "dictation by even well-intentioned groups as to what pictures shall or shall not be shown in any given theater, not to mention dictation from groups with an ax to grind, would stultify the art."

REBATES BANNED AT KANSAS CITY FOOD TERMINAL

Kansas City, Mo., March 25 (AP).—A temporary injunction forbidding the granting of concessions, in the form of rebates, to persuade Kansas City, Mo., produce dealers to move to the new $4,000,000 food terminal in Kansas City, Kas., was granted today by Federal Judge Caskie Collet. Named in the order were the Union Pacific railroad, the city of Kansas City, Kas., and about 30 produce dealers.

The suit was filed by Maurice M. Milligan, United States District attorney, on behalf of the Interstate Commerce commission which charged the concessions formed rebates in violation of the Elkins act. Kansas City, Mo., and four railroads, the Santa Fe, Burlington, Rock Island, and Missouri Pacific became interveners. The four carriers are preparing to build new terminal facilities to serve the 80 year old public market in Kansas City, Mo. The Union Pacific serves the Kansas City, Kas., market.

Henry N. Ess, Union Pacific attorney, said the railroad had offered no inducements, but that Kansas City, Kas., had a right to offer concessions. Thomas A. Costolow, an assistant district attorney, contended that Kansas City, Kas., was "merely a front" behind which the Union Pacific financed the market and built it adjoining its own tracks.

$6,000,000 MEAD BONDS OFFERED FOR SALE TODAY

New York, March 25 [Special].—A banking group headed by Lehman brothers will offer to the public tomorrow $6,000,000 of 15 year 4½ per cent first mortgage bonds of the Mead corporation. The bonds, due on March 1, 1955, will be priced at 101 and accrued interest from March 1, 1940.

Proceeds from the sale, together with other funds of the company to be obtained from the sale to the First National Bank of Chicago of $2,500,000 of 3 per cent serial notes, will be used as follows: $6,085,040 for redemption on May 1, 1940, of the $5,851,000 of first mortgage 6 per cent bonds, series A, at 104, and $2,143,680 for the redemption of $2,112,000 of 4½ per cent collateral promissory notes at 101½.

RAIL SPOKESMAN DENIES TRUCKERS CHARGE ON TAXES

Insists Public Subsidizes Highway Carriers.

A railroad spokesman struck back yesterday at T. V. Rodgers, president of the American Trucking associations, who had accused the roads raising the subsidy issue as a screen to hide what he termed the shortcomings of railroad management. Rodgers cited tax figures to support his assertion that highway trucks and buses pay their share of road costs and are not "subsidized" by tax money, as charged by the railroads.

Public Realizing Trend.

"The public," said Johnston, "is coming to realize just how great are the subsidies furnished by taxpayers to operators of large and heavy highway vehicles. State highway authorities have found that the heaviest trucks in Illinois, with gross weights from 12 to 20 tons, are being subsidized by the taxpayers in the annual amount of $680 per vehicle. Similar investigations in other states have disclosed the same situation.

"Mr. Rodgers claims that trucks paid $417,000,000 in 1937 in 'special' taxes, while the tax bill of the railroads was about three-fourths of that amount.

Brands Rail Figure a Guess.

"The railroads in 1937 paid $350,000,000 in taxes. What the heavy commercial trucks paid I do not know. Neither does Mr. Rodgers. His claim of $417,000,000 is a composite of guess, conjecture, and estimate. It includes all trucks—the butcher's, the baker's, and the farmer's—and is not confined to the commercial trucking interests which he represents."

Week Day Trading Period for Potatoes, Hides Cut

Effective yesterday the weekday trading period in potato and hide futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange was shortened 90 minutes. Under the new schedule trading in potatoes and hides will close at 12:30 p. m. daily except on Saturday when the closing hour will remain unchanged at 11 a. m.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

An advance of 15 to 25 cents yesterday carried lamb prices to these highest March levels in three years. Top loads of old crop lambs sold at $10.65 per 100 pounds.

Demand was narrow for most steers and yearlings. Best longfed stock held steady, but others were weak to 25 cents lower.

REPORTS OF BAD CROP CONDITION PUSH WHEAT UP

1¼c Advance Recorded; Corn Prices Firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$1.06⅞	$1.05¼	$ .67⅝
Corn	.57	.56⅝	.47⅞
Oats	.41¾	.41¼	.29½
Rye	.68¾	.67¼	.41¼
Soy beans	1.12¾	1.12	.89½

Unfavorable reports on the winter wheat crop from a large area in the west and northwest brought the general public and eastern speculators into the market yesterday on a rather broad scale. Prices advanced about 1¾ cents to a new high since upturn, but the close was at gains of 1⅝ to 1¾ per cent.

Many reports were received indicating that the outlook for the winter wheat crop in parts of Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas was unfavorable. In the main these came from a territory where the grain failed to germinate last fall. Cold weather in many instances has stopped the wheat from growing and in other sections a hard crust of soil is said to have prevented the wheat from coming thru the ground.

Rain Badly Needed.

Abnormally low temperatures for late in March have prevailed in the winter wheat belt during the last week, and is causing much apprehension regarding possible damage. Owing to the unusually small growth made last fall, it is said the plant is in no condition to withstand alternate freezing and thawing weather. Rain is reported urgently needed in parts of Texas and Oklahoma, and moisture would be beneficial in parts of Kansas, especially where the soil has crusted over.

Not all the crop reports were of an unfavorable character. R. O. Cromwell with Lamson Bros & Co. inspected the wheat parts of Illinois and Indiana over the week-end, and said that altho the plant was smaller than usual, the condition appeared to be good, and he expressed the belief that there would be little acreage abandoned.

Ocean Rates Curtail Demand.

High ocean freight rates are said to be a factor in curtailing the European demand for Argentine wheat. It is estimated on the basis of current freight charges that Argentine grain would cost about $1.50 delivered at Antwerp, or 10 cents a bushel more than Canadian No. 2 northern.

Corn and other grains showed a firm undertone in sympathy with wheat. Corn and oats closed ⅝ to ⅜ cent higher and rye was 1¼ to 1¾ cents higher.

PAPER CUPS.

I notice that the dividend return on Dixie-Vortex common stock was about 7 to 8 per cent based on the current price of approximately $15 a share. The stock appears to be an attractive investment. I would like a report on the company's business. —M. H.

Answer: Dixie-Vortex company is the leading manufacturer in this country of paper cups and paper food containers. Of more than 500 separate products sold, cups account for the largest proportion of sales. The containers are used for ice cream, beverages, sodas, sundaes, water, potato salad, frozen foods, dog food, salad dressing, lard, cheese and other items.

Sales of paper containers increase with warm weather and are heaviest from May thru August. Changes in weather influence directly the consumption of paper cups and dishes used to sell ice cream and beverages.

Operating income depends largely on the cost of paper and glue, the two important raw materials used in making the containers. The company's plants are in Chicago, Ill., Easton, Pa., Los Angeles, Cal., Darlington, S. C., and Toronto, Ontario.

The company is capitalized as follows: 178,644 shares of $2.50 cumulative convertible Class A stock and 202,666 shares of common stock, both of no par value. There was no fixed indebtedness or outstanding debt according to the company's balance sheet at the end of 1939.

Consolidated net income, earnings per common share, and dividends per common share of the company in recent years follow:

1939 ..$513,476	$1.36	$1.50
1938 .. 375,527	2.11	1.50
1937 .. 950,522	2.48	2.00
1936 .. 734,099	1.42	1.00
1935 .. 856,200	1.62	1.00

Quarterly dividends of 62½ cents a share are being disbursed on the class A stock. The company's balance sheet showed that current assets at the end of 1939 totaled $3,178,705, or 4.26 times current liabilities of $745,284.

Dixie-Vortex was formed in 1929 as the Vortex Cup company and succeeded a business established in 1911. After its merger with the Individual Drinking Cup company, the present name of the firm was adopted.

WHOLESALE HOUSES.

What are wholesale houses in the investment business?—T. K.

Answer: Investment houses which concentrate their activities upon the origination of securities rather than on their sale to the public are known as wholesale houses. A few investment firms limit themselves solely to the wholesale distribution of securities. Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are outstanding examples of this type of wholesale firm. These houses buy securities issues from governments and corporations and form syndicates of other investment houses which will do the actual distributing.

PITTMAN BRANDS NEW DEAL TRADE TREATIES INVALID

Would Deprive Roosevelt of Tariff Powers.

argue the Pittman amendment would nullify the program. It is reported President Roosevelt will veto the bill if the ratification proviso is added.

Nevertheless, the discussion today was uneventful. There was but one incident to break the Easter Monday calm—a chair leg crumpled under portly Senator McCarran [D., Nev.] and spilled him onto the floor. Pittman went on talking as tho nothing had happened.

But before the Nevadan had his inning, Chairman Harrison [D., Miss.] of the senate finance committee, in charge of the bill, spoke briefly in its behalf. He argued that in principle it originated with Republican statesmen of a generation and more ago, and that it had worked to the benefit of American commerce.

Termed Aid Toward Peace.

"We have given the countries of the world a sound reciprocal trade policy," Harrison said. "We have given them an opportunity to trade with us and with each other on just and wisely established principles. It will be the greatest influence to preserve and promote rational international trade and the maintenance and preservation of peace."

Senator Harrison asserted abandonment of the program would "invite our foreign neighbors at the close of the war to begin another one. That will be a trade war," he said. "And let no one be deceived as to the magnitude of that trade war. Will any one deny that the result will be injurious to our economy?"

PROPOSES HOMES OF $2,500 TO END RECORD SCARCITY

New York, March 25 (AP).—There is a record shortage of 125 homes for each 10,000 families in the United States today, according to Bror Dahlberg, Chicago building supply manufacturer. Dahlberg, head of the Celotex corporation, told a gathering of security analysts today one quick solution of the mounting shortage was mass production of a $2,500 house for low income groups.

"The $2,500 house is obtainable without abandoning our present channels of manufacture and distribution," he said. "Present facilities are adequate if only brought up to date and efficiently employed. The $2,500 house is inevitable."

The ratio of families to available dwellings has been rising steadily since 1932, he asserted.

OUTPUT OF STEEL SLIPS AGAIN TO 60.7% OF CAPACITY

Steel production schedules this week thruout the country will reach the lowest level since Labor day week in 1939, dropping to 60.7 per cent of capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute said yesterday.

The decline from 62.4 per cent of the last week continued the decline that has been registered during the last ten weeks with one exception. Operations were at 65.9 per cent a month ago and 56.1 per cent a year ago.

Steel interests believe this week's operations have reached the low point of the slump and that the market will meet support.

OUTPUT OF STEEL SLIPS AGAIN TO 60.7% OF CAPACITY

Steel production schedules this week thruout the country will reach the lowest level since Labor day week in 1939, dropping to 60.7 per cent of capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute said yesterday.

The decline from 62.4 per cent of the last week continued the decline that has been registered during the last ten weeks with one exception. Operations were at 65.9 per cent a month ago and 56.1 per cent a year ago.

Steel interests believe this week's operations have reached the low point of the slump and that the market will meet support.
